FRIENDLY WAY TO BEAT THE HEAT

David Hax, 8, of Novato and his dog Tiny — who outweighs David — enjoy a daily ritual with ice cream cones. They doubly appreciated their tradition yesterday, when the mercury climbed to 105 degrees in Novato. The high in Marinwood was 109, a record for July 12 but below the community's all-time record of 114. It reached 101 in Woodacre, 100 in Tamalpais Valley and Mill Valley, 99 in Petaluma, 96 in San Rafael, 94 in Sausalito and a cool 78 in Bolinas. The forecast for today was hotter, but with cooling breezes possibly due to arrive tonight.

2 Planes Hijacked; One Safe

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Two heavily armed black air pirates held three stewardesses hostage today in a National Airlines passenger jet stranded at a tiny commuter airport in Texas. In another Wednesday night hijacking, a man calmly surrendered in Oklahoma City after taking over an American Airlines plane.

In Freeport, Tex., FBI agents and sheriff's deputies carrying high-powered rifles sealed off the local airport where the two hijackers were trapped with a $600,000 ransom paid by National. Authorities said the craft could not take off because of the size of the airport.

After the craft landed, the flight engineer was shot and wounded and the copilot pistol whipped. Both were hospitalized. Another stewardess escaped unharmed.

At about the same time, a gray haired man surrendered after he succeeded in obtaining a $200,000 ransom from American Airlines in Oklahoma City following the hijacking of an American 727.

In the National hijacking, a Federal Aviation Administration spokesman said the pilot of the first National craft the two black men hijacked while during a flight over New York jumped through a window to escape while the craft was on the ground in Philadelphia.

The two men then transferred to another plane with six crew members as hostage. The 113 passengers of the original craft were set free.

After the second plane landed in Freeport, the flight engineer was shot and wounded and the copilot was pistol whipped. Both were taken to a Freeport hospital.

In both cases passengers had been released and the crew held as hostages.

Both incidents began Wednesday night when the hijackers seized the planes and demanded parachutes plus ransom totaling in excess of $1 million.

The first hijacking occurred about 7 p.m. EDT as a National Airrlines 727 jetliner with 118 persons aboard was making its final approach to John F. Kennedy Airport in New York.

Two armed men, demanding three parachutes and $600,000, some of it in Mexican pesos, diverted the plane to Philadelphia where it landed while officials scurried about in an attempt to procure the money.

Less than two hours later, a man identified as Melvin Marvin Fisher, 49, of Norman Okla., commandeered an American Airlines 727 shortly after takeoff from Oklahoma City enroute to Dallas, federal agents said.

The man, who demanded $550,000 and parachutes, ordered the plane with its 50 passengers and crew of seven, to circle the Dallas-Forth Worth

San Rafael Gives In On County Park Plan

Holdout Ends In Surprise Announcement To LAFC

By JEFF GREER

The City of San Rafael last night ended its holdout against inclusion in the proposed countywide parks and open space district, and the Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission quickly voted unanimous approval of the district's creation. (Other local agency formation commission stories, page 37.)

Nearly 200 persons in the audience applauded San Rafael Mayor C. Paul Bettini and the commission action.

The vote cleared the way for the park district proposals to become "Measure A" on the November general election ballot. A majority vote will form the district.

Bettini electrified the audience when he announced that the council had held a special meeting half an hour earlier and voted 3-0 to drop its request for San Rafael's exclusion from the proposed district. He explained the council acted on new advice from County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney, that the city's holdout could kill the district.

County Administrator John F. Barrows, who also is executive officer for the agency formation commission, explained that unless the proposed district includes all territory within Marin, it cannot be governed by the board of supervisors. If the district served only part of the county, it would require a separate governing board —a concept flatly opposed by the supervisors.

San Rafael "has never" opposed the district, Bettini said, but the council had planned its own $2.25 million open space bond election.

Bettini said the council would decide what to do with the bond vote plans at its regular meeting Monday.

The special council session at 7 p.m. yesterday was attended by Bettini and Councilmen Lawrence L. Mulryan and John A. Miskimen. Councilmen Fred E. Jensen and Harry A. Barbier were absent.

Barbier, who also sits on the agency formation commission, was at Marin Civic Center for the commission meeting. Jensen, who had strongly opposed San Rafael's inclusion in the countywide district, could not be reached in time for the meeting, city hall spokesmen said.

Among many speakers at the LAFC hearing, only two opposed the open space district creation — Barrows and Winifred S. Frederick of Irate Taxpayers of Marin.

Barrows repeated his pre-

McGovern Running Mate Pick Near; Fund Plea Set

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — George S. McGovern inched toward selection of a running mate today, with close advisers unable to agree immediately on who he should be.

McGovern faced a 4 p.m. EDT deadline in his search for a vice presidential candidate acceptable to both the coalition of discontent which nominated him and some Democratic old pros who doubted he could beat President Nixon Nov. 7. Convention rules require that he submit his choice three hours before tonight's closing session starting at 7 o'clock EDT.

McGovern staff members and advisers, including actress Shirley MacLaine, sat around a conference table in McGovern's 17th floor penthouse for nearly two and a half hours this morning —with McGovern elsewhere in the suite — going over at least a dozen names of potential No. 2 candidates.

The meeting broke up without priority recommendation being agreed on, according to McGovern aides.

There was one firm no to the nominee —from Sen. Edward M. Kennedy. But Kennedy said he would fly from Massachusetts to the convention hall, once the speculation over No. 2 was ended, to endorse McGovern in person.

High up in speculation about veep possibilities were Rep. Wilbur D. Mills of Arkansas, President Leonard Woodcock of the United Auto Workers Union, Sen. Abaham Ribicoff of Connecticut, and Gov. Patrick J. Lucey of Wisconsin.

Mills, who earlier had said he could not share a ticket with a man he differed with ideologically, remained silent. But his

Parks Board Endorses Bike Path

The Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission yesterday endorsed preliminary plans for a cross-county bicycle trail from Civic Center to the Point Reyes National Seashore.

The proposed trail, which would be a joint venture with the Marin Municipal Water District, would use an existing pipeline easement over a substantial portion of the 22-mile route.

As outlined to the commission, the bike path would start at Civic Center, wind through Terra Linda on the Manuel T. Freitas Parkway and over the ridge into Sleepy Hollow.

From there the trail would meander cross-country to an old narrow gauge railroad right-of-way over White's Hill into Woodacre.

It would proceed along Mead ow Drive to the Forest Knolls area and pick up the railroad right-of-way along Lagunitas Creek through Samuel P. Taylor Park. It would then follow roadways to park headquarters at Bear Valley.

The water district has indicated it will help finance the estimated $200,000 cost of outright purchase of the easements but whether it will help in construction of the paved path is undecided.

Pierre W. Joske, director of parks and recreation, told the commission the preliminary studies of the path indicate an overpass may have to be constructed over Sir Francis Drake Boulevard at White's Hill to keep bicyclists away from the dangerous flow of traffic.

In endorsing the study, the commission sent it on to the county board of supervisors for authorization to begin more detailed planning.

In related action, the commission set priorities for expenditure of about $100,000 budgeted for bike path construction this year.

Paths with highest priority include the proposed route along Highway 101 over Alto

Beban Jailed Following High Court's Jury Report Rejection

Richard W. Beban, youthful member of last year's Marin Grand Jury, was jailed yesterday for contempt after the State Supreme Court turned down his appeal, but his lawyer said he will seek his release one way or another today.

Attorney Carl B. Shapiro said he probably will surrender the copy of the jury's report on Sausalito police which created Beban's predicament. But before that, he will try to secure Beban's release through a new writ he planned to file.

Shapiro said he would file a writ of habeas corpus in Marin Superior Court contending the grand jury that demanded Beban give up the controversial report is out of office so he can't turn over the report toit.

Beban was booked into Marin County Jail at 7:07 p.m. after the high court ruled Beban must turn over his copy.

The report — leaked to the press — was prepared in March by a grand jury subcommittee and said the Sausalito police were employing a quota system of arrests. Although the final report went further to recommend firing the city's three top police officials, an investigation into the leak was begun by the State Attorney General's office.

On April 11, Beban was subpoenaed to appear before the grand jury and bring his copy of the report and agenda of the meeting which dealt with the subject.

He appeared, but refused to

$2 Million Sea Cliff Restaurant North Of Muir Beach Proposed

Plans for a $2 million restaurant on the sea cliffs just north of Muir Beach were announced last night at a meeting of the Muir Beach Improvement Club.

The proposal, presented by Leslie Smith of the Miwok Corp., (developer of the Seascape subdivision in the community), was immediately rejected by the club, which represents about 51 of Muir Beach's approximately 200 adult residents.

"We're firmly opposed to any commercial development in or around Muir Beach," said Janet Stump, club president. She indicated the organization plans to fight the development in every way it can.

The land in question, a two-acre site over the hill from the seaside community, has been zoned recreation commercial for some time, she said.

According to Mrs. Stump, the club may ask the Nature Conservancy to purchase the restaurant site for inclusion in the Golden Gate National Recreation Area, or it may appeal to the county or state parks department to buy the land.

Leslie Smith, Miwok's Muir Beach representative, could not be reached today to comment on plans for the restaurant or on the community reaction.

In other business, the club elected Mrs. Stump to a second term as president. Other officers chosen were John Sward, vice president; Miriam Smith, corresponding secretary; Nancy Knox, secretary, and Vicki Winkelmann, treasurer.

The group also decided to change its meeting date from the second Tuesday to the second Wednesday. The club meets at 8 p.m. in members' homes.

Solid Waste Control Bill Signed Into Law Today

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California's techniques for disposing of its tons of industrial solid waste and mounds of garbage would be coordinated by a comprehensive statewide plan signed into law today by Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke.

Sen. John Nejedly, a Walnut Creek Republican who authored the plan, said a seven-member council created by the bill would establish a plan with which local agencies would have to comply.

"Nobody wants to be involved with garbage," Nejedly said in an interview at the bill signing ceremony.. "Garbage isn't like sex or anything."

But Nejedly said the bill prods local agencies into getting busy formulating their own solid waste disposal programs with the threat the state will take over their operations in five years if they don't come up with quality programs.

Solid waste —which includes household garbage and such things as metal scraps and refuse from fruit canneries — is frequently disposed of in sanitary landfills. But the Nejedly bill would encourage the council to come up with other, more

Fischer Sleeps Away Match

Fischer failed to show up for the game and an aide said he was asleep.

The forfeit give Spassky a 2-0 lead in the match. He needs only 12 points to retain his title while Fischer needs 12 1-2 to win.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Pressure On Dollar

LONDON (UPI) — Selling pressure hit the dollar today and major European national banks were forced to prop it up in early exchange market trading to prevent it from sliding below its "floor" price.

Financial quarters said the pressure was partly due to speculation in West Germany that European Common Market (EEC) countries may break away from their agreed exchange rates in relation to the dollar and "float" their currencies.

Guessing about further possible currency flotations to copy Britain's June 23 move has continued despite denials from European authorities that any such move was likely.

As the dollar turned down the pound also benefitted and jumped to $2.4505 from $2.4466 Wednesday.

Goldwater's Guess

IRVINE, Calif. (UPI) — Sen. Barry Goldwater, with whom George McGovern has been compared by some as an off-the-center presidential nominee, sees some similiarities between the conventions that nominated them.

And Goldwater says the outcome of the November election will be the same — McGovern will be badly beaten.

Irish Deaths

BELFAST (UPI) — Seven persons, including a retarded 15-year-old Catholic boy shot in his bed, died in continuing violence yesterday and today in one of the bloodiest 24-hour periods since a two-week ceasefire ended Sunday.

The deaths boosted the fatality toll in almost three years of violence in Northern Ireland to 428.

Agreement Reached

HONOLULU (UPI) — Negotiators for Hawaii's longshoremen and the stevedoring industry reached agreement last night on a new contract, following 15 months of sporadic talks and mounting fears of a devastating strike.

The announcement by federal mediator Reynold F. Hagist ended the fears that the International Longshoremens and Warehousemen's Union (ILWU) would launch a strike that could be a tough blow to Hawaii's vulnerable economy.

Representatives for both sides left the ILWU headquarters shortly before midnight, smiling and congratulating themselves.

Bernard T. Eilerts, chief industry spokesman, said "the agreement we have reached is a fair one." Terms were not disclosed.

Two Identified

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — Two men were arrested by Secret Service agents near Sen. George McGovern's hotel yesterday and charged with carrying concealed weapons.

The men were reported to be members of a black nationalist group called the Republic of New Africa.

The men told authorities their names were Alek Sonnebeyatta, 32, and Ahmed Obatemi, 33. Late Wednesday the Secret Service said Sonnebeyatta's real name was Wayne Harris Foster and Obatemi's real name was Jessie Dixon.

13 Die In Crash

SION, Switzerland (UPI) — Thirteen persons were killed yesterday and two others injured seriously when an aerial cable car went out of control, sped more than 2,000 feet down its cable at an estimated 60 m.p.h., and smashed into the station it had left minutes earlier.

Rescue teams searched the mountainside underneath the cable after witnesses reported seeing passengers leap from the plunging cabin. A police spokesman said nobody was found.

Nixon Meeting

SAN CLEMENTE (UPI) — President Nixon engaged in a bit of psychological warfare with Hanoi yesterday by holding a warm and friendly chat with the Soviet ambassador on the eve of the renewal of the Paris peace talks.

Presidential spokesman Ronald Ziegler said it was "only coincidental" that the meeting was held the day before the Vietnam talks resume.

This focus on the warm relations between the United States and Hanoi's chief military supplier appeared to be an effort to add some pressure on the North Vietnamese delegation to take a more flexible stand in the negotiations.

Meat Discussion

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz says increased imports of beef and veal should bring about a leveling of meat prices in August.

Shultz said it was "very heartening" that foreign producers which supply about 75 per cent of American meat imports estimated they could increase shipments over the next 5½ months.

Representatives of 12 meat exporting nations met yesterday with Shultz, Acting Secretary of State John N. Irwin II and other administration officials.

Innocent Plea In Assault Case

A 26-year-old Marin City man, charged after a brief feud between two families, has pleaded innocent in Marin Superior Court to a charge of assault with a deadly weapon and misdemeanor allegations of assault and battery.

A preliminary hearing for Douglas Goff was scheduled for Tuesday.

Goff was arrested June 13 after he allegedly fired two shots at Lynette Morgan, 24, of Marin City, as she fled in a car.

He was booked into jail, but posted bail and allegedly returned to the fray. Sheriff's deputies said he beat the woman until he was chased off.

Veteran Dies: 101

BOWLING GREEN, KY. (UPI)—A.M. Causey, believed to be the nation's oldest veteran of the Spanish-American War, died Tuesday night at the age of 101. Causey, who retired 25 years ago as a telegraph operator, often wrote letters to local newspapers commenting on current events.

McGovern's Wife Plans To Enter The Limelight

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—Eleanor McGovern had a say about her husband's choice of a vice presidential running-mate. If the McGoverns make it to the White House, she will have a say about plenty of other things.

The wife of Democratic presidential candidate Sen. George McGovern says frankly that she loves politics, wants to be first lady and wouldn't follow the recenttradition among presidential wives of keeping out of the limelight.

She says she would be the first first lady since Eleanor Roosevelt to hold news conferences and would pull no punches in them. She views the White House as a "powerful podium."

McGovern consulted her about the choice of his running-mate and there is evidence she has been in on other major decisions.

At 50, Eleanor McGovern is just under 5 feet, weighs under 100 pounds, fights a losing battle to gain weight and looks like Debbie Reynolds. She does yoga to stay in shape.

She thinks her husband of 28 years is "handsome and exciting—although he is balding and keeps losing his car keys." It makes her furious when she hears he lacks "charisma."

The McGoverns met at Dakota Wesleyan University and were married two months before McGovernwent overseas as a bomber pilot in World War II. Mrs. McGovern is a farm girl and was a champion debater in high school—something which has helped her when she campaigns for her husband.

She has done a lot of that, making many appearances solo, and will do more in the general election campaign.

The McGoverns have five children, including two married daughters.

Full Bomb Arsenal Is Used

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. warplanes are using a full range of non-nuclear bombs in the attempt to beat back the 106-dayold Communist offensive, military sources said Wednesday.

Sophisticated bombs rarely if ever used in South Vietnam now are being dropped regularly on Communist-held portions of the country, the sources said.

They in effect confirmed a Viet Cong claim that American planes were dropping chemical bombs in Communist-held Quang Tri Province. The sources denied, however, that the bombs were either "toxic" or "poisonous" as claimed by the Communists.

The only gas used in the bombs, they said, are standard riot control agents—CS1, standard tear and nausea gas; and CS2, a powdered, more potent form of the gas.

An off cial Air Force description of the bombs involved, code named BLU52, says each contains 270 pounds of the gases, which have long been used by U.S. forces in South Vietnam.

"After the bomb is released, the thin-skinned bomb case breaks open on impact with the ground, spreading its contents over a wide area," the description says. "CS1 will last for three to five days and CS2 will last for 30 to 45 days.

Military sources maintained that "tear gas bombs and other special munitions now being used in South Vietnam are employed only in Communist-controlled areas where it is believed there are few if any civilians."

Other specialty bombs include:

The CBU24 and CBU33, bombs packed with dozens of small bomblets designed to blow the tires off trucks and treads off tanks which pass over them.

The Gravel antipersonnel cluster bomb unit. According to a military manual, "Gravel can blow a man's foot off but will not blow a hole in a truck tire."

The M36 incendiary cluster bomb, an 800-pound weapon packed with 182 fire bomblets of World War II design.

The model BLU31 land mine, a blunt-nosed 750-pound bomb with a secret detonation device that delays its explosion until a heavy target, such as a locomotive and tank is nearby.

Laser and television-guided "smart bombs," highly publicized by the Air Force and Navy for their accurate, destructive raids in North Vietnam.

Quang Tri Fight Goes On, Enemy Has Escape Route

SAIGON (UPI) — South Vietnamese forces fought on three sides of Quang Tri City today and purposely left an escape route open to the city's North Vietnamese occupiers.

Military sources said South Vietnamese troops left the western side of the city open for a Communist escape across the Thach Han River. It would make the government's 16-day-old drive to recaptureQuang Tri City easier if the North Vietnamese troops can be surrounded and forced to use of the escape hatch.

The U.S. command announced 16 American advisers were wounded in South Vietnam in the past three days, 10 of them in the counter-offensive to retake Quang Tri City and two were missing.

The old imperial capital of Hue, 32 miles south of Quang Tri, was bombarded with 43 Soviet-built 122mm rockets today, killing two civilians and wounding seven. It was the first time Hue, 400 miles north of Saigon, had been hit since a week of shellingended last Saturday.

In a delayed report, the U. S. 7th Fleet announced today that gunfire from the heavy cruiser Newport News and the destroyers Shelton, Davis and Warrington off the coast of Quang Tri destroyed six tanks Tuesday near the city.

Off North Vietnam the same day, the destroyers Robison and Hammer reported blowing up one barge and damaging two others that were unloading supplies from a foreign freighter near Hon La Island, 65 miles north of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) separating the two Vietnams.

In the air war over the North Wednesday, the U. S. command said today, 60 U. S. B52 bombers dumped an estimated 1,500 tons of explosives on suspected Communist concentrations and supply caches. A command spokesman said a U. S. Air Force F4 Phantom jet fighter-bomber blasted a fuel storage area 35 miles northeast of Hanoi andabout 50 miles from the Chinese border.

Joins Nixon Camp

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Harry S. Flemming has joined the Committee for the Re-Election of President Nixon as special assistant to campaign director Clark M. MacGregor. He is the son of Arthur S. Flemming, President Eisenhower's secretary of health, education and welfare.

Man Jailed As Partner In $800,000 Skyjacking

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The FBI Wednesday arrested a 29-year-old Bulgarian airline pilot as a third conspirator in an $800,000 ransom attempt to hijack a Pacific Southwest Airlines jetliner.

Lubomir Peichev was arrested where he worked in a tool and dye shop in Oakland. He was brought before a U.S. Magistrate who set no bail and scheduled a preliminary hearing for July 21.

His alleged conspirators, also from Bulgaria, were killed by FBI agents July 5 as the PSA plane sat on the ground at San Francisco International Airport. One passenger was killed and two others wounded.

The dead hijackers were Dimitri K. Alexiev, 28, and Michael D. Azmanoff, 28. A torn sheet of paper on the body of Alexiev was the clue that led to the arrest of Peichev.

The FBI said the paper contained the latitude and longitude of an abandoned military air strip in a remote area of British Columbia.

The two hijackers had indicated they wanted to go to Siberia wih the PSA plane and the ransom money. However, it appeared that they planned instead to land at the air strip after dropping a pair of dummies to confuse anyone following their plane.

The FBI said investigation by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police disclosed that all three conspirators had been to the air strip June 25 and that Peichev flew there the day of the hijacking in a plane chartered at Campbell River on Vancouver Island.

He said at the time he was looking for real estate to develop.

Peichev and the pilot stayed overnight, the FBI said, and the next morningPeichev awakened the pilot and told him he wanted to return to Campbell River. The pilot said he appeared to be in a hurry.

The FBI also reported that investigation disclosed the three Bulgarians were friends and associates prior to the hijacking and had discussed a business venture.

Peichev spelled his name "Peitsched" when he first came to the United States in April, 1967. He had been in the Bulgarian Air Force and had worked as a pilot for Tabso Airline in Sofia. He later worked as a locksmith in Vienna.

After coming to the United States, he worked as a machinist, a mechanic and was the owner of a night club in San Francisco. He was married to Sheila Tierney in Somerville, Mass., in 1967, and the couple was divorced last September.

Smog Board Officials Blast Alioto For Expelling Feinstein

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SAN FRANCISCO — An officer of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District yesterday accused San Francisco Mayor Joseph L. Alioto of "a personal vendetta" for expelling San Francisco Supervisor Dianne Feinstein from the district board.

"This district needs help desperately, and it appears that a personal vendetta is being carried out at the expense of about five million people," declared the board's secretary, Mountain View City Councilman William R. Jelavich.

He acknowledged he was "very bitter and disappointed" at news yesterday that Alioto had named himself to replace Mrs. Feinstein on the board.

Alioto, however, who disclosed his decision late Tuesday, did not attend yesterday's regular monthly board meeting. Mrs. Feinstein, who ran unsuccessfully against Alioto last November, did attend and termed the mayor's action "small and vindictive," then resigned at the end of the meeting.

The mayor's action came one day before her scheduled election as chairman of the district board.

Jelavich said "it would be impossible, to be very blunt and honest, to expect the mayor of one of the major metropolitan cities in America to spend three or four days (a month) at this board level. I will watch anxiously to see the participation we get — we have had less than enthusiasm over the years from the city and county of San Francisco as far as representation goes."

He encouraged others to appeal to Alioto to reconsider his action.

Also sharply criticizing Alioto was former Sausalito City Councilman Wyman Hicks, attending his last board meeting because he did not seek reelection. He said the district was "on trial right now before the public. Either we can do the job or we don't do the job, and we're not in a mood to be trifled with or toyed with or made a political football. We must have sincere, dedicated people."

Hicks, who with Mrs. Feinstein and Jelavich has led the reluctant board for two years into tougher controls on pollution, cautioned, "There is a possibility that somehow it (the district) might run off in the sands. It's going to take a very strong, powerful determination by the directors who remain to keep it going."

Mrs. Feinstein warned that "unless this district makes changes and mutations, it is going to be exactly like the dinosaur — and simply die out. I think citizens that are concerned are going to seek other remedies. They are going to go to the state Legislature and other bodies if this district does not meet the needs for prompt action."

Bay Area Air Pollution Control District directors also:

OFFICERS — Elected San Mateo County Supervisor Robert B. St. Clair chairman, Santa Rosa City Councilman Gerald M. Poznanovich vice chairman and Jelavich secretary. The nominating committee had selected St. Clair as vice chairman and Poznanovich as secretary, but moved each up after Alioto removed its nominee as chairman, Mrs. Feinstein.

VIOLATIONS — Received staff report that notices for violating district regulations were issued last month against Big G Super in Sausalito, Scotty's Market in San Rafael, and Hacienda Convalescent Hospital, Hunt and Behrens Inc. and Ernie Altenreuther, all of Petaluma.

SECRET — Met behind closed doors to discuss what the top administrator, D. J. Callaghan, said was "some litigation," declining to say who was suing whom.

BURNING — Referred to the advisory council a plea by Napa County that agricultural commissioners in eachcounty be empowered to authorize open burning free of district jurisdiction.

MEETING — Scheduled their next meeting at 9:30 a.m. July 27.

Secret Balloon Lands In Denver

He put a note inside with his name and address and a secret code word, "sapping." He thought the balloon would just go down the street.

But Erick received a letter Tuesday from 8-year-old Georgie Hayock of Denver. "I found your secret balloon in a tree in my yard," wrote Georgie. "I didn't know a message was in the balloon until it popped."

The National Weather Service estimated Erick's balloon had traveled 800 miles at about 20,000 feet altitude.

Building Begins On Police HQ

Construction began yesterday on Larkspur's $60,000 temporary police facility in Piper Park.

The building is expected to be complete by September, said Harlan Barry, assistant city manager.

CANNON BEING READIED

While it won't shoot, this historic cannon has an honor place at Fort Point Museum in San Francisco. Touching up the cannon are Golden Gate Bridge painters (from left) George H. Forkner of Santa Venetia, Robert Gregonis of Rohnert Park and Orben Marple of Sonoma. The huge Civil War era relic, cast in 1866, was brought to the Bay Area from its original site guarding the Hudson River at West Point. Named a Rodman Gun, the weapon, weighing 22,000 pounds, was capable of shooting a 10-inch, 128-pound cannon ball three miles.

area but eventually permitted it to land at Oklahoma City.

The passengers on the plane in Oklahoma City were released by the lone hijacker.

For reasons not immediately known, however, he surrendered in mid-air. The pistol he was carrying was found to be empty.

In Philadelphia FBI agents refused to turn the money over to the air pirates until the passengers were released.

The National airlines flight with a crew of six was on its way from Miami to New York City when the hijackers ordered it back to Philadelphia fom where it had taken off less than an hour earlier.

"Bring a car with parachutes and the money in it to within 50 yards of the plane on the right side and then wait until we call again," the hijackers said in a message to the Philadelphia control tower.

After the plane landed within 100 yards of the main terminal the air pirates transmitted a warning "Get us another 727 immediately or something will happen."

The American Airlines plane was hijacked over north Texas on the Oklahoma City-to-Dallas leg of a cross-country flight from New York to Los Angeles.

The hijacker, described as elderly and nervous, permitted the plane to land at Oklahoma City then forced it into the air. After circling the area for about three hours the plane was notified by the control tower that the ransom was ready and the hijacker permitted it to land again.

The money was delivered to a specified place on the runway and one passenger left the jetliner to pick it up. Then the passengers were released.

The hijacker indicated he wished to fly north fom Oklahoma City saying "he wouldn't need much fuel."

Indian School Plans Advance

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A measure authorizing 10 pilot projects in Indian education in rural school districts has been passed by the Senate.

The bill by Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, would provide the three-year projects for children in preschool programs and in elementary grades through the fourth grade.

On a 28-3 vote, the bill was sent to the Assembly Wednesday.

Group Hits Joint Use Of Hamilton

Novato's airport study committee will recommend against joint civilian-military use of Hamilton Air Force Base in its report to the Novato City Council.

The committee voted 6-2 against joint use at its final session Tuesday, according to chairman Joseph A. Forest.

Committee members also proposed that the city place a measure on the November ballot to determine whether voters favor joint use.

The committee also recommended that the city undertake further study on alternative uses at the base.

Members of conservationist and homeowners groups provided the majority vote while John A. Trumbull of the Novato Chamber of Commerce and Richard Duste, operator of Marin Aviation at Gnoss Field, dissented.

Forest said nine members of the 15-member committee were present, and one, the representative from the base, didn't vote. Among the absentees were business representatives who haven't participated in committee activities, Forest said.

The committee's report will be presented to the city council July 25, but City Mgr. Charles A. Brown said it probably wouldn't be discussed because of a full agenda.

forward-looking methods of disposal — such as recycling — and to inform local agencies of these methods.

"Many districts don't know what disposal techniques are available to them," Nejedly said. "Now they would be getting input from this knowledgeable state board."

John Zierold of the Sierra Club hailed the Nejedly measure as a "good piece of legislation" in an interview and said it would dovetail nicely into another bill being considered this session.

That is a measure by Assemblyman Edwin Z'berg, currently awaiting a vote in the Assembly, that would set up a statewide environmental protection agency.

The Nejedly measure, funded by $228,000, will go into effect 90 days after the legislature adjourns this year.

New Group To Give 3 Plays

The Old Gough House Theater, a new drama group in Mill Valley, will present three plays this summer, the first premiering July 22.

Composed of several experienced Bay Area actors, the group will present "The Respectful Prostitute," by Jean-Paul Sarte and "Out at Sea," by Slawomir Mrozek as a twin bill on July 22.

One week later, the group will debut "A Hatful of Rain," writren by Michael Gazzo and directed by Robin Jackson.

4 Yanks Die In Week's Combat

SAIGON (UPI) — Four Americans were killed in combat in South Vietnam last week, a drop of 10 from the previous week, but South Vietnamese and Communist battle deaths both jumped 20 per cent.

The sharp increase in South Vietnamese and Communist casualties reflected the heavy fighting in the government counteroffensive in Quang Tri province.

The U.S. command said the four Americans killed between July 2 and July 8 brought to 45,810 the total number of U.S. servicemen who have died in South Vietnam since Jan. 1, 1961.

Water Lease Figure Reduced

The Petaluma Water Commission yesterday agreed to lease water property land to the Beffa brothers at a rate of $1,600 per year.

Commission secretary Kay Hagan said the two-year lease on the property now held by the Beffa family expires in December. Two years ago the family contracted for the use of the property for livestock grazing and have been paying $2,400 per year.

Mrs. Hagan said the commission recommended the lease be granted by the city council at the reduced figure unless other ranchers show interest and the lease can be put out to bid.

DISTRICT

vious statements that the county already had powers to assure preservation of open space, and opposed "a new layer of government."

Mrs. Frederick said the taxpayers group unanimously opposed the $24,000 expense of the election, and urged the commission to halt the district immediately. She argued that Marin already contains enough federal, state and local open space to provide 4.5 acres per capita, and that in recent years open space has increased 6,400 per cent while population has grown only 32 per cent.

Peter R. Arrigoni Jr., chairman of the county board of supervisors, led the parade of district boosters. He told the commission that the district would provide ftable, long-range programs and funding for saving open space both in cities and in the county.

Other supporters included Elizabeth M. Falk of the Marin County Grand Jury, Corte Madera Mayor Holmes S. Norville and spokesmen for the Homestead Valley Homeowners Association, Marin Alternative, League of Women Voters, Sierra Club, other homeowner groups and private citizens.

Commission Chairman Hugh E. Marchant soon said, "I'm not trying to limit debate... I'm trying to let the salesman come out in me which says 'when you're winning, shut up'."

Commission member Louis H. Baar moved approval of the district and Barbier seconded. The entire hearing took only 50 minutes.

Hill in southern Marin, a path fronting the Pacheco ranch property near Ignacio in Northern Marin and continuation of the path along Corte Madera Creek from College Avenue to the Ross Common in Central Marin.

The commission was told the Alto Hill project probably would be a joint venture with the division of highways and the Pacheco path a joint venture with the developer of that property — if developed.

The county's share for the three projects is projected at about half the total amount budgeted.

DEMOS

aides stood by at his hotel, dearly hoping the powerful congressman would be tapped.

Ribicoff, who made a stirring nomination speech for McGovern Wednesday night, disclaimed any ambitions for the vice presidency, saying: "I don't want to be No. 2 man to anyone."

While advisers haggled over who they thought the No. 2 man should be, McGovern worked on a plan to take his appeal for campaign funds to the American people.

He plans a direct mail effort designed to raise $25 million outside regular —and perhaps foreclosed —party channels.

Some of the men McGovern bested for the nomination, including Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington and Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama, remained unreconciled. But Wallace is at least reported backing away from the third party effort his aides had earlier called a growing possibility.

While the McGovern camp tried to consolidate its victory, President Nixon's operatives were already in Miami Beach attempting to cash in on antiMcGovern discontent.

Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton —a member of the Nixon re-election committee — said there was a "fertile field" of dissatisfaction which the GOP could work.

A prime tactic Nixon will use against McGovern in the election, Morton said, was to try to disprove McGovern "has a magic wand that can cure all the nation's problems."

The final official first-ballot vote was: McGovern 1,864.95 Jackson 485.65 Wallace 377.5 Chisholm 101.45 Sanford 69.5 Humphrey 35 Mills 32.8 Muskie 20.8 Kennedy 10.65 Hayes 5 McCarthy 2 Mondale 1 Abstain 9.7

In a living room crowded with kinfolk and confidants, McGovern watched his nomination on television under the heat and glare of television lamps recording the moment.

After 18 months, starting from nowhere, the candidate of discontent had won. His eyes shone bright with emotion. He kissed his sisters and his nieces and shook hands with the men, then went back to writing on a yellow pad with a felt-tip pen the acceptance speech he will deliver tonight.

But hostility remained from the old guard. On the convention floor, the die-hard supporters of Hubert H. Humphrey and Edmund S. Muskie cast their votes for the token candidates or for Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, a party warhorse, rather than go with the obvious winner.

Jackson and Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace remained unreconciled to the bitter end to a McGovern candidacy on a liberal platform—and so did Wallace's antibusing supporters and Jackson's labor supporters.

The votes of Illinois delegates who had ousted and antagonized Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley provided McGovern's majority. Illinois swelled his total to 1,728.35 votes, 219 more than a majority—showing how close it might have been had he not recovered 151 California delegates taken from him by the party's Credentials Committee.

Recreation Panel Special Session

The Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission will hold a special meeting July 17 to discuss the new bus shuttle service at Point Reyes National Seashore.

Seashore Supt. John L. Sansing will discuss the hiking trailu made accessible by the new service, the controversy over whether the bus will or will not stop at Santa Maria Beach and the prospects of public transportation within the park.

The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. in planning commission chambers in the Civic Center.

hand over the documents saying he didn't feel the premature release of the report was a crime. He said the subpoena was a "fishing expedition" by the attorney general's office relying on the jury's investigative powers.

Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court found him in contempt May 24, but that order was stayed first by the State First District Court of Appeal, then by the supreme court while they considered his appeal.

He was finally arrested yesterday at his home at 42 Arenal Avenue in Stinson Beach.

Beban, who has been publicly at odds with the jury, has insisted throughout the investigation that the jury was out to get him because of his politics and his long hair.

The jury took him off committee duties last October for conducting an independent investigation at San Quentin.

However, he said last month he would turn over the disputed documents if the supreme court turned him down.

Timothy A. Riordan, deputy attorney general in charge of the investigation, has said obtaining the only outstanding copy from Beban is only the first step in the hunt for the juror who gave thereport to newspapers.

Police Report Animal Killings

Two cases last week in which dogs killed domestic animals were reported yesterday by Marin sheriff's deputies.

About 30 geese, ducks, chickens and razbits at 2215 Oak Knoll Road in the Novato area werekilled by a pack of dogs about 5 p.m. Sunday.

At 3:30 p.m. last Thursday, a six-week-old colt was found tangled in barb wire where dogs apparently chased it and killed it on the Bolinas Ranch of Jessie J. Tacherra. The value of the horse was placed at $400 to $500.

Novato Museum Slates Opening

The Novato Prehistory Museum at Novato Creek Park will be opened to the public at 1 p.m. Oct. 1, according to Eugene S. Churchill, acting president of the Marin Museum Society.

Construction is expected to be completed and displays prepared by the opening date, Churchill said.

The museum will house artifacts from Novato's early years and provide residents with information about Novato's Indian heritage and early geography.

Tiburon Council Fills Vacancies

The Tiburon City Council has filled three vacancies on the city's planning commission and two vacancies on the parks and recreation commission.

The new planning commissioners are Bruce Ross of 1807 Centro West, John Dole of 1865 Mountainview Drive, and Harry Mathews of 20 Spring Lane.

The new additions to the parks and recreation commission are Mary Wilson of 215 Roundhill road and Gary Gray of 285 Cecelia Way.

Center Workshop Saturday In Novato

Directors of the Novato Human Needs Center will have a training workshop at the center, 1200 Grant Avenue, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, according to John H. Telfer, center director.

Persons receiving any public assistance or who are members of families living on less than $4,000 a year can present their viewpoints to directors at 2 p.m., Telfer said.

OBITUARIES

MRS. DOLCINI

Katherine R. Dolcini, 82, longtime resident of North Marin, died yesterday at a local convalescent hospital after a brief illness.

Mrs. Dolcini was born and reared in Petaluma and graduated from Petaluma High School. She also graduated from Hahneman Hospital School of Nursing in San Francisco and worked as a registered nurse for several doctors in Petaluma until her marriage to the late Arnold Dolcini.

Mrs. Dolcini made her home recently with a son, Arnold Dolcini, 6970 Red Hill Road, north of Novato.

She is also survived by two other sons, Earl and Peter Dolcini of Petaluma; three daughters, Marguerite Manthey of Petaluma, Ahita Googins of Novato and Ruth Seaton of Healdsburg; a sister, Mary Price of Vacaville; 25 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Requiem Mass will be offered Saturday at 11 a.m. at St. Vincent de Paul Church, Petaluma, followed by burial at Calvary Cemetery. Recitation of the rosary will be at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Sorensen Funeral Home, Petaluma.

ARTHUR CHILBERG

Private funeral was held yesterday for Arthur J. Chilberg of San Rafael who died Tuesday in a local hospital after a long illness.

A native of Portland, Ore., Chilberg was a retired dental technician. He retired to Marin County 30 years ago.

A veteran of World War I, he was a member of Marin Lodge 191, Free and Accepted Masons.

He is survived by a son, Arthur J. Chilberg, of San Anselmo, and a brother, Russell Chilberg of Spokane.

JULIA LEVERONI

Julia Leveroni, 88, member of a pioneer Novato area ranching family, died yesterday at a local convalescent hospital after a long illness.

Mrs. Leveroni lived at the family ranch, 3100 Novato Boulevard, west of Novato.

She was a native of Switzerland, moved with her family to Petaluma in 1902 and to Novato in 1910. She was a member of the San Rafael Italian Catholic Federation.

Surviving are two sons, Clarence and David Leveroni Jr., both of the family ranch; a brother, Ben Bassi of Petaluma; four grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

A Mass of the Resurrection will be celebrated at 10 a.m. Saturday at Our Lady of Loretto Church, Novato. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery, San Rafael.

Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Redwood Chapel Funeral Home, Novato. The family prefers that memorial contributions be to a favorite charity.

RUTH BROWN

Funeral was held today in San Francisco for Ruth Brown of San Rafael, who died Tuesday in a local convalescent home. She was 63 and had been in failing health.

A native of New York City, Mrs. Brown moved five years ago to Marin County from San Francisco. She had worked for an insurance company.

LAURENCE SMITH

Funeral for Laurence R. Smith of Strawberry, a salesman for a SanFrancisco paper company, will be held at 10:30 a.m. tomorrow at Russell and Gooch mortuary, Mill Valley.

Smith, 55, of 108 Belvedere Drive, died unexpectedly Tuesday in a Reno hospital.

Smith was employed by the Fulton Paper Co. and earlier had worked for the Sefton Tube and Can Co. in Portland, Ore., where he formerly lived.

Born in Missouri, Smith attended Webster Grove schools in that state, moving to Portland in 1950. He was a Marin resident for 11 years.

Surviving are his wife, Ellen; a daughter, Sandra Clark of Portland; his mother, Katherine R. Smith of St. Louis; a sister, Katherine Landwehr of Creve Coeur, Mo., and two grandchildren.

Burial will be in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael. Memorial contributions are preferred by the family to the American Heart Association.

Quentin Inmate Doesn't Show Up

A 24-year-old San Quentin inmate, enrolled in the work furlough program, didn't show up at his job in Oakland yesterday, then failed to return to the prison last night.

Joseph R. O'Brien, prison information officer, said a bulletin was sent out for Napoleon Sanford, 24, serving a six-months-to-life term for second degree robbery in Alameda County.

O'Brien said Sanford left the prison yesterday morning for his job as a bakery truck driver, then disappeared. He was to have been paroled Nov. 6.

Omitted Word On Veteran Story

An omitted word — "weekend" — in yesterday's Independent-Journal article on new rental rates for the Marin Veterans Memorial Building gave the mistaken impression that the board of supervisors had abolished all differentials between nonprofit and commercial users.

Both categories will be charged the same rates only on weekends. Monday through Thursday, and in some cases through Friday, nonprofit users' rates will be approximately half the commercial rentals.

ONE MORE JOB FOR U.S.

500 Million Signatures: It's Time To Move Along

By PATRICK CORMAN

The man who signs the checks for Uncle Sam in the western part of the United States has retired after 42 years in government service.

P. Edward Frowd, of 179 Elm Avenue, Larkspur, since 1958 has been director of the U.S. Treasury Department disbursing center at 390 Main Street, San Francisco. Every month, the center's 90 employees write and mail 2.5 million Social Security checks, paychecks for 150 federal agencies, and tax refunds for the Internal Revenue Service.

Frowd's signature appears on every one of those checks — 45 million last year. During his 14 years as director, Frowd estimates his name has appeared on 500 or 600 million checks valued at about $800 billion.

Frowd is in no danger of every being afflicted with writer's cramp — a machine stamps out a facsimile of his signature at the rate of 400,000 a day. He personally signs only about two checks a year.

Frowd has quit the Treasury Department, but he'll do one more job for the government. Next week, the 60-year-old fiscal manager goes to South Korea under State Department auspices. He'll spend two months setting up regional disbursing centers there.

It's not the first time Frowd has followed his job. He began his career as an 18-year-old clerk in the Census Bureau. He later moved to Florida, North Dakota, Wyoming, Puerto Rico, and spent several war-time years working for a now-defunct arm of the Treasury Department called the Office of Inter-American Affairs in Central America.

Looking back on his years inside a formidable bureaucracy, Frowd thinks his agency always gave the taxpayer the most value for his money.

"In spite of rising personnel costs, we reduced the price of producing a check. I wish our type of philosophy would catch on in other government agencies," he said.

Frowd in 1962 and 1970 won the Treasury Department's superior performance award for cutting costs and boosting productivity. In 1971, the department gave him its second-highest decoration — the meritorious service award.

Once the South Korea project is out of the way, Frowd is looking forward to long bike rides around Marin County with his wife, Margaret, and to spending more time at home. He has two sons. Kenneth, 19, is in the Coast Guard Reserves. Another son, Edward A., 23, lives in San Anselmo.

When he is home for good, Frowd says, the only checkbook he'll balance will be his own.

CHANGE OF PACE — P. Edward Frowd, an avid cycler, tightens a spoke on his metallic blue five-speed Schwinn bicycle as he prepares to push off on an afternoon's jaunt through Marin County. Now that he's retired from the Treasury Department, he'll have a lot more time to ride. His wife Margaret accompanies him on her matching bike.

Other Totals Reported By Candidates

Late committee reports on campaign expenses for the June 6 primary election yesterday brought Fourth Supervisorial District candidate Michael R. Peevey's total to $18,239.52.

Peevey topped the list for campaign expenses, in statements required by law to be filed with the county elections office. He will compete with Gary T. Giacomini in a runoff election on the November ballot for the seat from which Louis H. Baar is retiring.

The filing yesterday was by the "Concerned Citizens for a Better Government" headed by Rex Silvernale. The group listed its only outlay as $560 for daily newspaper advertising.

Other campaign statements included:

John M. McPhail Jr., elected to the Marin Municipal Water District Division Two seat, received contributions of $1,855 and spent $2,108.10 on his campaign; his opponent, Vera M. McPhail, received no contributions and spent $546.08.

Ronald T. Stafford, winner of the Division Five seat in a three-way race received $837 contributions and spent $2,374.75. Robert G. Anderson Jr. received $3,688 contributions and spent $3,649.25. Willard Arthur Hall failed to file a statement.

Candidates for the Ross Valley Sanitary District and Novato Sanitary District filed affidavits that they each spent less than $200 for election — except in the case of Joan Seminario and Roger Bockrath. The two, who ran unsuccessfully as a team for two Ross Valley Sanitary District seats, reported they received $272.50 in contributions and spent $269.33.

Flute-Music Theft

A flute valued at almost $500 and accompanying sheet music were stolen from the pickup truck of Franklin L. Albright of Rescue, El Dorado County, while the vehicle was parked at 130 Mountain View Road in Lagunitas between midnight and 6:15 a.m. Sunday, sheriff's deputies said yesterday.

Joint Action Needed

By BONNIE BARD

Southern Sonoma School and city officials agreed joint action will be necessary to avoid a classroom squeeze but last night found no ready answers to problems that growth may bring.

Representatives of the Cotati School District board, Petaluma Board of Education, Rohnert Park City Council and Cotati City Council wrestled for nearly two hours with the problem of coordinating residential growth with school facilities but raised more questions than answers.

The city officials heard that the two school districts have different problems. Cotati School board president Andrew J. Camozzi said his district will soon face a shortage of classroom space if the growth rate in Rohnert Park and Cotati continues unabated.

Petaluma school board President Arthur L. Lafranchi said his district's present problem was not space but a lack of operating funds. He said the problem could be solved by changing the method of school financing from other than property taxes and by leveling out the growth rate.

Rohnert Park city councilman Vernon P. Smith proposed a resolution be considered calling for developers to donate temporary portable classrooms or a maximum of $600 per housing unit to solve potential crwoding problems in the Cotati district. He said the two councils could also refuse to permit development that cannot be accommodated in existing schools without double sessions or other great inconveniences.

Cotati school board member Anthony J. Carbone, chairman of the city-schools coordinating committee, said the problem should be left to the committee to solve by meeting with developers.

Two of the major builders in Rohnert Park and Cotati, Harold J. Heers of Forhim Corp. and Arthur Condiotti of Condiotti Enterprises, said they had been working with the committee and would try to bring other developers into the discussions.

"We're fully aware of what the problems are," Heers said. "If we weren't concerned we wouldn't be here. Developers are not as irresponsible as some people let on."

Camozzi said he hoped the committee and developers could work out an arrangement for temporary classrooms so that students could be accommodated until the enrollment is sufficient for the district to be eligible for state aid to build additional schools.

At no time did the group consider a building moratorium in the two communities but all agreed that some control must be exercised on growth.

Maurice Fredericks of the Cotati school board told the councilmen that it is their groups' responsibility to control density and population. He said his district has changed attendance boundaries and increased busing to better utilize facilities but that continued heavy growth will cause severe problems for housing students.

The group agreed the problem could be better studied by the smaller coordinating committee in conjunction with developers. A recommendation from the committee would then be presented to each group for consideration.

Misdemeanor Charges Filed In Assault Case

Only misdemeanor charges of assault with a deadly weapon and battery have been filed against a 42-year-old man who allegedly beat up his elderly father in San Rafael last Thursday.

Stanley Charles Sprague was arrested after his father, 77-year-old Alwin I. Sprague, was taken to Marin General Hospital with multiple bruises after the incident at the Bermuda Palms Motel.

Fight Produces Only A Misdemeanor Charge

Only a misdemeanor charge of assault with a deadly weapon has been filed against a San Rafael man who allegedly beat up his roommate in a fight over a personal matter Monday.

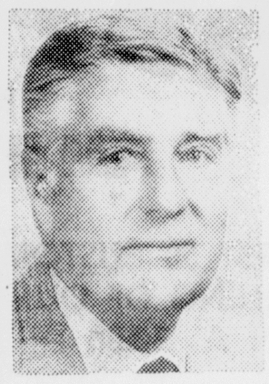

Thomas Carl Rates, 20, was arrested on suspicion of felony assault after the fight at 227 Paloma Avenue. Richard Strom, 49, was hospitalized with a fractured cheekbone and ribs plus cuts and bruises.

Belvedere Will Become Member

The Friends of the Marin County Free Library announced today that the Friends of the Belvedere-Tiburon Library have agreed to join the county group since its library is now part of the county system.

Mildred Bissinger, a member of the county group's board, said the group will hold its third annual book sale on Aug. 24, 25 and 26 in the College of Marin's Fine Arts Theater gallery.

The board is now meeting in the new regional library on Meadowsweet Drive, Corte Madera, she said, with the next meeting set for Sept. 11.

Novato Voters To Test A Personnel Ordinance

Voters in the Novato Fire Protection District will vote in the November general election on enacting a personnel ordinance, including a personnel commission for the Novato fire department.

Rex B. Harner, president of the Novato Professional Firemen's Association, reported yesterday that the initiative petition circulated by firemen had contained enough valid signatures to qualify the ordinance measure for the ballot.

Valid signatures of 10 per cent of the registered voters in the district were required. The petitions contained 1,893 valid signatures and 1,550 were needed, Harner reported. Petitions contained a total of 2,493.

The firemen petitioned for an election after the Novato Fire District board rejected their request for a personnel ordinance during heated negotiations earlier this year.

The personnel commission would consist of five members, two appointed by the board, two appointed by the firemen's association and the fifth to be appointed by the other four appointees.

Herrero Hearing Will Be Aug. 1

A 20-year-old Fairfax youth arrested in a stolen beer truck has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to charges of car theft and possession of hashish, both felonies, and being under the influence of a drug, a misdemeanor.

Preliminary hearing for James Daniel Herrero was scheduled for Aug. 1.

San Anselmo police arrested him last Thursday in a beer truck stolen minutes earlier in Fairfax. Officers said he was "in a daze" when they made the arrest outside Center Market on San Anselmo Avenue.

Freeze leftovers in foil to provide another quick meal later.

Stock up on food sale specials and save money.

If you need extra ice for special occasions, fill plastic bags with cubes a few days ahead and store in freezer compartment.

Freeze soups and sauces in ice cube trays, then store the cubes in plastic bags.

Store uncooked meat and fowl in fresh meat compartment if you plan to use them soon. Otherwise, protect with moisture-proof wrapping and freeze.

Cover or wrap butter, margarine and cheese so they won't absorb flavors in the refrigerator section.

McGovern Ready For Fund Raising

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—Sen. George McGovern is expected to launch a bold attempt to raise $25 million by direct mail from rank-and-file Americans to finance his campaign against Richard Nixon.

Facing the prospect that Democratic "fat cats" and labor unions will shut their purses to him, he is making tentative plans for a "McGovern Million Member Club" that will provide the financial underpinnings for his campaign.

The idea is to flood the mails with letters to individuals asking for help in his struggle to achieve fundamental change in the U.S. economy and foreign policy.

McGovern has used the direct mail technique successfully in his 16-month campaign for the party's nomination, collecting $4.5 million from 160,000 Americans. The effort, according to his finance officials, paid 75 per cent of the costs of his campaign.

The hope is to collect an average $25 contribution from at least 1 million Americans. McGovern plans to make periodic televised reports to the American people on its progress.

The plan does not rule out the possibility, according to McGovern's advisers, that big labor and big business eventually will open their pocketbooks.

But labor has shown little warmth so far for his candidacy, apparently because of his long battle againstthe Vietnam War and his foreign policy ideas.

McGovern is one of the few candidates for national office who has relied on direct mail for the bread-and-butter of his campaign.

The technique had been regarded by most presidential contenders as prohibitively costly, since the rate of return is so low.

But McGovern was successful in the preconvention effort because he had a ready-made constituency of war critics and liberals that read his letters and returned cash.

The project's success can be traced to a brilliant 35-yaar-old lawyer from Montgomery, Ala., Morris Dees.

McGovern ran into Dees by accident during a speaking appearance in Indiana late in 1970 and found out that Dees had been in the mail order business, starting his own company when he was slill a college student.

He asked Dees for his advice on announcing his candidacy for president in a mass-mailed letter to American citizens. Dees suggested that when he did that, he also stick in an envelope for campaign contributions to pay the cost of the mailing.

The two men hit it off, and eventually Dees found himself on McGovern's staff managing the direct mail effort.

In the first mailing to 200,000 persons announcing his candidacy, McGovern got 20,000 responses and $325,000—enough to start his campaign. A month later, another letter asked the group to contribute on a regular basis, and in time McGovern had 6,000 people sending him $10 every month.

Dees' technique is unlike that used by any other candidate.

There are no garish envelopes that cry "junk mail."

Small, stationery-size envelopes are used with "Senator George McGovern" on the return address instead of "McGovern for President."

The addresses were printed by a special process that made them look individually typed. Inside, the form beginning "Dear Friend" looks almost as if it had been personally written by the senator.

The final fund-raising appeal told recipients "you have given so much, we can't ask you for another contribution." It asked for a loan.

In the return came $357,000—all but 5 per cent in direct contributions without asking repayment, some of which stipulated that McGovern should forget repayment if he won the nomination. It was enough to pay McGovern's convention costs.

Dees compares the system to religious "tithing," and is confident that it can be broadened enough to finance the campaign against Nixon.

"People sent us money who never thought they'd send money," he said.

One retired woman wrote: "Enclosed is $1,000. It's 1-3 of my life savings. It's my investment in hope."

Concord Youth Hurt In Crash

An 18-year-old Concord youth was injured at 12:10 a.m. yesterday in an automobile accident on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard at the Shafter Creek Bridge, the California Highway Patrol reported today.

Donald Anthony Lieske was reported in satisfactory condition at Kaiser Hospital after being treated for multiple scrapes and bruises.

His car ran off the road and hit the side of the bridge, according to the patrol.

Service Area Budget, Tax Up For 1973

The Marinwood Community Services District board in adjourned session last night adopted a $255,958 budget for 1972-73 and set a tentative tax rate of $1.231 per $100 assessed valuation.

The budget — adopted after the board cut $1,550 from the salary and parks and recreation accounts — is up from last year's $241,761 spending program and increases the district's current tax rate by 3 cents.

The $14,000 swimming pool staff salary account was cut by $750 and playground equipment and a sprinkler system were chopped from the $134,608 parks and recreation budget for a $800 saving, according to Genevieve T. Bolding, district manager.

The board also approved a salary schedule ranging from $1.40 to $4.70 an hour for district employees, she said.

The board meets Monday at 8 p.m. in the district office for its regularly scheduled meeting.

Tiburon Fire Board Hires Three Youths

The Tiburon Fire Protection District board last night hired three local youths to serve as apprentice firemen this summer.

Hired were Dennis Kuwatani, William Van Lackum III and John R. Hamann. Each will receive $800 for the summer, according to board secretary Wellman H. Topham.

4 Pct. Salary Boost To Mosquito Workers

Directors of the Marin Mosquito Abatement District, who earlier had agreed to give employees a 3 per cent cost-of-living pay increase. raised it last night to 4 per cent.

Dist. Mgr. Alan Telford said the board acted after receiving a U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics report that Marin's cost of living had risen 4.9 per cent for the year ending in March.

Telford said the board first discussed granting a 5 per cent increase, but the debate wound up in a tie vote.

The manager said directors also approved a 1972-73 operating budget that will total about $175,000, down from last fiscal year's sum of $180,235. He said the exact figure hadn't been calculated yet because of the boosted wage increases and other budget adjustments.

Directors voted to put $30,000 into the spending program for a building fund for a future Petaluma substation, Telford said. The spending program also includes a raise for Telford from $1,564 a month to $1,702.

The manager said the district tax rate will be 2 cents per $100 assessed valuation, down one-half cent. Assessed valuation in the district is expected to increase about 5 per cent.

Belvedere Beerfest Is For Men Only

The Belvedere Volunteer Firemen's Association last night issued a reminder to all men in Belvedere of its annual beer bust tomorrow.

The informal beerfest will begin at 7 p.m. at the fire station, according to association publicist Erwin Farley. All men of Belvedere are invited to drink free beer and inspect the department's firefighting equipment.

Fire District Board Cancels Meeting

The Novato Fire Protection District board canceled last night's scheduled meeting because it lacked a quorum, but will have a special meeting at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at the main fire station, according to fire chief Jack Kidder.

Directors will discuss possible construction of a fourth fire station at the Atherton Avenue fire tower site, the chief said.

Twin Hit-Run Case Is Moved

A 36-year-old ex-convict has been bound over to Marin Superior Court to face charges arising from two separate hit-and-run driving incidents.

After finding there is enough evidence to try William Marion Lawson, Judge Peter Allen Smith of Marin Municipal Court ordered him to appear in the higher court Monday.

Lawson was arrested June 27 after an investigation of two cases June 23 and 24 in which an auto injured pedestrians in the Mill Valley area.

Lawson was in prison from February 1967 until December 1971 because of a murder conviction and is now on parole.

DR. MICHAEL C. WHITT
"The baby, the mother, the father"

'They Call' And Marin Doctor Goes

By MARY LEYDECKER

"They call and I go."

These words from a poem by William Carlos Williams sum up the philosophy of Dr. Michael C. Whitt and probably explain his success in rural West Marin, a graveyard for many earlier physicians.

The 35-year-old doctor has not only "made a living" in the Point Reyes area for more than two years but has also added two partners to his general practice. When he arrived in June 1970, the soft-spoken physician wasn't at all sure that the sparsely populated area could support a second physician.

Dr. William E. Kaye, who had started practice earlier that year, is still in the area, as are Whitt and his two partners.

A visit to Dr. Whitt's cluttered little office in Point Reyes Station quickly shows what kind of a practice he has today. In a small waiting room, littered with mostly out-of-date magazines, two young women sit nursing their plump babies. A mechanic in his oil-stained uniform awaits treatment for an injured hand, and a man in a business suit sits beside him — his purpose in visiting the doctor not readily apparent.

In cardboard boxes are jumbles of used clothing, donated by patients and available to whomever needs them for children. From another box, jammed with toys, peers a naked rubber doll.

Dr. Whitt's philosophy of 'doing things as they were done years ago" instead of the modern tendency toward specialization in medicine have apparently met with approval not only by the young people who flock to him but also the community's older residents.

The soft-spoken doctor, his voice still reflecting the accents of his native state of Arkansas, said that he views his type of practice as a "chance to care for the entire family — mother, baby and father."

"In modern society there is often a real fragmentation, with multiple doctors serving members of a family," he said. He believes, instead, that the time has come to return, at least to some extent, to the oldtime family doctor approach.

"I don't think everyone with a medical problem needs a work-up for a rare disease," he said with a smile.

Although the bearded doctor believes that, in most instances, rare and complicated medical techniques ought to "be kept in the reference library, so to speak," he quickly adds that he thinks there is a definite place for specialists in today's medical world.

"Some patients prefer that kind of practice," he said. Furthermore, for patients of the general practitioner, Dr. Whitt realizes it is important that highly specialized doctors be available to solve difficult problems.

He and his partners, Drs. Wesley Sokolosky and Edmund Kosinski, for example, leave surgery to the surgeons, acting only as assistants during operations on their patients.

An unusual outgrowth of Dr. Whitt's philosophy of providing the kind of medical attention his patients want is the large obstetrical practice he and the other two doctors now have.

This started by chance, Dr. Whitt said.

"When I first came here, I told people I was not an obstetrician and sent them elsewhere," he explained. Then one night he received a call in the middle of the night from a ranch near Nicasio.

A woman who had been sent home once from the hospital after being told she was not in labor, refused to go back when the time really came.

"Will you come?" she asked Dr. Whitt and he replied, "Yes."

Since then he and his partners have delivered "probably 275" babies in homes. At first it was only the young and "hip" mothers who wanted home deliveries, but recently he delivered at home the baby of a woman whose husband is an Army captain.

Through word of mouth, the news quickly spread that the Point Reyes doctors would deliver babies at home. "We got strung out pretty far," Dr. Whitt said, referring to calls to Sonoma, Berkeley and San Francisco.

They took these patients, he said, in the hope of convincing physicians in other areas that home deliveries were possible "without a lot of medical and legal problems."

They now plan to limit such deliveries to Marin and are pleased that a doctor in the Russian River areas has followed their lead.

The entry into the obstetrics field seemed "predestined," Dr. Whitt said. As he began getting requests for home deliveries, a nurse came to work in his office, whose "real interest was in being a midwife." Later another registered nurse whose experience included midwifery in Borneo joined the staff.

Today's deliveries include the services of at least one of the midwives as well as one of the physicians, who even comes equipped with a scale to weigh the new baby.

Patients who prefer the hospital are sent there, but Dr. Whitt's mothers are encouraged not to have anaesthesia during delivery except in very difficult births.

Asked if his patients ever name their babies after him, Dr. Whitt replied with a smile, "No, they name them after Indian chiefs."

Asked about payment of fees, which brought about the downfall of some of his predecessors, Dr. Whitt said, "Some people want to barter. So we barter with them."

He and his partners have taken paintings, rugs, furniture, photographs and on one occasion, a goat (Dr. Whitt refused to accept it until it had been butchered.)

"I make a living," he said about his income, which like many other doctors is assured in some cases by Medi-Cal and Medi-Care.

In summing up his practice, Dr. Whitt, who originally intended to become a psychiatrist but got turned aside after working as an emergency room physician in a San Francisco hospital, said he has no quarrel with doctors who want to specialize.

However, he said, "I don't believe there is a doctor shortage. I think there is an overabundance of specialists in the cities and a dearth of general practitioners in rural areas."

He urged other doctors to join him in serving as physicians in communities like West Marin, where he took over a vacant practice after a hike in Point Reyes National Seashore convinced him he wanted to live nearby.

Water Board Reviews $15.3 Million Budget

The Marin Municipal Water District board tentatively approved a $15.3 million budget yesterday but indicated it still plans to reduce expenditures by another $80,000.

During a detailed review of the spending plan, directors cut $76,000 and asked the district staff to recommend what more could be eliminated to accomplish the added reduction.

The board will consider the proposed changes at its July 26 meeting.

Most of the cuts and changes were small, but the board did slash approximately $40,000 from the proposal by reducing salary increases for the district's 225 employees from 5 to 2.5 per cent.

The action was taken because employees have already received a 5 per cent across-the board-wage hike this year and the federal wage and price control board limits annual salary increases to 7.5 per cent per year.

Directors also agreed to save $22,380 by not filling the newly created post of manager of water treatment and distribution during the next year.

The tentative spending program includes nearly $9 million in capital improvements which will be financed chiefly from an $11.5 million bond package approved by voters in November, 1970.

The budget also includes district operating expenses of $4.7 million, $750,000 higher than 1971-72 operating expenditures.

The total plan is approximately $5 million higher than past fiscal year's $10.4 million budget because of an approximately $5 million increase in the amount of capital work (financed by bonds) to district lines, facilities and equipment.

Expenditures proposed in the operating budget are: construction and maintenance, $984,320; engineering, $344,660; water treatment and distribution, $1,039,320; land management, $200,330; financial services, $1.2 million; administration, $292,130 and depreciation, $752,210.

The Marin Municipal Water District board also:

CONSUMPTION — Learned that district water consumption during the period January to June 1972 was 4.6 billion gallons, a 1.4 per cent increase over the amount used during the same period last year.

WATER SUPPLY — Were told by district staff that water supply in Bon Tempe, Kent and Alpine Lakes is slightly higher than anticipated at the end of the rainy season. Water level in Lake Nicasio is close to the amount predicted.

PIPELINE EXTENSIONS — Were told by J. Dietrich Stroeh, manager of engineering, that 1,103 service connections were approved for 1,847 dwelling units from July 1 1971 to July 1, 1972. The new connections will require 507.4 acre-feet of water, he said. Stroeh also reported that, based on averages of the last 10 years, the district can expect requests for from 400 to 1,000 new connections annually, requiring from 240 to 600 acre-feet of water.

EXTENSIONS — Approved these pipeline extensions — for David Niles for one unit on Olive Avenue in Larkspur; the Golden Gate Industrial Park Bus Maintenance facility in East San Rafael (2.9 acre-feet of water required annually) and for stage II of the Marin County Fairgrounds (restrooms and fire hydrants).

Doctoral Program At Base Is Under Study

Contingent on the interest of Marin and Southern Sonoma residents, the University of Southern California may establish an evening doctoral program at Hamilton Air Force Base or Sonoma State College for doctor of education degrees.

Marin Water Director To Propose Moratorium

By PAT ANGLE

A director of the Marin Municipal Water District said yesterday he will propose a moratorium on all new service connections in the district at the board's Aug. 9 meeting.

Jack R. Felson told his fellow directors he believes such a freeze is needed because the district "doesn't have any more water to give" to new users.

Another board member, Eugene A. Miller, proposed a one-year ban on all developments — large and small — which required pipeline extensions in May but the recommendation was not accepted by the board. Instead, it passed a resolution declaring that a threatened water shortage exists in the district.

Felson announced his intention during a discussion of a proposed pipeline extension agreement for the 217-unit Sea Port Hills apartment development in Strawberry.

The director said he could not, in good conscience, approve any new extension agreements which would further tap district water supply. Currently, the amount of water the district can safely expect to derive from its reservoirs (net safe yield) is 30,000 acre feet annually.

Annual water requiremets are now 34,000 acre feet a year. The district hopes to provide the additional water through an intertie with the North Marin County Water District which will bring 4,000 acre feet of water to the Marin Municipal Water District annually for the next several years.

There was no indication Felson's fellow directors would go along with his proposal at the present time.

Director John M. MacPhail Jr. said he could not vote for a moratorium until the district had reexamined both its definition of "net safe yield" and its present committments to supply water.

"I think our basis for making that decision (enacting a connection ban) should be as firm and solid as the rock of Gibraltar and able to withstand judicial review," he said.

Board chairman Robert G. Anderson said he did not think that the district water supply was "in such a critical state that a freeze on new connections is warranted."

The board voted 4-1, with Felson dissenting, to approve the extension to the apartment complex. Miller said the board had no choice but to grant the extension "until we change our policies."

Agency Slates Special Meeting

The Marin County Redevelopment Agency board has set a special meeting for 8 p.m. Tuesday in the agency office in Marin City to select a project area committee which will act as an advisory group for redevelopment of Marin City.

Chairman George H. Gnoss Jr. said the board postponed choosing the committee because Wallace K. Shepherd, agency executive director, is still working with groups in the community who want to be represented on it.

The redevelopment board also postponed action, pending further study, on a request to renew the lease for the Potpourri Flea Market in Marin City.

Zulu King Visits

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Zulu king, Zwelitmini Goodwill Kacyprian Bhekuzulu, introduced on Wednesday a large collection of African art and handcrafts on exhibition at the New York Hilton. Accompanied by his queen, Sibongile, and others the 23-year-old potentate of Zululand will remain in New York for six days before visiting Los Angeles and then Tokyo.

Board To Keep Same President

Eda Tomasetti of Chileno Valley has been reelected president of the Laguna Joint School District board.

Donald J. Moreda of Chileno Valley was reelected clerk and Thomas G. Ielmorini of Chileno Valley, trustee representative, at the annual organizational meeting Tuesday night.

Dixie District Passes Budget

The Dixie School District board last night approved a publication budget of $4,797,000, an increase of $59,000 over the preliminary budget of $4,738,000.

Some of the added expense was due to a raise in fringe benefit payments for employees granted last night, according to the district superintendent, Dr. Clifford W. Campbell.

The district will now pay $500 each year toward each employee's insurance packet, Dr. Campbell said, instead of $382 as in the past year. The increase will cost the district about $30,000.

Also included in the budget is a $43,000 increase over the post year earmarked for repayment of school construction bonds.

Campbell said that the district's tax rate is expected to remain at $4.40 per $100 assessed valuation.

Campbell said the board also voted to oppose the Watson Amendment on the Novato ballot, which, he said, would reduce district income from the current $1,053 per year per pupil to $743.

Dr. John A. Starkweather was elected president of the board last night and Patricia Gryson, vice president and clerk. Ruth Rosen was named trustee representative.

The Dixie School District board also:

GIFTS — Accepted gifts including $1,200 from the Lucas Valley School parents' group for cultural programs; $2,600 from the Santa Margarita School parents' club for various purposes including playground equipment, bicycle racks and a garden cultivator; $1,163 from the Nova Albion School parents' group for a library rug, cultural activities, landscaping, field trips and playground equipment; a Chinese art book for Nova Albion School from the Marin Chinese Cultural Group and $39 from the Lucas Valley School student council for replacement of vandalized play equipment.

PUPILS — Learned that 55 per cent of the district's children are attending summer school. The enrollment is 2,013.

MECHANIC — Employed Edward Phelps as a maintenance mechanic at $8,670 a year.

LEAVE — Granted a two-year leave of absence to Katherine Hammond so that she may teach school in Germany.

DENIAL — Denied a leave of absence for Jean Urban, who is moving out of the area.

$2.5 Million Is Earmarked For Tiburon Project

The Department of Housing and Urban Development has earmarked $2,511,064 for the Hilarita Housing project in Tiburon, according to Edwin G. Weed, president of theTiburon Ecumenical Association, which is sponsoring the project.

"The grant is $300,000 less than we had asked for, so we'll have to tighten out belts to bring the project within that budget," Weed said.

Weed predicted that the existing Hilarita development would be torn down in mid-September and that construction of new housing would begin before October.

Truman's Condition

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)— Former President Harry S Truman's condition Thursday was listed as "good" for the first time in his 13-day hospital stay, according to the daily medical bulletin.

Fairfax City Council Sees Budget Rise

The Fairfax City Council last night added $3,570 to a proposed 1972-73 budget of $727,113 in its continuing review of the city spending program.

The action is not expected to change the city's tax rate of $1.74 per $100 of assessed valuation, according to Robert E. Crowe, city administrator.

He said the council added $4,000 to the $4,577 planning account to hire a planning consultant on a contract basis and increased the $151,121 police salary allocation by $2,400 to pay for vacation relief.

The city treasurer's $830 budget was eliminated and $2,000 was cut from the $71,500 capital budget, Crowe said. City Treasurer Priscilla C. Gray requested that her budget be cut because she wants to work without pay, he explained.

The capital budget cut came after the council decided not to rewireand repaint the council chamber in the Fairfax Women's Club, Crowe said.

The council approved without change the following accounts: city attorney, $6,510; central services, $8,459; non-departmental, $12,900; retirement, $62,958; animal services, $4,000 and street lighting, $21,500.

The council will meet today at 7:30 p.m. in the Fairfax Women's Club to consider the street lighting account, salaries and fringe benefits for city employees.

New Chairman

Alvin R. Kuhn was selected chairman of the Tiburon Planning Commission last night, succeeding Victor C. Banks. The commission also elected its vice chairman, Charles E. Bassett, and swore in three new members.

Inmates Rob Baltimore Jail

BALTIMORE (AP) — The city jail is losing money "because we have all these thieves working for us," says Warden Hiram L. Schoonfield.

"Fifty or sixty inmates who work for us steal faster than you can imagine," Schoonfield told the City Council, saying the use of inmate labor is false economy.

Smoking More Now, But Getting Less

LONDON (UPI)—The British are smoking more cigarettes but less tobacco: The reason: cigarettes are getting smaller.

Britons smoked 128 billion cigarettes in 1970, the latest year for which figures are available, up 3 billion from 1969. But the amount of cigarette tobacco consumed dropped from 221 million pounds in 1969 to 215.4 million pounds in 1970.

Peace Talks Resume—Reds Reject 'Absurd' Nixon Plan

PARIS (UPI)—The Vietnamese Communists today rejected President Nixon's latest peace plan as an "unreasonable and absurd" ultimatum and said they will settle for nothing except acceptance of their own plan.

North Vietnamese negotiator Xuan Thuy and Madame Nguyen Thi Binh, the Viet Cong foreign minister, turned down Nixon's plan and pushed their own, long-rejected peace package, when the Vietnam Conference resumed after a 10 -week suspension.

The Communist delegation stand, coupled with a violent condemnation of U.S. air strikes in Vietnam, failed to move the conference off dead center as had been hoped in Washington.

Taking an unusually harsh tone, Madame Binh charged that President Nixon's eight-point plan proposed Jan.25 and calling for new presidential elections in South Vietnam, was aimed merely at maintaining U.S. control of the country.

"The demand for an immediate ceasefire to come before an accord on military and political questions on conditions put forward by Mr. Nixon on May 8 and June 29 is in fact nothing but an unreasonable and absurd ultimatum," she said.

She said the ceasefire called for again today by U. S. negotiator William J. Porter and Saigon's Pham Dang Lam "does not aim at ending the war, but simply at legalizing the Nguyen Van Thieu administration and the American military presence, while depriving the South Vietnamese people of the legitimateright to self-defense," Madame Binh said.

Earlier, the Saigon delegation bluntly told the Communists it will never accept their plans for South Vietnam's political future.

Today's 150th session was the first since May 4 when Nixon broke off the talks because the Communists showed no willingness to negotiate in public or in private.

The United States agreed to return to the conference table today, the President announced June 29, because there were indications the Communists would adopt a more flexible attitude.

South Vietnamese Ambassador Pham Dang Lam told Hanoi that Saigon would never accept imposition of a coalition government to replace President Nguyen Van Thieu.

Porter, in his prepared speech, did not voice specific support of South Vietnam's refusal to cooperate in a joint cabinet with the Viet Cong.

San Franciscan Enters Innocent Plea For Attack

A 50-year-old San Franciscan has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of attacking a former girl friend with a razor in Marin City.

A preliminary hearing for Woodrow Heslip was set for July 25.

Heslip was arrested June 29 after an argument with Flora Sample in her home at 69 Cole Drive during which he allegedly pulled out the weapon and cut her.

Nixon Proposes Big Flood Purse

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI)—President Nixon has proposed a $1.7 billion program, calling it the richestdisaster relief purse ever, to give $5,000 grants and loans at 1 per cent interest to victims of tropical storm Agnes.

"Confronted with so massive a disaster emergency, our response must also be massive," Nixon said. "Conscience demands it; humanity impels it."

The floods caused by Agnes devastated areas of Eastern states. Residents of six states—New York, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and Florida—would be eligible for the disaster relief, if passed by Congress.

Nixon called it "the largest single amount ever allocated to recovery efforts in this country." He said it is needed to ameliorate the suffering caused by "the worst natural disaster in the whole of America's history."

Under the proposal, announced in a five minute radio speech Wednesday, more than 120,000 homeowners and small businessmen who were wiped out by the floods would be eligible for grants of $5,000 each.

An estimated 115 homeowners and 6,000 small business owners would be eligible for the disaster relief. The first $5,000 would be an outright grant, and sums above that amount could be repaid overa 30 year period, at 1 per cent interest.

The President's proposal was a substantial liberalization of existing disaster relief regulations. It doubles the current provision for $2,500 grants, and would haul interest rates down from 5-1-8 per cent.

There earlier had been widespread criticism that relief efforts fell far short of what was needed, a criticism to which the President was especially sensitive in this election year.

More than $100 million has already been spent on flood relief, and the President recently signed a measure authorizing another $200 million, saidPress Secretary Ronald Ziegler.

More than 80 persons died, and about 128,000 homes and businesses were damaged or destroyed, by the massive floods set off by Agnes, which poured down torrential rains as it moved up the East Coast from the Florida Panhandle last month.

Nixon said he would request the new legislation when Congress reconvenes July 17. He also announced that a meeting of about 500 mayors and local governmental leaders would be held next Friday in Washington to expedite the delivery of federal relief services.

"Never before has so thorough and so all-embracing a recovery effort been launched," Nixon said. "Never was it more uniquely necessary."

Kill Prime Time Rule: Barry Jr.

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) — Rep. Barry Goldwater Jr. called Thursday for revocation of the Prime Time Access Rule which limits the number of network programs on nighttime television.

Speaking at the national convention of the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists, Goldwater said the Federal Communications Commission rule had forced the cancellation of more than 20 network produced TV shows in the period between 7:30 and 8 p.m.

"As a result, thousands have been put out of work in the Southern California television-motion picture industry."

"The purpose of the rule was to obtain a greater diversity in television programs available to the general public but in that regard the rule has been an absolute failure."

For an example, Goldwater pointed to the cutting of one half hour of ABC's evening coverage of the Olympic Games next month on national television due to the FCC regulation.

Goldwater said TV viewing during the half hour period in large market areas such as Los Angeles and San Francisco declined by 20 per cent during the first year the ban on network programming was put into effect.

Club Land Seen As Fund Source

Novato Boys Club, which has been willed half of the Mission Lodge Motel in central Novato, probably will use the property as a source of operating funds, according to president Edward T. Ghirardo.

Ghirardo said the club's steering committee was "delighted" with the report that Clara Meyers, former Novato businesswoman, willed half of the 16-unit motel at Highway 101 and Diablo Avenue to the club.

"We don't know exactly what direction we'll take," but "I think the general consensus of the steering committee was to reserve use of the property for establishing an operation fund for the club," Ghirardo said.

On the basis of motel tax reports filed with the city, Mission Lodge grosses $40,000 to $50,000 a year, city finance director L. J. Koehl said.

Mrs. Meyers, who died July 2 in Sonoma, willed the other half of the motel to a longtime friend, George Schilling, 78, of Sonoma, if he outlives her by 150 days. If Schilling, who is in failing health, fails to live the 150 days, the boys club will receive the entire motel.

Schilling was reportej to be in Sonoma Valley Hospital today and not well enough to comment.

According to the assessor's office the motel, on nearly one acre, is assessed at $41,125 and has a market value of $205,725.

Ghirardo stressed that the club is still soliciting funds for its club to be constructed on Wilson Avenue, opposite Sinaloa Junior High School.

The campaign has gone past the $100,000 building fund goal, but now has a goal of $150,000 to cover the cost of the land and operating costs.

Indian Art Show To Be Presented

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — An exhibition presenting the range of the major forms of American Indian art will be presented Oct. 8 through Dec. 10 by the Minneapolis Institute of Arts and Walker Art Center.

The showing will be in conjunction with the Indian Art Assn., recently formed specifically to work on this project by representatives of nine local Indian organizations.

Principal support has come from the Dayton Hudson Foundation and the National Endowment for the Arts.

The exhibition will present such object groups as masks, carved figures, painted hides, pottery, basketry, weaving, costumes and musical instruments. Where traditions persist, recent examples of tribal art will be included.

School For Blind, Deaf Said Unsafe

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —State Schools Supt. Wilson Riles announced today he has instructed his staff not to allow children to return to the state schools for the deaf and blind in Berkeley in the fall because the structures are fire hazards.

In a report to the state Board of Education, Riles said that consideration must be given to relocating all or part of the two half-century-old facilities, at least temporarily.

He said the state fire marshal recommends that "occupancy of the School for the Blind and of certain facilities of the School for the Deaf be discontinued immediately.

"He feels thebuildings should not be used again until certain conditions have been corrected."

Riles told the board, which operates thetwo schools, that a Department of General Services study estimates that it would cost $8 million to remodel the buildings to make them safe.

"The study generally confirms our suspicions that both of these schools are in serious need of repair, remodeling and maintenance work," Riles said. Nearly 600 severely handicapped and multi-handicapped children are housed at the schools. They presently are at home for summer vacation.

"I am asking my staff to see that these children in no circumstances be allowed to return to unsafe structures," Riles said.

He said he has alerted Gov. Ronald Reagan and other state officials about the problem and added:

"The School for the Blind may have to be relocated entirely, and parts of the School for the Deaf may have to be shut down.

"Further consideration must be given to permanent relocation, should the buildings prove, after the complete (Department of General Services) study, altogether beyond redemption. And even if the buildings can be made safe, permanent relocation might be preferable to continued use of safe but old, poorly-designed buildings."

Okamoto Takes Full Massacre Blame

ZRIFIN, Israel (UPI) —Kozo Okamoto told a military court today he takes full responsibility for the attack on Tel Aviv's Lod airport in which 26 bystanders were killed and 79 wounded. The three-man court said it would announce its verdict in the case Monday.

Facing the judges bench in a statement made without an oath, Okamoto said the May 30 massacre was warfare "more severe than the battle between nations" and that he and his two Japanese companions believed the "slaughter of human beings is inevitable" to justify world revolution.

Okamoto confessed earlier that he and his two companions, who were killed by police during the airport attack, were trained by Palestinian guerrillas in Lebanon and staged the attack on their behalf.

"I take full responsibility for the deaths and injuries at the airport," the 24-year-old Osakan said. "I take upon myself full responsibility for it. The revolutionary warfare is a war of justice. ,

"And so I admit very frankly what we have done," Okamoto said. "We believe this struggle will continue for a long time and it is in the tradition of current world revolution."

In a rambling discourse on his part in the Lod attack made after the prosecution rested its case, Okamoto said the world revolution "justifies slaughter and the destruction of human bodies."

Before he rested his case, prosecutor David Yisraeli called for Okamoto's conviction, saying he had proven his case "beyond any doubt."

Defense attorney Max Kritzman said his young client was tricked into signing a June 6 confession by an Israeli army general who promised him a chance to commit suicide in exchange for an admission of guilt. The court allowed the confession to be submitted as evidence anyway.

College Trustee HQ Approved

LOS ANGELES (AP) — State university and college trustees have approved construction of a $5 million headquarters building on a six-acre tidelands site provided by the City of Long Beach.

The trustees adopted a resolution yesterday naming the site and ended speculation that the headquarters might be located elsewhere.

The property, which reverted to the city in an urban renewal project, is located at the mouth of the Los Angeles River and affords a sweeping view of the Long Beach Harbor.

Sturdy Mooring For Offshore Platform

NEW YORK (UPI)—An offshore drilling platform under construction at Brownsville, Tex., is being built to withstand hurricane force winds up to 138 miles an hour, accompanied by 50-foot seas.

To maintain its mooring under the impact of these tremendous forces, the drilling rig will use eight 30,000-pound anchors, each equipped with 5,000 feet of steel chain 2 7/8 inches in diameter.

Farmers Healthiest People In America

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — Farmers are the healthiest people in America, according to a survey by the California Farm Bureau.

The nationwide study reported people on farms and in other rural areas are generally healthier, and that residents of the North Central and Midwestern parts of the country had less sick days than those in the South, West or Northeast.

No Hearing For Drinking Officer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A rehearing has been denied the police department in the case of a patrolman who was awarded a disability leave on grounds his work drove him to drink.

The Retirement System Board voted 4-1 Wednesday denying the request for a rehearing and backing the decision on officer Arthur T. Lord, 45, who got a year's industrial disability leave with full pay last month.

The denial came over the testimony of Sgt. Dave Roche, police legal aide, who warned the decision would lead to similar requests from other drinking policemen.

Low Budgets In Sonoma Primary

Sonoma County candidates in the June primary ran basically low-budget campaigns, according to financial statements filed with the county elections office.

Incumbent Supervisor Robert Theiller was the top spender with $8,505 in the primary in which he was forced into a runoff with Virginia Hechtman in the November election. Mrs. Hechtman, who ran second in a field of six, reported spending $3,825.

Theiller reported $9,533 in contributions from a long list of individual contributors. None was listed as giving more than $500. Mrs. Hechtman's contributions also came in small amounts with the list made up of many of her friends from conservation groups.

Second in the spending in the supervisorial primary was Jack R. Galvin who reported spending $7,159 for the 2,216 votes he received. Grant F. King reported spending $3,887 for 1,248 votes; Bernard J. Lamb, $3,318 for 1,379 votes, and David E. Bills, $1,307 for 324 votes.

In the First Congressional District race, Rep. Don H. Clausen of Crescent City filed his statement in Del Norte County, showing $5,714 spent. He was unopposed for the Republican nomination.

On the Democratic side in the congressional election, winner William A. Nighswonger of Santa Rosa reportedspending $1,548 including $473 in contributions. Unsuccessful challenger James McClure Brown of Eureka filed his statement in Humboldt County showing $1,577 spent and Patricia H. Losh, also of Eureka, reported spending $577.

Jonathan T. Ames of Napa, who was unopposed for the Peace and Freedom Party nominationn reported spending only $425 for the filing fee and said he had no contributor.

In the First State Senatorial District Henry K. Rogers of Eureka, who ran unopposed for the Republican nomination, reported spending $1,860 with contributions coming in small amounts.

Toni Novak Sutely of Penngrove, Peace and Freedom Party candidate, reported spending $350 including $332 of her own funds.

The financial statement of incumbent State Sen. Randolph D. Collier, D-Yreka, was not available from the Siskiyou County clerk's office, where clerks said they recalled him filing but could not locate the form.

Nicaragua Airline Buy By Hughes

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI) —Howard Hughes, who stayed in this Central American Republic for a month earlier this year, has acquired a 25 per cent interest in the Nicaraguan National Airline, Lanica.

Hughes, now staying in Vancouver, Canada, got the share in the airline with the delivery of two four-engine Convair aircraft with a capacity of 105 passengers each, it was reported Wednesday.

Guillermo Anastasio Sevilla Somoza, Lanica manager, said the first of the Convairs will be placed in service to Miami Friday.

Federal Jury Gives Piracy Indictment

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A federal grand jury returned a piracy indictment Wednesday against an AWOL soldier in the July 6 hijacking of a Pacific Southwest Airlines plane.

Francis M. Goodell, 21, was ordered held without bail and is to be arraigned Monday in U.S. District Court before Judge William P. Sweigert.

Goodell, who is absent without leave from a military post at Manassas, Va., is charged with commandeering the plane last Thursday evening on a San Diego-Oakland-Sacramento flight and extorting $455,000.

After receiving the ransom in Oakland he surrendered Friday morning to a California Highway Patrol officer whom he had held hostage.

Grand jurors charged him with aircraft piracy, which carries a minimum penalty of 20 years in prison.

They also charged him with extortion, which can be punished with a 20-year prison term and a $20,000 fine.

67 Jury Counts Against 13 In Oakland Assault

OAKLAND (AP) — A 67-count grand jury indictment has been returned against 13 members of two motorcycle gangs in the mass rape July 4 of two vacationing 17-year-old girls from British Columbia.

Each of the 13 defendants was charged yesterday with five counts, including rape, sodomy and sexual perversion. Two additionally were charged with being armed with a blackjack and a gun.

Alameda County Superior Court Judge Robert Bostic ordered all held in lieu of $100,000 bail each.

The two girls testified for two hours before the grand jury, said Deputy Dist. Attys. Wright Morton and Donald Whyte, and accurately recalled the nicknames of the defendants.

The girls said a man forced his way into their car at an Oakland stoplight July 3, then forced them to drive to an East Oakland apartment where they were raped repeatedly and subjected to sexual indignities for 12 hours.

The district attorney's office said those indicted are members of the local Ravens Motorcycle Club and the Sundowners Motorcycle Club in Southern California and in Ogden and Salt Lake City, Utah.

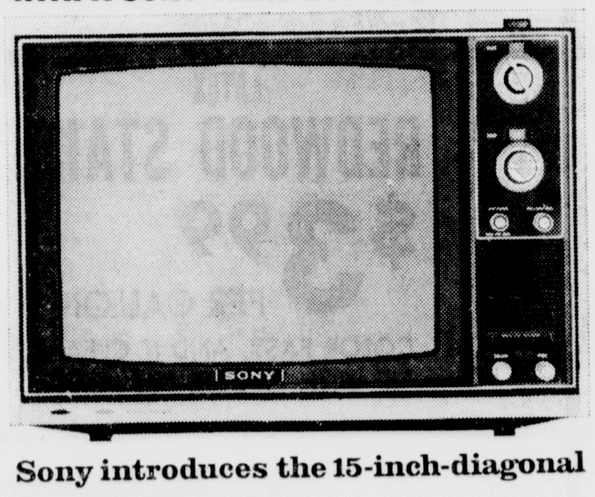

Petaluman Suffers A Gunshot Wound

Paul Durfey, 28, of 1821 Lakeville Highway, Petaluma, was treated yesterday for an accidental gunshot wound of the left hand.

Police said Durfey was cleaning a .38 caliber revolver at his home when it fired through his hand at 11 p.m. Tuesday. Durfey was given emergency treatment at Hillcrest Hospital and was transferred to Presbyterian Hospital, San Francisco, for further treatment.

Sony introduces the 15-inch-diagonal

Trinitron
SONY COLOR TV

We're proud to announce a giant step backwards.

Having started with a modest 12 and 9-inch diagonal screen—having progressed to a sizeable 17—Sony now adds a fourth size.

Like every TV set Sony makes, the new KV 1510 has 100% solid-state circuitry. And an Instant "On" picture. There's also a one-button automatic color/automatic fine-tuning control.

In addition (and this is brand-new) an ingenious way to tune in UHF. The tuner homes straight in on each UHF channel with a definite click of the dial.

Most important, the picture. All we ask is that you (and your customers) look at our color picture next to anyone else's.

Our Trinitron picture is surprisingly sharp. And bright. And vibrant. Put them all together, and there's a quite incredible difference.

College Spending Program Advances

A "publication" budget of $13.9 million, reflecting newly awarded employee pay raises and new doses of income, was approved last night by the Marin Community College District board.

The publication budget — so-called because of legal requirements that it be published in a newspaper of general circulation — is up from a tentative spending program of $12,869,830 approved earlier.

The board's next step is approval of a final budget at a formal public hearing, expected Aug. 2.

Dist. Business Mgr. Norman Bird said the publication budget includes 4 per cent cost-of-living salary increases granted both teaching and nonteaching personnel, but not included in the tentative spending program. Cost of the raises was put at $100,900.

Bird said the 1972-73 income picture also had changed since adoption of the tentative budget, adding that the district would receive about $625,000 in additional state assistance because of higher enrollment in 1971-72 and based on 1972-73 student population.

He projected a $200,000 increase in tax income based on a higher collection rate in 1971-72 and expected higher assessed valuation in 1972-73.

Marin Community College Board Also:

OFFICERS — Named Theodore C. Wellman as board president, replacing Donald K. Felt, and chose Robert E. Oliver as vice president and Frances Compton as clerk.

NEW CAMPUS — Approved project specifications and authorized schematic plans for site development at Indian Valley Colleges, the district's planned Novato campus; authorized schematic plans for Inner College C and the library at the new campus and for additional soil investigation of the campus site, the latter at a cost of up to $6,500.

MEETINGS — Said it would meet in regular session only once in August (Aug. 2) and scheduled extra sessions for Tuesday, July 31 and Aug. 7 on Indian Valley Colleges. Topic of the last two meetings will be preliminary plans of the campus.

ADULT — Approved adult education courses for the fall.

Off-Highway Fund Proposal To Assembly

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill which would raise an estimated $2.5 million annually to provide facilities for off-highway vehicles has been sent to the Assembly by the Senate.

The measure by Sen. Arlen Gregorio, D-San Mateo, passed 27-7 Wednesday after supporters argued it would help prevent the landscape from being "torn up" by dune buggies and motorcycles.

Misdemeanor Charge In Chase

Misdemeanor charges were filed yesterday in Marin Municipal Court against a Fairfax man arrested Tuesday after a seven-mile chase through Southern Marin that ended when his car smashed into a roadblock.

Francis Edward McGuinness, 41, was charged with misdemeanor assault with a deadly weapon (his car), obstructing an officer and having an open container of vodka in his car.

Tiburon police said they saw McGuinness's car weaving on Tiburon Boulevard and gave chase, but the car sped up Highway 101 and Sir Francis Drake Boulevard until it crashed into a Ross police roadblock at Wolfe Grade Road in Kentfield.

Corte Madera's Building Ban Branded As 'A Sop'

By PAT PERRY

Corte Madera's four-month moratoriumon new building and rezoning was termed "a sop" to opponents of high density building and "a defusing device" today by attorney Richard Burns.

Speaking on radio KTIM's "Marin Sounding Board," Burns, a founder member of the Corte Madera Chamber of Commerce, said: "Delay favors unwholesome developers. Opposition to unwise, overly dense developments is slow to mobilize, hard to contain, and especially hard to sustain."

He said the moratorium was a defusing device "which will leave no spokesmen when the next issue comes along."

Burns and Corte Madera Planning Commissioner James W. McClintock appeared in opposition to the moratorium. Mrs. Lois Miner and Mrs. Albert M. Damas, Corte Madera housewives, spoke in favor of the measure.

Burns told Mrs. Miner, whose demand for a one-year ban on building triggered last week's town council decision, that she had been sold down the river on a raft of her own construction.

Emphasizing that he was in favor of the proposed Ernest Hahn regional shopping center, and that some worthwhile major developments were in the offing, Burns said he wanted to avoid the type of "garbage such as Shelter Ridge — a disgrace to the City of Mill Valley."

The moratorium gives the council four months to update the general plan, he said, "but no positive policy declaration by the city officials or the city council as to what they expect to do in the next four months."

Mrs. Miner, wholly in favor of the moratorium as "a breathing space" said she still wanted R-1 zoning. "And if that's urban sprawl I'll take it."

Mrs. Alberta M. Damas, describing herself as a typical wife and mother, said four months was enough time to get the pulse of the community, but could be extended.

Corte Madera Planning Commissioner James W. McClintock, said he had reservations on the moratorium and questioned its "sledgehammer effect." "I think development in recent years has been organized and progressive," he said.

"There has never been more than 100 people present," he said, referring to planning commission meetings, "and this to me doesn't represent a community." The large silent majority stay home either because they are too complacent or because they like what's going on.

A listener's question asked how the moratorium affected a current application for 73 units to be added to the Uplands apartments under high density zoning established in 1963. McClintock said town staff is "vague" on the matter.

Answering another listener's question, he said he considered it would take "the better part of 12 months" to update the town's general plan.

The panelists split when a listener asked: "Would this emergency ordinance have been passed if there hadn't been a recall movement against Mayor Holmes S. Norville in progress with over 1,000 signatures on the petition?"

Mrs. Miner said she supported all the councilmen — "and Pete Norville is not a crook."

McClintock refused to comment on the question, and Mrs. Damas said she was uncertain about recalling Holmes and said, "I feel that was the heat of the times."

Asked by a listener if Corte Madera's zoning ordinances should be scrapped, McClintock said he felt the town's were a "fine set of ordinances" and had been guidelines for other cities and the county.

"We have existing ordinances that are adequate. I am not ashamed of the developments in recent years. I don't think the building ban is required."

The program, moderated by Kitty Openheimer, is scheduled for tape rebroadcast at 9:40 a.m. Sunday.

Builders Countering 'No Growth' Position

OAKLAND (UPI) — The building industry has launched a court attack against the "no growth" policy voted by residents of two suburban cities.

Voters in Pleasanton and Livermore earlier this year passed initiative measures banning the issuance of building permits until a number of conditions are met, including the improvement of schools, sewage facilities and water supplies.

The Associated Home Builders of the Greater East Bay, representing the construction industry, filed suit in Alameda County Superior Court Wednesday, asking for an order overthrowing the voter initiative.

The building industry suit contends the initiative process can be used to pass laws but under the state constitution cannot be used to "administer" laws, which the suit says is involved in the issuance of building permits.

William T. Leonard, executive director of the builders' organization, said the new laws have halted $25 million on construction planned for the Livermore Valley area, which has been a prime suburban growth area. He said 2,500 jobs are involved and the area now has 22 per cent unemployment in the construction trades.

The suit also contends that the conditions required before building permits can be resumed are "fuzzy and unclear." He noted that while the voters decided no private building could take place until schools are built, they also refused to pass a bond issue to build new schools.

Calley Released For Visit With Father

FT. BENNING, Ga. (UPI) — Lt. William Calley Jr. was released from his quarters early Thursday to visit his father who is ill in a Veterans Administration hospital at Gainesville, Fla.

Calley was accompanied by a military escort and was expected to return to his quarters here Thursday afternoon.

POW Family Tuition Plan To Assembly

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Wives and children of prisoners of war would be entitled to free tuition at state colleges and universities under a bill passed by the Senate.

The measure by Sen. Clair W. Burgener, R-San Diego, was sent to the Assembly on a 30-0 vote Wednesday. Burgener said it would cost the state about $75,000 annually.

Bankrupt Airline Causes Flights To Be Canceled

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (UPI)—A planned European flight for 189 persons in the Educational Student Exchange Program was cancelled at the last minute Wednesday because of licensing technicalities, but a spokesman said Thursday the problem was resolved.

Dr. Eli Alcheck, director of the Redwood City-based program, said about two-thirds of the persons scheduled to depart were notified before they reached Oakland International Airport. A similar flight out of Los Angeles was aborted on Tuesday.

Alcheck said the licensing problem began with the British government last month when Lloyd International Airlines, contracted to carry the ESEP customers, went bankrupt. Alcheck said he then arranged for three other British airlines to handle his customers, but technicalities concerning landing licenses caused disruption of services.

New licenses were granted on Wednesday, he said, but not in time to save the scheduled Oakland departure.

Participants in the ESEP may have their fares refunded or take an alternate flight on July 21. Alcheck said "about 75 per cent will fly" as planned.

Larkspur Downtown Proposal Favored

The Larkspur Park and Recreation Commission last night looked favorably on a plan to refurbish the city's downtown area in a Victorian-Western theme.

The commission went along with a proposal by the Downtown Action Committee, a group working toward recapturing the old charm of downtown Larkspur, for tree planting but came up with a suggestion to cut costs.

The committee had asked that the city council be requested to appropriate between $6,000 and $10,000 for 80 trees, according to Asst. City Mgr. Harlan Berry. The park and recreation commission thought the trees were a good idea but that the cost could be reduced to $3,000 by having city crews plant them during the winter season.

He said a mixture of deciduous and evergreen trees has been suggested for sidewalk planting. The commission also wants to make sure that the trees will not reduce parking, which had been feared by some merchants.

In a related manner, the commission took a first look at a map for the proposed historical zoning district. Berry said the commission approved the map but added to the downtown area already shown the Escalle Winery, the McLeran property on Magnolia Avenue and the Remillard brick kiln.

The rough map presented last night was the first step toward the creation of a district in which owners would be required to carry out the Western-Victorian theme in future building or remodeling. Present owners will be encouraged to refurbish their businesses to carry out the theme, Berry said.

The map will next be presented to the city's architectural review committee, which is expected to draw up a proposed ordinance setting up the historical zoning district. The matter would then go to the planning commission and finally to the city council, Berry said.

The commission last night also approved $10,000 worth of landscaping for the entry way to Piper Park and around the police facility to be built there.

San Rafael Fire Chief Will Go Site Hunting

The San Rafael Fire Commission has directed Fire Chief Robert E. Marcucci to select a site for a new fire station in downtown San Rafael.

"The commission wants me to pinpoint a location in the downtown area so that the new fire station can be included in the city redevelopment area," Marcucci said today.

Some downtown businessmen have objected to any provision for a fire station in redevelopment plans because a firehouse would have little to do with the redevelopment aim of bolstering a sagging downtown economy.

The commission at Tuesday night's meeting also set for today and Wednesday written examinations for 233 applicants for city fireman posts. "We'll be hiring five new firemen soon," the chief said.

The commission announced the retirement of veteran firefighter Charles Brodnansky, 58, who joined the department in 1949.

The commission praised the department for a "fine job" in the face of a recent flurry of grass and structural fires in the city, Marcucci said.

Nude Ballet Dance Photos To Be Burned

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—All posters with a photograph retouched to show two San Francisco Ballet dancers as nude will be burned, it was agreed Wednesday.

The destruction was agreed to by the defendants in a law suit brought by the ballet company and the two dancers. The defendants are Synergistic Systems, Inc., a poster manufacturer, and Laurence Bartone, a photographer.

Petaluma Seeks Use For Church

A center for culture and the performing arts was proposed last night as uses for the Old Christian Church building in Petaluma.

Recreation director James Raymond said many ideas were suggested for the use of the former church across the street from city hall. The building was recently purchased by the city.

Raymond said that as well as use as a cultural center and for performing arts some proposed it be used for lectures, town meetings and centers for both youth and senior citizens activities.

Raymond said the Heritage Homes Club of Petaluma and historical society suggested it be used for group meetings and as a museum or place for occasional historical displays. He said he doubted, however, the old building could be brought up to meet codes necessary for housing historical artifacts and museum pieces.

Two Resign As Trustees For College

Charles W. Gray and Charles Read Best resigned last night as trustees of the Marin Community College District.

Gray told colleagues he was leaving Marin, while Best was elected last month as a Marin Superior Court judge.

The board asked for applicants to fill Gray's post until the November elections. He said he would step down by July 31. Best announced he would keep his seat until Dec. 31, at which time his replacement, to be elected in November, would take over.

Gray, 49, has been on the board since 1968, when he was appointed to fill an unexpired term. He was returned to his seat by voters last year.

Gray is an official with I. Magnin and Co. in San Francisco.

The 42-year-old Best, an attorney who ousted Judge Samuel W. Gardiner in the June elections, was elected to the board in April 1971.

Guilty Plea In Arson Charge

Jon Christian Ballard, 35, of Fairfax, pleaded guilty yesterday during the second day of his trial in Marin Superior Court to a charge of trying to set fire to a house with a Molotov cocktail.

Judge Henry J. Broderick set sentencing for Aug. 2.

The arson charge stemmed from an argument with another Fairfax man that ended with Ballard driving away only to return a few minutes later to hurl a firebomb on the roof of the friend's house.

Filed in January, the charge was dismissed in February when a witness refused to testify, but was later refiled.

Frasier The Lion Dies: Kidney Problem

LAGUNA HILLS, Calif. (UPI)—Frasier, the sensuous lion, died early today at Lion Country Safari after a long and full life.

Frasier had gained nationwide attention in the past year by taking over a pride of 11 young lionesses and siring 33 cubs in a 16 month period altough he himself was between 17 and 20 years old — the equivalent of 85-100 in a human being.

Veterinarians had disclosed earlier this week that Frasier was ill and diagnosed it as a kidney malfunction.

TV Show Aids Theft Suspect

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A recently released former convictwho finds it "really hard to believe how stupid people are" is back behind bars because detectives found $10,000 worth of stolen jewelry in his car.

Police said Wednesday that John M. Koning, 27, had gained entry to 12 homes listed for sale by posing as a real estate agent, leaving with cash, jewelry and credit cards.

Koning was quoted as saying he got the idea from watching television reruns of a show concerning policemen. (Dragnet).

Prestwick, First In Rank, Dies

PALO ALTO, Calif. (UPI)—Funeral services will be held Friday for Wilbur Prestwick, the first sergeant major in the Marine Corps.

Prestwick was chosen as senior enlisted man for the corps when Congress created the rank in 1956. As sergeant major, he worked on the staff of the Marine commandant.

Prestwick; who died Monday, was 60.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Shootouts Are Not The Answer

Passengers at major air terminals in the Bay Area have noticed a definite tightening of security measures since President Nixon's order last week for anti-skyjacking precautions on all U.S. airline flights.

While the delay and inconvenience and the somewhat humiliating body searches may be resented by a few, the majority are taking it in stride in much the same manner as Marin adapted to the metal detectors and body pats at the Civic Center and the Hall of Justice. (Civic Center security has just been relaxed after 20 months of body and baggage search.)

In both cases, the public accepted the fact that in times of stress, we are forced to forego some of our cherished rights and submit to inconvenience in the interests of public safety.

The long list of tragedies, particularly the events of the last few weeks, have proven conclusively that prevention before the hijacking starts is far better than the cure after an air piracy is in full bloom. And prevention necessarily entails some loss of individual freedom and dignity.

At one time, we relied on the federal air marshals who were to ride shotgun on each commercial airliner to deter the hijackings. When these failed to halt the air piracies, federal agents moved into the next phase, shooting it out with desperadoes. The results have been tragic.

On July 5, when federal agents opened fire against hijackers inside a crowded jet liner over San Francisco, they got the two hijackers all right, but three innocent passengers suffered in the process, one losing his life.

Similarly, innocent passengers became victims when Israeli paratroopers boarded a jetliner on the airfield and shot it out with would-be hijackers.

Shootouts may be in the best traditions of the Far West, particularly when viewed on television or in newspapers from the safety of our living rooms. But they offer little solace to crowded passengers 20,000 feet in the air when bullets start flying and the slugs threaten to blow the plane itself out of the sky.

The only sensible alternative is to nab the hijacker and his weapons before he boards the plane. The majority of the public is willing to submit to delay, inconvenience, and body search, and even an increase in air fare if such measures can provide some assurance that passengers will reach their destinations without having to become unwilling targets of a shootout or to take a forced detour to Cuba.

Until the rash of skyjackings stops, the public is prepared to submit to the stringent security precautions. We hope the airlines are prepared to administer them, on a long-term basis if necessary.

A Real Bargain

At a time when bargains are seemingly very few and far between, the fact there is at least one left should be a cause for rejoicing. We refer to the 15-cent pale blue air-letters which can be purchased at any post office. One of these will carry a page and a half of anyone's writing anywhere in the world where there is a post office. This often means delivery in three days in England of letters posted in Marin, four days in Hong Kong, and only five or six in remote India or Australia. Not bad for 15 cents!

SACRAMENTO SCENE

Unfair Reprisal For Seeking Public Office

By RUS WALTON

If Republicans hope to gain the majority in the State Senate this November, they need every district they can win.

But, they seem to be in the process of throwing away any opportunity they have to win in the 3rd District which is being vacated by retiring State Sen. Stephen Teale, D-Railroad Flats.

One of the candidates for the Republican nomination in the 3rd District primary election was Gilbert A. Stokes, a 25-year veteran of the California Highway Patrol. Stokes was the Patrol's Zone II Commander when he took a leave of absence to run against former Republican Assemblyman Cliar Berryhill, Ceres.

Berryhill defeated Stokes in the primary and now faces Assemblyman Ernie La Coste, D-Modesto, in November. It is an uphill fight for Berryhill. Party registration in the 12-county 3rd Senatorial District is 60 per cent Democratic and 37 per cent Republican.

BUT, WHAT may give Berryhill an even tougher problem is the way Stokes was treated when he reported back to the Highway Patrol. He has been relegated to desk work in the Patrol's Sacramento headquarters. And there he sits, "straightening paper clips," at $24,000 a year.

Stokes' former campaign workers are upset. They see his assignment to a desk job as punishment for daring to seek public office; a slap on the wrist for opposing Berryhill who was endorsed by several prominent Republican legislators. As a result, many of the workers are balking at the idea of supporting Berryhill in the fall campaign.

BERRYHILL IS an innocent victim. He had nothing to do with the fact that Stokes was not returned to his command post. In fact, Berryhill tried to get Highway Patrol Commissioner H. W. Sullivan to return Stokes to the Command of Zone II.

Assemblyman La Coste also went to bat for Stokes. He considers Stokes an excellent officer who had every right to seek public office without reprisals from any source.

STOKES STATES that when he asked for a leave to run for the Senate, he presented a letter of conditions to Patrol Commissioner Sullivan. One of the conditions for his leave was that he would get his command back if he failed to win the election. Stokes claims Sullivan approved the letter, and signed it.

Stokes is an outstanding officer. During his 25 years with the Patrol he worked himself up to its highest civil service position: supervising inspector. In 1969 he was named Commander of Zone IV (Fresno and 14 counties). In 1970 he was made Commander of Zone II with its 660 officers, 200 civilian employes and 16 counties. After the gubernatorial election of 1966, he was a top prospect for appointment to Commissioner of the Highway Patrol.

Aside from the potential impact on this fall's elections, his case raises a more important point:

WHEN AN INDIVIDUAL takes a job with state government, he does not become a "second class citizen." Obviously, taxpayers do not expect a state employe to use state time, or state resources, or state funds, to engage in partisan politics. But, what the employe does on his own time, with his own resources, and his own funds is — or should be — his own business, without reprisal.

It is passing strange that highly placed officials — who are not above engaging in partisan activities — preach to career employes under them a set of standards which they, themselves, do not practice.

"Maybe it's my imagination but they do seem to be getting it closer."

"Remember the good ol' Chicago days when they were outside raising hell, and not inside voting?"

Appreciate Story On Dollar Estate

Thank you so much for your generous coverage of the Robert Dollar Estate in the full page picture story of Wednesday, June 28. We have had many encouraging calls and letters as a result. I hesitate, therefore, to point out a minor error in the story. The Planning Commission, The City Council and the Parks and Recreation Department of San Rafael were invited to tour the 11.1 acre estate and mansion on June 17 not July 17.

As reported in the Independent-Journal of June 19 Councilman Lawrence Mulryan was the only city official to take advantage of the invitation. In all fairness, I must say that Mayor Bettini and the other Councilmen at least had the courtesy to decline our invitation. Andrew Snyder of the Parks and Recreation Department indicated that his group would include the estate in an already scheduled tour of San Rafael's parks but did not show up.

The Planning Commission, however, did not even have the courtesy to reply. Perhaps our invitation was in some way not properly presented and, if so, I apologize. In consideration of the tenants of the Dollar Estate who were gracious enough to allow the tour as well as the ten members of our committee who gave up their Saturday morning to conduct the tour, it would have been nice if our city officials had at least had the courtesy to tell us that they did not intend to accept our invitation.

Again thank you for your coverage. I'm sure that it the city fathers wish to reconsider gur offer, I could arrange another tour and would be most happy to do so.

Right To Develop Is Not Absolute

A commonly heard expression lately is: "A man has the right to develop his land." But does he have that right in all cases?

Land investment firms build high-density cluster dwellings that desecrate the landscape, create unacceptable traffic problems, increase pollution, and overtax the sewer, water and school systems. Developers attempt to justify this on the premise that, because they own the land, they have that right. The fact is, they bought this land from a farmer or rancher who in no way imposed an objectionable operation on the community. Further, they bought this land on speculation as an investment.

When a man buys stock as an investment, he has no guarantee that he will profit. And, should the venture fail and result in monetary loss, he has no recourse whatsoever. Why, then, should the taxpayer underwrite the safety of a land speculator's investment?

By invoking moratoriums, the local governing bodies indicate a public awareness of the problem and they are taking a closer look at the impact of new developments on communities. It is an accepted fact that any new residential development increases the tax burden on the surrounding property owners. This, in addition to the detrimental effect on the environment, should justify even more stringent regulations by the planning agencies.

The right to make a profit from the land should and must be subordinated to the general welfare of the community.

Clarification On Tiburon School

Your news article, "Two Primary Schools to Remain Operable," on Friday, July 7, 1972, contained two serious errors which should be rectified. First, I did propose that Tiburon School should be closed, not only to "save money," but primarily for sound educational reasons. Second, I did not suggest the "shutting down" of the Belvedere School, as reported. The two situations have many similarities, but there are a few differences requiring the continuation of the latter school at this time.

In the southern part of the Reed District, within proximity to each other, there are three schools: Reed School, with 15 classrooms; Belvedere School, with 5; and Tiburon School, with 4. The Superintendent anticipates that approximately 17 or 18 rooms (including those for special instruction) are needed for the opening of school in September. In view of this projection, 6 or 7 rooms will be surplus, which should mean that at least one of the small schools could be closed.

The principal of the subject facilities recommended a consolidation of the schools. Instruction, auxiliary services, and child placement would be improved, he reported in writing to the study committee. He further reported that approximately twenty parents had recently requested transfers for their children.

In addition, the principal said that communication would improve between himself and his staff. Due to the greater opportunity to exchange ideas, techniques, and educational philosophy, actual instruction could be enhanced. Consolidation would afford greater flexibility for team teaching and for grade level combinations (if deemed advisable). Obviously, the utilization of audio-visual equipment and the interchange of educational materials among teachers would be more efficient with consolidation.

Coupled with these numerous educational reasons, the closure of the small Tiburon School is further warranted in that the District would save about an amount equal to the average salary for a teacher, when taking into account direct operational costs and building repairs and maintenance. The closing of the Belvedere School would be about 50 per cent greater.

It is readily apparent that the cost of education is increasing rapidly. The Reed Board could have slowed down this pace a little by closing its small Tiburon School. Moreover, as indicated by the majority of the educators participating in the study, the instructional program for several children could have been improved. My position in this matter was based upon these facts.

Realists Knew That Wallace Couldn't Campaign Actively

MIAMI BEACH — The turmoil of this national convention of one of the two great political parties has so little other than rhetoric to offer for the fundamental ills besetting the nation. The tragic symbol of this irrelevance is George Corley Wallace.

In his wheel chair, paralyzed from the waist down, waves of sentimentality break over him. His press agents have kept alive the illusion of his candidacy and the implied threat of a third party Wallace ticket. The realists joining in the cheering know that his condition will make any active campaigning next to impossible. The optimism of his entourage at the hospital belies the fact that he has no control over his bodily functions with only a slight chance of improvement.

WALLACE HAS A bargaining counter in his 370 delegates. And he can lead his forces out of the Democratic Party and eventually into the Nixon camp. As he keeps a strict strategic silence on his plans in the opening round the best guessing here is that he will do just that.

Wallace was shot just after he stepped from behind his bullet-proof podium at a Laurel, Mc., rally. In a speech a few days before he had opposed gun control at any level, state or national. His spokesmen let it be known as he awaited surgery for the removal of a bullet from his spinal column that he continued to oppose any control. His assailant used one of the "Saturday night specials" that can be bought for as little as $15 by anyone drunk, drugged or sober who flashes some kind of identification.

THE DEMOCRATIC platform calls for a gun-control law which "must include a ban on the sale of hand guns known as Saturday night specials which are unsuitable for sporting purposes." This matches the language in Sen. Birch Bayh's bill that finally has jimmied out of the Senate Judiciary Committee and will presumably be moved onto the floor when committee members have turned in their lengthy reports.

The Wallace forces put in a minority gun-control plank that will come before the convention for 20 minutes of debate along with the other 19 minority proposals. Stern stuff it reads as follows:

"The constitutional right of the people to keep and bear arms must reamin inviolate. A disarmed citizenry would soon lose its liberty and freedom. But persons who use guns in the commission of crimes should be punished."

THE TRAGEDY to Wallace growing out of the gun barrel of a Saturday night special to one side, his use of the busing issue was far more damaging and divisive. Busing with its emotional overtones is the kind of swamp of irrelevancy in which American politics so often bogs down.

In any rational view busing could be at best only a temporary expedient pending a massive attack on the terrible inequities of ghetto life and ghetto education. The busing of black pupils into white suburban schools and white pupils into black ghetto schools was certain to arouse the fiercest hostility and the benefits to flow from it in integration were doubtful to say the least.

This was what Wallace exploited, and it paid off in state after state. Here in Florida he got 41 per cent of the primary vote which meant 75 out of 81 delegates. In Michigan where antibusing rages like a prairie fire, Wallace drew 51 per cent of the Democratic vote. The fight over the busing plank will be the most explosive of all the platform hassles.

WALLACE'S CONTRIBUTION to the Nixon strategists is to make busing a springboard for the President in the coming campaign. That he intends to use it to the utmost he made clear in a message when he signed a federal aid to higher education bill. In failing to match his call for strict and uniform limits on busing the President said Congress had retreated "from an urgent call for responsibility." His domestic counsellor John D. Ehrlichman told reporters that if Congress does not act, the President will go "to the people" with the intimation he will seek a constitutional amendment on busing. The traditional Democratic stand on civil rights, with moderate approval of busing as a temporary expedient, gives the Republicans a vulnerable target in the months ahead.

New Trade Overtures Signify Ending Of War

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Notable in U.S. business dealings with both the Soviet Union and China is the expectation of a fairly early end to the war in Vietnam.

Obviously the United States could not issue to the Boeing Co. a license to sell to China $150 million in 707 jet transports if it believed they could be used to deliver war supplieu to North Vietnam against U.S. and allied forces there.

The same is true of negotiations soon to be resumed in Moscow looking toward new trade agreements with the Soviet Union.

Involved is favored nation treatment for the entry of Soviet goods into the United States and extension of credits to the Soviet Union.

NEITHER WOULD be likely to win approval of Congress if the question of Soviet aid to North Vietnam still stood between the two governments. It also could be expected that maritime unions quickly would cancel their agreement to load Soviet or third-country flag ships.

A lesser but important issue is the settlement of the Soviet Union's lend-lease debt to the United States left over from World War II. From an original figure of $10.8 billion, the total has been scaled down to $800 million auked by the United States and $300 million offered by the Soviet Union. A settlement of this issue is another item expected to emerge from the Moscow negotiations to be conducted by U.S. Commerce Secretary Peter G. Peterson.

One is the fact that Soviet agreement to buy $750 million worth of American grains in the next three years opens up a market for American surpluses that did not exist before.

It is expected that most of the Soviet purchases will be in feed grains and most of that in corn. It will be fed to livestock to help the Russians meet a growing consumer demand for meat.

A huge American corn crop in 1971 left the United States with a 600 million bushel surplus over what could be used. An important percentage of this will now be sold to the Soviets at current market prices.

NOT ONLY DO the Russian purchases eat into grain surpluses and help ease the U.S. imbalance in world trade, an important side effect is the new jobs to be created. Peterson estimated that up to 37,500 non-farm jobs could be created in the next three years.

A second consideration is the fact that the grain deal is only one facet of a vast over-all increase in two-way trade hoped for by both sides.

One important example is the fact the U.S. government has licensed American firms to bid on a billion dollars worth of equipment to go into Russia's huge Kama River truck building project 600 miles east of Moscow.

IMPORTANT suggestions also have come from the Russians.

One is a large passenger car plant for which the United States would supply the equipment. Repayment would be made in finished cars that the United States could sell in Europe.

Another suggested joint venture would involve the sale of Soviet natural gas to both East and West coasts of the United States.

Demo Delegates Are Softies; Not Like Good Ol' Chicago

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. — A group of veterans had a reunion here in Miami this week to celebrate the fourth anniversary of the Chicago Democratic war of 1968.

The veterans, many of whom brought their families, were a little older, a lot balder and many had a paunch. They ate too much, drank too much and told war stories about the great battles they had fought in '68.

"THOSE WERE the days," one veteran said wistfully as he sipped a bourbon in the Boom Boom Room of the Fontainebleau Hotel. "I'll never forget trying to get back to my room at the Conrad Hilton. I was hit by four cops, maced by a state trooper and run over by a National Guard jeep."

Another veteran sitting next to him said, "Remember, Harry, when we tried to raise the American Flag in Grant Park and a squad of mounted policemen trampled us to the ground with their horses?"

"Do I remember?" Harry said. "You saved my life, Freddy. You threw yourself on a tear gas grenade."

Another veteran said, "Did I ever tell you what happened to me on Michigan Avenue? I was walking along the sidewalk and two motorcycle cops came zooming down on me.

"I JUMPED out of the way of one, got hit by the second, knocked into the street and then was thrown into a paddy wagon and charged with disturbing the peace."

Harry said, "They don't have Democratic conventions like that any more. The young kids just don't have the courage we did."

A veteran named Charley agreed. "All the kids want to do these days is nominate someone. They don't know you have to fight for what you get in politics."

"You can say that again," Freddy said. "Where would Hubert Humphry be today if we hadn't fought for Chicago?"

"Or Ed Muskie?" someone else added.

"CHICAGO WAS the great one," Harry said. "It'll go down in history with Belleau Woods, and Midway and Iwo Jima. You know, I try to tell my kids what it was like in Chicago in 1968, but they don't want to hear anything about it."

"Neither do my kids," a veteran said. "To them it's history. But if we hadn't taken Chicago, there wouldn't be a Democratic Party today. A party united, one for all and all for one.

Another veteran said, "I'd like to go back to Chicago some day with my family and see it now.

"I'D LIKE TO visit State Street and show them where we were cut off for three days by Mayor Daley's fire trucks."

"I hear it's all built up and you can hardly see the war damage," Freddy said.

"There was a girl in Chicago I gave a candy bar and a pack of cigarettes to. I wonder whatever happen ed to her," Harry said.

A group of young people came into the Boom Boom Room handing out McGovern stickers.

"LOOK AT THEM," a veteran said scornfully. "When we were their age we were attacking the stockyards with stones and sticks, and throwing our bodies across the highway, all for the Democratic Party. And what are they doing? Handling out stickers in the Boom Boom Room. What's happened to the moral fiber of the Democratic Party?"

Wankel Engine Gaining Momentum

By WILLIAM J. HAMPTON
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

DETROIT — Most talk about the Wankel rotary engine these days centers on its probable role in the auto industry. But the engine's characteristics suggest at least as big a role in the small-engine market.

The auto industry was attracted to the rotary engine because it is smaller, lighter, smoother running, and mechanically simpler than its piston counterpart. These attributes make the Wankel an even better bet to power such things as snowmobiles, lawn mowers, motorcycles, and chain saws.

Not that this hasn't occurred to small-engine producers. Indications are that a switch to Wankel power has already begun among nonautomotive motor builders.

Last fall, for example, Outboard Marine Corp. of Waukegan, Ill., became the first U.S. Wankel manufacturer to put a rotary engine of its own design into the hands of consumers. The company field tested a fleet of its snowmobiles equipped with its 35-hp. aluminum Wankel. Test were encouraging and the company has since gone into limited production of the new engine for introduction in two of its snowmobile lines this fall.

Another U.S. snowmobile maker, Arctic Cat of Thief River Falls, Minn., has already sold more than 30,000 snowmobiles powered by German-built rotary engines supplied by Fichtel and Sachs. Recently the German engine builder signed a contract to supply Arctic Cat with Wankels for lawn mowers.

Meanwhile, Yanmar Diesel of Japan has been marketing 22 hp. and 50 hp. Wankel outboard motors. Outboard Marine is also reportedly moving into that field with preparations for testing its own rotary outboard engine.

Other manufacturers are studying the engine's potential in motorcycles and chain saws.

To some degree, interest in the Wankel among small-engine producers is due to the motor's novelty. For others, the handwriting is on the wall and it says Wankel is the way to go.

"The two-stroke engine is dead," says one industrial source. "It survives because it's light and simple, but its time is limited. If you muffle it or put on pollution-control devices, you can pretty well kill it."

The two-stroke engine's problem is a sensitivity to exhaust back pressure. This pressure, which tends to prevent exhaust gases from leaving the engine, develops when exhaust is directed through a muffler or emission-control device that restricts its flow. Most two-stroke engine manufacturers have gotten around the problem by adopting flow-through mufflers that permit both the exhaust and the accompanying engine noise to pass through unimpeded.

That solution is fine until the federal government adopts anticipated noise- and pollution-control regulations for small engines. At that point, concede most observers, the two-stroke egine will be hard put to compete.

Four-stroke engines, much less susceptible to back-pressure problems, have a better chance of meeting any such standards. But the Wankel can meet them more easily, and with extra benefits too.

The resulting state of affairs means an engine vastly simpler than a piston engine. Because the rotary engine requires no valves, rocker arms, push rods, or camshafts, it is both smaller and mechanically simpler than its reciprocating counterpart.

Wankels are also remarkably powerful for their size, suggesting that more powerful rotary engines could be substituted for existing piston engines with no need for additional engine room.

One unavoidable problem with single-piston engines is vibration produced in transforming the up-and-down movement of the piston into the rotating motion of the output shaft. Vibration can be minimized by adding more pistons; this is why eight-cylinder engines are smoother than four-cyclinder engines.

But the Wankel, whose triangular rotor already moves in rotation, is inherently smoother than any piston engine.

In the Wankel, a rotor moves around inside a combustion chamber shaped like a fat numeral eight. The roter's three sides define three spaces in the chamber, and the volumes of these spaces change as the rotor moves.

Curtiss-Wright Corp. of Wood-Ridge, N.J., demonstrated the compact power of the Wankel in 1960 when it developed a single-rotor Wankel for lawn-mower use. The experimental engine, a cylinder about five inches high and seven inches across, has a displacement of 4.3 cubic inches yet produces three horsepower.

More recently Graupner of Germany developed a rotary engine for model airplanes that produces one-half horsepower from a displacement of one-third cubic inch. The tiny engine fits within a 2¾-inch cube.

Potential of the Wankel in the small-engine market is clear. The engine already is regarded as a serious challenger to the piston engine in the automotive field, where strict emission standards make challenge tougher.

Nixon Selects Woman For Atomic Energy Commission

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI)—Dr. Dixy Lee Ray, a marine biologist who drives a low-slung sports car and considers herself to be a moderate on environmental matters, was appointed yesterday by President Nixon to the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission.

Dr. Ray, 58, would become the second woman ever appointed to the AEC if her nomination is confirmed by the Senate. Her term would expire June 30, 1977.

Dr. Ray is director of the Seattle Science Center, a post she accepted in 1963 while a member of the University of Washington faculty which she had joined in 1945.

She declined to comment on specific problems currently facing the AEC which has been under a mounting attack by groups protesting its role in promoting nuclear industry.

But as a biologist, she believes she is as knowledgeable as anyone about problems of preserving environmental quality.

"I love the earth as much as anyone," she said. "I've lived as close to the world's creatures as anyone.

"But I'm often distressed at people who have just discovered nature.

"No creature, including humans, can live on earth and not have an effect. Animals eat plants and that's not very good for the plants. Even pre-industrial man changed things.

"We must not stop behaving as humans. But we have to keep our options open. We must be constantly monitoring the effects of innovations and be able to pull back, if that is the wisest decision.

"It is a lot of hooey to say the earth is dying. These statements are made by people with no idea of biological systems."

Dr. Ray is a familiar sight in the Puget Sound area. She breezes from her home on Fox Island near Tacoma to work in Seattle in a sleek foreign sports car and once a week she conducts a show on an educational television channel. The program is about marine creatures and it is presented in simple language.

She is a native of Tacoma and earned her bachelor's and master's degrees in zoology at Mills College in California and her Ph.D in biology at Stanford University. She is a Phi Beta Kappa, won a John Simon Guggenheim Fellowship in 1952 and was named "maritime man of the year" by the Seattle Chamber of Commerce in 1966. She has performed many assignments for the national science foundation.

She wears her hair short — pixy style —and her eyes are snapping brown and her voice is soft and warm.

Pat Montandon Wins Her Case

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A Superior Court jury Wednesday awarded $151,000 to former television personality Pat Montandon in her libel suit against TV Guide on grounds it insinuated she was a call girl.

The jury of seven men and five women deliberated for a full day before returning its verdict. A previous trial resulted in a hung jury.

In 1968 TV Guide ran a listing of her guest shot on another TV panel show. The listing said: "From Party-Girl to Call-Girl Scheduled Guest: TV personality Pat Montandon and author of 'How to be a Party Girl'."

Attorneys for TV Guide said they would appeal the verdict.

2 School Panel Seats To Expire

Nominations for two vacancies on the Marin County Committee on School District Organization are being sought by Virgil S. Hollis, county superintendent of schools.

Hollis said the terms of members John T. Schmitz, First Supervisorial District, and Mrs. Edwin Gardner, fourth Supervisorial District, expire this year.

Nominees must be over 18, a registered voter in Marin and may not be employed by a school district.

Nominations from the floor also may be made during the annual meeting of the group, to be held later this year, said Hollis.

Fifth First Ballot Victor

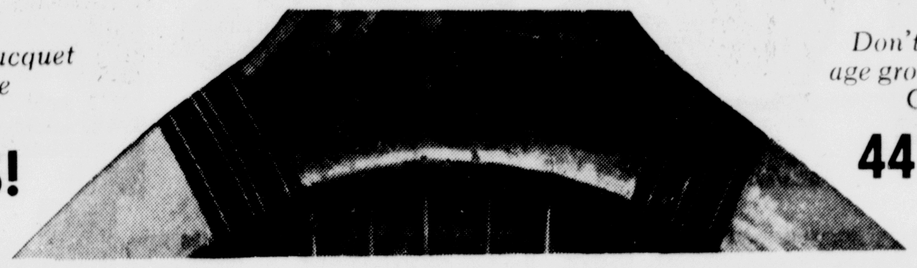

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — George McGovern is the fifth straight Democratic presidential nominee to be chosen on the first ballot.

In 1952, Adiai Stevenson won the nomination on the third ballot. He was renominated in 1956 on the first ballot, and thereafter John F. Kennedy, Lyndon B. Johnson and Hubert H. Humphrey all were picked on the first roll calls.

Wednesday night, the 36th quadrennial Democratic convention gave McGovern an easy first-ballot win.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS - A SUMMER TRADITION

Fashion show commentator Jeff Skov of Kentfield introduced Mrs. Blaine S. Boyden, a member of the Junior League of San Francisco Inc., at yesterday's Northgate Group of the Marin Art and Garden Center fashion luncheon. The first of the summer series of Wednesday fashion luncheons, held at the center in Ross, was sponsored by the two organizations. The events are a summer tradition in Marin, and many of the 478 guests in the sell-out audience have been coming to the fashion luncheons since they began in 1947. Mrs. Boyden modeled a long, polka dot gown in red, white and blue with a detachable neck tie.

The Image-Maker At Democratic Session

By GAY PAULEY

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — Ruth Regina is the image-maker for the Democratic National Convention.

The tiny, brown-eyed brunette is the behind-the-scenes makeup expert whose powder puff and Panstick assure that those on stage and on camera for millions of television viewers "look natural," and that the harsh lights of television do not put conventioneers in a bad light.

"TV lights are not flattering," said Mrs. Regina in the understatement of the convention. On color camera, for instance, ruddy skins look ruddier. And the lines that would blur under ordinary candlepower look like furrows when the camera turns on.

"Even one hair out of place will catch the lights and shine like a beacon," said Mrs. Regina. Accordingly, she carefully brushes the curly top of Lawrence F. O'Brien, the convention chairman who's on the podium most of each session.

MRS. REGINA said she does very little on makeup for Mrs. Dorothy Vredenburgh Bush, the party's secretary who calls the roll.

Just a lipstick to give a soft, but not a dull look, she said. And no false eyelashes.

"I wish," she said, "that Mrs. Bush would smile all the time. She has dimples."

She will not use on politicians, male or female, any of the makeup tricks she would use on show business people with whom she's worked for years. They often need exaggeration of features.

"But you don't do anything that will distract on that platform," she said in an interview at her Miami Beach salon. "Just a little matte finish is about all most skins need. Don't overdo."

Mrs. Regina works her quiet magic with little more than various shades from light to dark of a cream-based skin finish and powder to "set" it.

A DUSTING of powder on a balding pate keeps it from shining like a polished apple under lights. She can make a double chin "disappear" by using dark toned makeup on the puffy sections, blended into the lighter jaw line. She can shade out puffiness and bags under eyes or use a highlight to fake out a "depression".

Mrs. Regina works with assistants Marlena May and Rudolph Liszt at her first Democratic convention. They also did the makeup for the party's fund-raising telethon before convention opening.

The makeup artist has worked the Republican convention before and has contracted to supervise again in August when the GOP convenes here.

Mrs. Regina, born in Chicago, grew up in the beauty and wig business which has been a part of her family for eight generations. She recalled that as a child when her school day ended she would go into the shop to help her mother and father.

She trained also with Dick Smith, Andrew Cianelli and Bob O'Bradovich, whom she called "the best makeup experts on the East Coast."

MRS. REGINA started specializing in television makeup when the medium began its rapid expansion in the 1960s and when shows began originating in Miami Beach. For years she was supervisor of all makeup and coiffures on the Jackie Gleason show. She's done the Miss Universe pageant for 13 years.

The walls of her shop are lined with photographs of persons with whom she's worked — Jack Benny, Frank Sinatra, Tiny Tim, Victor Borge, Danny Thomas, Jack Paar, Milton Berle, George Jessel and Judy Garland among them.

They Think Young And Act It Too

Wrong. The grandmothers in this eastern Texas city, who grew tired of paying dues to finance banquets for a national organization, have struck a blow for "Grandmas' Lib."

The women, who range in age from 60 to 87, have turned idealistic rhetoric into positive action, financing construction of a swimming pool and a $1,000 safety fence at the Lufkin State School for the Mentally Retarded.

Two of the grandmothers went to a Lufkin bank and borrowed $300 on a personal note to make a down payment on the safety fence. The women's husbands assumed they would end up paying the note, but the wives paid the 90-day obligation in less than a month.

There are other projects, some of them "grandmotherly." The women make and sell needle holders, afghans, quilts and even provide a taxi service.

Last year the grandmothers learned of a Lufkin woman who was confined to a Houston hospital with a terminal illness. The woman sometimes had to spend two hours on a stretcher before a nurse was available to lift her to a bed after treatment.

POWDER PUFF DERBY

Storm Ruins Pilot's Chance

Karen Kahn of Tiburon, Marin's only pilot in the 26th annual All-Woman Transcontinental Air Race, ran into a thunder storm Monday, just short of the finish line in Toms River, N.J., and lost sight of the airport for three minutes.

The storm caused Karen and her co-pilot, Ann Morrissey of San Francisco, to finish 78th in a field of 92 airplanes in the 2,616 mile race from San Carlos to Toms River.

The race is also known as the Powder Puff Derby.

Winning scores are computed under an involved handicap system so results were not known until yesterday. With tenths of a second between finishes the loss of tha three minutes could conceivably have cost the local pilots a top 10 spot. They exceeded their own handicap speed, 154 miles per hour, by almost 14 minutes per hour.

Nine of the 18 pilots finishing in the top 10 are Californians. First place pilot, Marian Banks of San Diego, and her co-pilot, Dottie Sanders of Santee, received $5,000 and a silver trophy at the awards banquet held Wednesday night at the Thunderbird Hotel in Mantolaking, N.J.

Helen McGee of Sonora received $3,000 for second place and an additional $100 for the highest score by a pilot flying solo and, as all top 10 winners, a trophy. Third place pilot, Berni Stevenson of North Hollywood was also a solo pilot.

Other winners were Helen Wilke and Kathy Long, both of Texas, fourth place; Marion Jayne and her daughter, Patricia, both of Illinois, fifth; Toni Kuhns of San Carlos and Pat Appel of Atherton, sixth; Pauline Glasson, both of Texas, seventh; Sphia Payton of Coropolis, Pa., and Nancy Fairbanks of Cincinnati, eighth; Margaret Mead of Manhattan Beach and Lucy Moori Brooks of Palos Verdes, ninth; and Landon Storrs of Hamden, Conn., and Trina Jarish of Costa Mesa, 10th.

Betrothal Told; December Rite Is Being Planned

Planning a December wedding are Candice Mary Schall of Rohnert Park and Howard B. Dunlap III of San Rafael. Their engagement was announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John B. McEvoy, former San Rafael residents, now living in Rohnert Park.

The bride-elect is the sister of Forrest Reed Schall of Grass Valley, and Cynthia Ann Scall of Santa Cruz. She attended San Rafael High School.

The future bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Johnson of Novato, and the brother of Larry Madeiros and Judy Dunlap. He was graduated from San Marin High School and is employed by Gunther Hagel in San Rafael.

Sweater Look

The sweater look for evenings will be featured this fall. Designers find the look casual — yet luxurious and are using it in many ways — as a one or two-piece dress, as a sweater set with a long skirt, or as an easy cardigan over a bare-shouldered chemise.

THE SUBURBAN SCENE

Open-Air Feast To Precede Play

By MOLLY MARIN

An Elizabethan open-air banquet will be served Saturday evening in Forest Meadows on the Dominican College Campus in San Rafael in celebration of the opening of the Marin Shakespeare Festival.

The annual Feast to Good Will will be served at 5 p.m. in a meadow adjacent to the theater amid an atmosphere of Renaissance merriment with singers, strolling minstrels, dancers and jesters. Artists and craftsmen will display their wares in a village marketplace.

Marinated roast fowl, fruits, breads, cheeses and salads will be followed by pastries in the old English tradition, and adding to the atmosphere will be members of the festival repertory cast in Shakespearean costumes. Guests are urged to attend in costume to lend color to the pageantry of the occasion.

The feast will be followed by the opening performance of "Twelfth Night."

Reservations can be made by calling the Marin Shakespeare Festival box office.

MEMBERS of the Sausalito Yacht Club will honor their French chef, Fernand Loing, and his wife, Gloria, tomorrow by observing the French National holiday, Bastille Day, with a dinner party at the clubhouse.

Cocktails at 6 p.m. will be followed by a French dinner and dancing. Loing is reservations chairman.

BRINDISI, ITALY, will be the first home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Martin Nilsen. The bridegroom will be stationed in Italy with the Air Force. The new Mrs. Nilsen is the former Martha Hetzner, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Paul Hetzner of Tiburon. The evening wedding June 17 was held at the bride's parents home. Mr. and Mrs. Willy B. Nilsen of Toms River, N.J., are the bridegroom's parents.

THE SEBASTOPOL home of Mrs. Jack Edwards was the setting for the marriage of her son, David Milton Adams of Novato, and Leslie Catherine Ploof of San Rafael on June 25.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Lucille Kristensen of San Rafael, and the sister of Mrs. Anita Mork of Germany and Roger Ploof of San Rafael. Mrs. Jessie Kingdon of San Rafael is her grandmother. David is also the son of Milton Adams of Novato, and the brother of Kandi and Richard Adams of Sebastopol.

Donna Claywell of San Rafael was the maid of honor, and David Larsen of San Rafael, the best man. The newlyweds will live in Cotati.

A Lot of Waste

Each of 209 million Americans throws away an average of seven pounds of solid waste per day, which adds up to more than one ton of garbage per person per year.

MARINITES NANCY Reynolds and Jean Pritchard are serving on a committee arranging a testimonial dinner honoring Fanny Lubritsky, Arthur Jue and Richard Lancaster, members of the Screen Actors Guild over the age of 79, who are still active in theater, television and motion pictures.

The dinner is being hosted by members of the San Francisco branches of both the Screen Actors Guild and the Screen Extras Guild and will be held tomorrow night at Marenzi's Italian Restaurant in San Francisco.

Arthur Jue was born and reared in San Rafael and began an acting career in 1910 as part of the circus team in "Mrs. Wiggs and the Cabbage Patch" filmed in San Rafael. He has also appeared in "Blood Alley," "Take the Money and Run" and "Bullitt," all filmed locally.

Both Lancaster and Miss Lubritsky are natives of England.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM Gnoss of Novato and Mrs. Gnoss's cousin and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Kuhn of Sutter Creek, returned Thursday from a 45-day trip to Europe, where they traveled by Eurail.

They visited London, Paris Rome, Florence and Venice. Mrs. Gnoss's favorite city was Venice where they toured four hours on a gondola.

They visited Mr. Kunh's relitives in his native Mannheim, Germany. They also went into East Berlin, where, Mrs. Gnoss said, Russian security was very tight, and the train was stopped twice by officials inspecting passports. Mrs. Gnoss said they later read that one of two men trying to escape had succeeded. They also visited Mrs. Gnoss' relatives in Amstag, Switzerland.

GENERATION RAP

by Helen and Sue Bottel

Remember The Young Don't Have A Monopoly On Love

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:

We have an aunt who is divorced, with a teen-age son. She's gging out with a divorced man.

They hug and kiss whenever they feel like it, which is a lot! They even hold hands going down the street. It looks funny, seeing middle-aged people loving it up in public. Everybody turns around and stares.

DEAR H.:

I don't see anything wrong with a middle-aged couple showing a little affection in public, like holding hands. . . a small kiss or hug. If it's more of a heavy scene - yes, that embarrasses or amuses people, depending on whether they're related to the lovebugs or just out for the view.

However, it's their life so, for now, just turn your head and whistle Dixie. - SUE

DEAR H.:

. . . With emphasis on the "look away" line!

Here's a good test: If some of your friends publicly necked as much as do your aunt and her boyfriend, would they embarrass you? If not, then you're condemning because of age, not actions.

Remember, the young don't have a monopoly on love. - HELEN

HEY, BOTTELS:

What would you say if you were in a singing group and they did something to make you mad - at least someone told you they said bad things about you - so you quit the group, and you told your mother about it, and she got angry at the group and said you could never go back. Then you decided you liked these kids again and they asked you back and you wanted to go, but your mother was still tee-ed off and said, "Absolutely not!!!"

I've never had a big disagreement with my mother before, so how can I change her mind? - DISAPPOINTED SEVENTH GRADER

DISAPPOINTED:

Your first mistake was telling your Mom. It's hard for parents not to take sides when they hear those awful stories about how mean the kids are to their little girl. And it's hard changing directions, when their little girl finally gets the facts straight.

All you can do now is explain the misunderstanding and how fast kids forget. I think she'll relent. . . . And next time, think before you say all those bad things about your friends just to get sympathy. Mothers remember long after you wish they wouldn't! - SUE

DEAR DISAPPOINTED'S MOTHER:

(I think Sue is trying to tell me something . . . But I could remind her of the many times I played Devil's advocate and took the other side of a typical junior high school feud - only to get the typical teenaged girl answer, "But Mo-o-other, you just don't understand how mean they are!")

It's hard not to play Mother Hen when your chick seems threatened, but if you'll look back to your teen years - or even to the last PTA hassle - you'll realize that most quarrels are two-sided, usually blown out of proportion - and as soon blown over unless someone keeps huffing and puffing.

Don't stay in a huff! - HELEN

(Got a problem? Or a subject for discussion, two-generation style? Direct your questions to either Sue or Helen Bottel - or both, in care of the Independent-Journal, if you want a combination mother-daughter answer.)

Osteoporosis Cause: The Lack Of Calcium

Osteoporosis, a disorder of thin, brittle bones, affects almost 40 per cent of American women over the age of 55, according to Dr. Leo Lutwak, preofesor of calinical nutrition at Cornell University.

Dr. Lutwak says osteoporosis is caused primarily from lack of calcium. The greatest source of calcium in the American diet is from milk. A decrease in milk consumption in the adult population is one cause for increased osteoporosis, Dr. Lutwak believes.

Mill Valley Couple Is Wed In Tiburon Rite

Jan Marie Baroni and Kristopher Grant O'Connor, both of Mill Valley, were married Saturday at St. Hilary's Church in Tiburon.

The bride, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Baroni of Mill Valley, had as her maid of honor Sharon Gardner of Novato. Bridesmaids were Arlene Baroni, the bride's sister, Evelyn Spangler and Lynn Montgomery, all of Mill Valley.

The bridegroom, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William O'Connor of Mill Valley, had as his best man his brother, Michael O'Connor, who is stationed with the Air Force at Vandenberg Air Force Base. Ushers were another brother, Robert O'Connor; and the bride's brother, Michael Baroni, both of Mill Valley.

Following the wedding, a reception was held at the Outdoor Art Club in Mill Valley. On their return from a wedding trip to the Feather River resort area, the couple will live in Mill Valley.

Both of the young people were graduated from Tamalpais High School. The bride is employed in the offices of Dr. P. R. Danford in Mill Valley. The bridegroom attended the College of Marin and is employed with O'Connor Heating and Sheet Metal in Mill Valley. He is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Osborne of Bolinas.

Maureen Roche To Head Mount Carmel Women

Mrs. Patrick Roche, new president of the Mount Carmel Women's Club in Mill Valley, will be serving her second term as president this year. She was also president five years ago.

During the 12 years she has been a member of the club, Maureen Roche says she has held just about every office. During this term as president of the club the new president says she hopes to get more newcomers to the area as members, epecially young women.

The club, which was founded to provide social and spiritual activities for the women of our Lady of Mount Carmel parish, is open to all women living within the parish.

The club is planning to have a boutique offering articles hand made by members in the church's salvage shop which is being remodeled.

Mrs. Roche and her husband, who is employed with the American President Lines in San Francisco, were both born in Dublin, Ireland, and worked at the American Embassy there. They have lived in Mill Valley 12 years.

The Roches have three children, Terence, 19, a junior at the University of California; Noreen, 15, a junior at Marin Catholic High School; and Katy, 12, who attends the Mount Carmel School.

Maureen enjoys travel and entertaining friends at home and also likes golf. She has a part-time job as secretary for William E. Busby, consulting engineer, in Mill Valley.

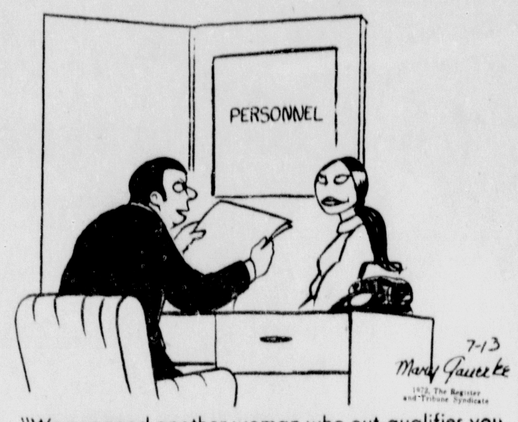

MRS. PATRICK ROCHE

Couturier Had A Favorite Maxim

A favorite fashion maxim of the late Coco Chanel was "Fashion should filter down into the street instead of coming up from the street."

The famed French couturier is the subject of a new book, "Coco Chanel: Her Life, Her Secrets", by Marcel Haedrich

Designer Says Days Of Hard Chic Gone

Fashion is finished with fashion kicks. The costume kick, nostalgia, hard chic. They all are in the past. No less than Oscar de la Renta, one of America's pace-setting designers, says so. "I believe in the totally contemporary approach in clothes," he adds. "I see them worn by women of spirit, with no hangup."

Green Grass, Trees Top A Chicago Poll

In a poll conducted recently by the Chicago Daily News people were asked to choose from 26 things which they considered important to their happiness.

Of those questioned, 95 per cent wanted green grass and trees most, even more than they wanted good neighbors, modern kitchens, shopping centers and good schools.

Reader Urges Return To Individualist Respect

By CYNTHIA PARSONS
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

Since Parent and Child has received a number of interesting letters, I would like to take this opportunitq to answer a few.

Dana W. Connell, Rockford, Ill., identifies himself as a teacher. He quotes from John Gardner's book: "Recovery of Confidence."

"One purpose of social change is to find new solutions that will preserve old values. When the spring dries up, the farmer seeks a new source of water, not for love of novelty, but to bring himself back into balance with his environment."

As Connell comments, "I feel that the most basic value we must return to is respect for each individual child."

HE CONTINUED, "A second change I would like to see realized is respect for the teacher as a professional." And to bolster this argument, he quoted from Jean Piaget: "It is by and through research that the teacher's profession ceases to be merely a trade and ... acquires the dignity of all professions that draw upon both the arts and sciences."

How wonderful it would be if every teacher and every school principal really treated each child as an individual and not by age or grade level. How many times parents asking for individual attention for a child have been told that "this is what all fourth-graders do."

An elementary-school principal who believed only half-heartedly in individualization told an eager reading teacher, "You may allow the better readers to choose their own books; but not before they have read all the stories and filled in all the pages in the basal reader and workbook."

The teacher remonstrated, explaining that the children she had in mind were competent readers and could gain nothing from the basal material.

The principal cut off any further discussion by announcing, "One way I'm sure those kids are sixth-grade readers is if they read the sixth-grade book."

Which leads to the problem raised by Dana Connell's second desired change — that teachers be respected as professionals. Such respect will come only when teachers and school administrators respect themselves as professionals using applied research as the basis for their behavior.

MANY OF the daily decisions made by school authorities are all too apt to be based on whim or fancy or folklore or tradition. A fewer number are based on the results of sound pedagogical research. If students perform better when treated as individuals — and all research data up to the present has so proven — then all schools and classrooms not organized around that learning principle are unprofessional.

Gloria Pitzer, Algonic, Mich., a mother of five children, defends the grading system by writing in part:

"Isn't our entire human society built on grading systems? Aren't children expected to grow up and be able to cope with disappointments and problems or are we to coddle them through infancy and adolescence, shielding them from hurt when they don't make top marks? Isn't a man's profession or occupation measured by a grading system?"

I would answer each question with a "no"; even the second which is rather like the conundrum "Are you still beating your wife?" Our job is to teach children to be problem solvers, but to expect that arbitrary grading systems contribute in any way to this learning deserves an F for reasoning.

D. Randolph Smith, Independence, Mo., is a public school teacher who is very much in favor of grading which he equates with discipline. He writes:

"IF THE TEACHER wants the letters printed 10 times or one hundred times, why shouldn't the student obey? Discipline is one of the primary things taught (or not taught) in the schools. Do you want the student to decide how many times and when and how the assignment should be done? Good grief, the problem now with all the protesting, rioting, etc., is because students think they know more than their teachers; so school boards, parents, and even administrators have all but given in to the student."

Since column space is limited, I will answer only the second question with a "yes." The more a student is involved in the method which will help him learn, the more chance there is of his being able to learn.

If I, for example, am to learn new vocabulary words, I must practice them orally. I want to try them out and prefer that I do so in the presence of one who knows them already. As I falter, my teacher assists. When I am correct, he praises. Repetition, for me, is essential.

But I know many who don't need either the repetition or the personal attention to study new vocabulary. I eschew such aid when reading and studying poetry, for instance.

It would be wonderful if teachers really knew what assignments were best for which learners, and so could be trusted to "decide how many times and when and how the assignemnts should be done." But since most teachers give the same assignments to groups of very different individuals, then I must disagree with Smith.

Let the children "decide how many times and when and how the assignments should be done."

Members of the Novato Boys' Club Auxiliary donated the $300 raised at a spring dance to the Novato Boys' Club Building and Equipment Fund.

To raise more funds for the club members will print personalized cookbooks and sew items to be sold at a holiday boutique. Mrs. Dave Milano is in charge of a current project, selling gift wrapping and ribbon.

NEWLYWEDS TO LIVE IN NEW ENGLAND

Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Hogan III will make their first home in Winthrop, Mass. The bride is the former Mary Virginia Egan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Egan of San Rafael. Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Hogan Jr. of West Acton, Mass., are the bridegroom's parents. The pair were wed at St. Sebastian's Catholic Church in Kentfield on Saturday. (Jack Fulton photo)

20-Year Member Picked As Garden Club President

Mrs. Beatrice Pedrazzini, a member of the Petaluma Garden Club for 20 years, has been installed as the club's new president.

a resident of Petaluma for 40 years, Mrs. Pedrazzini has served previously as president of the club, as well as program chairman and secretary.

The garden club is directed toward conservation and education in general horticulture and encourages garden and city-beautification, commented Mrs. Pedrazzini. The club's 1971 Spring Flower Show was awarded the blue ribbon for the best Garden Club Flower Show, Class C, in the state.

Activities for the coming club year include another Spring Flower Show and the Junior Gardeners.

Mrs. Pedrazzini is also a member of the Petaluma Woman's Club and the United Presbyterian Woman's Association. Her pastime activities include gardening, flower arranging, music and reading.

A native of Estacada, Ore., Mrs. Pedrazzini received the bachelor's degree from Oregon State University. Her children are Robert L. Pedrazzini of San Rafael, Mrs. John Clement of Petaluma and Wallace J. Pedrazzini of Las Vegas, Nev.

Newly-elected officers serving with Mrs. Pedrazzini are Mmes. Robert Mayes, vice president; Chris Marquart, recording secretary; Fred Young, treasurer, and Eva Benson, corresponding secretary.

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Most Important Thing About A Signal: Is Partner Awake?

The value of a defensive signal depends on many factors: how often the situation occurs, how useful the information is likely to be and so on. The most important factor of all is whether your partner has his eyes open when you give him the signal. A nod is as good as a wink to a blind horse.

BEGINNING OF SIGNAL

West opened the singleton four of hearts, and East won with the ace. East returned the queen of hearts, South played the king and West ruffed with the seven of spades.

This was the beginning of a signal, but East wasn't paying attention. East was thinking how clever he was to lead a second heart for his partner to ruff, and in the excitement he forgot to notice his partner's card.

West returned a diamond, and dummy won with the ace. Declarer promptly led a trump from dummy, and East put up the ace at once. West dropped the four of spades, completing his signal.

WHAT IT MEANS

What do you mean when you play first high and then low in the trump suit? This "echo" in trumps means that you have a third trump.

In this case West's meaning was clear. The play of the seven and then the four of trumps menat that West still had a trump higher than the seven. East could safely lead another heart, relying on his partner to ruff higher than the dummy.

EAST'S MISTAKE

In short, East should have known that he could defeat the contract by leading another heart. Instead, however, East tried to get a trick with the king of diamonds. South ruffed and drew trumps, after which he easily made his game contract.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner bids one heart, and the next player passes.

♠ - K Q J 8 3
♥ - K 9 8 6
♦ - 10
♣ - A K J.

What do you say?

Answer: Bid two spades.

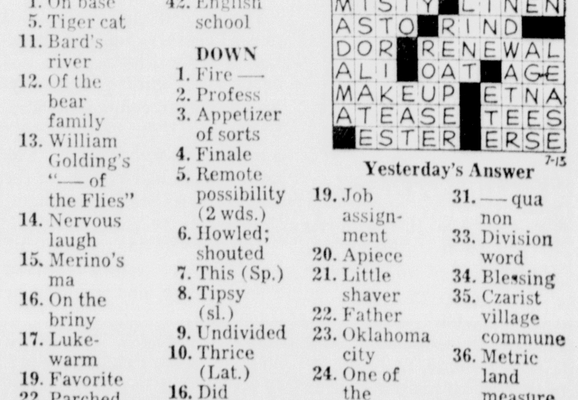

This immediate jump in a new suit shows that a slam is possible even if partner has a minimum opening bid. You will show the heart support later.

Warning Issued On Damaged Can Goods

LANSING, Mich. (UPI)—The Consumer Protection Bureau of Michigan warns shoppers to beware of bargain-priced goods in cans which are dented, rusted or swollen because of pinhole leaks which may have destroyed the airtight seal.

A swollen can should never be purchased and should always be discarded because a bulged or swollen can means the seal is improper and the contents of the can are building up pressure from spoilage.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

Try this quiz today on the July 13 birthday of Kenneth Clark (1903-), British lord and scholar:

T F 1. It isn't often that a soft spoken, kindly university professor becomes a much-sought-after television star, but it happened in the 1970s to Kenneth Clark after he wrote and televised a 13-week BBC series on "Civilisation."

T F 2. Thanks to a clever ancestor who left the Clark family wealthy, little Kenneth learned about art and culture as a byproduct of his parents' restless travels in and about Europe and the British Isles.

T F 3. At Oxford in the 1920s, young Clark got mixed up with the wrong company and nearly was expelled for joining in a noisy football victory celebration that disturbed High Street shopkeepers.

T F 4. Lord Kenneth Clark has no plans whatsoever to ease off in his work, now that he is 69, but plans to finish a new TV series on modern art and publish at least four more books.

ANSWERS

1. TRUE — Clark has been seen on television in more than 20 foreign countries.

2. TRUE — His great-grandfather made a fortune as the inventor of a cotton spool.

3. FALSE — Kenneth was a model Oxford student, always serious and sober.

4. TRUE — Clark's book, "Civilisation: a Personal View," is a best-seller.

Town's New Budget Set: $1.2 Million

Corte Madera's 1972-73 budget totals $1,271,163, Frank Bigley, the town's director of finance, announced yesterday.

The figure is higher than this year's budget of $1,154,807, but less than the $1,303,997 originally proposed.

Councilmen on Saturday passed the budget "as revised" but exact figures had to be recomputed as so many changes had been made in departmental requests.

Bigley said the final total will mean an undetermined increase in the tax rate over this year's rate of $1.03, but not as high an increase as the $1.8525 projected under the proposed budget figure.

He said departmental allocations in the budget include $161,730 for the fire department, nearly double this year's $85,274. The police department's budget is $283,603, compared to this year's total of $269,716.

The recreation department's budget was set at $56,048, against this year's figure of $43,008. The total for the public works streets department is $134,402, compared with this year's $181,758.

Bigley said councilmen approved the town redevelopment agency's requested budget of $229,382 without alteration.

The tax rate will be set during August, Bigley said.

ART REVIEW

Another Show With Theme That Baffles The Viewer

By LAURA DEVENDORF

Here we go with those baffling themes again. This month the Marin Society of Artists is offering a Macro-Micro show at their gallery in the Ross Art and Garden Center.

And if you don't ask what they mean by it, you'll never know.

The intent was for artists to take something very small and enlarge it or to shrink a subject down. And with that in mind, looking at the show again would still never give you a hint.

Few handle the idea as directly as Sydney Herschleb does in "Big Money," a very exact blow-up of a nickle. They don't even connect it subtly as does Don Elda Boutwell in her captivating primitive of three girls sitting on the grass before a blue china pattern background. One of them is admiring a porcelain ring, blown up to huge proportions through a magnifying glass.

The work is usually abstract or nonobjective with a title hung on it that fits the show's theme or, short of that, is too baffling to challenge.

Not that these things are unattractive. Far from it. Some of the best and all of the winners fall into the category.

Anne Wienholt's chunky bronze tablet "Earthscape" and Jeanne M. Palmer's "Quixotic Beast" formed from swirling squares on black, are the other pleasing winners.

But how is this pulsation measured?

Is the abstracted earthscape macro or micro? And is the beast a biggie or otherwise?

Who is to know and the point is that themes such as macro-micro, romance and reality, avant garde, traditional, conservative, etc., always end in a distracting hassle over their meaning or a heavy effort to understand how the artist intended to connect it.

Sometimes in this show the macro-micro idea just didn't matter. In illustrating nature, few chose to show its unusual or abstract qualities which can be seen so clearly in enlargement, as it is in Robert Elsocht's blow-up of oak endgrain.

Instead, it attracted the usual crop of landscapes. The theme made it easy since almost all paintings of nature are scaled down from the original anyway. In fact, it would have been much more exciting if artists had hauled in life-sized reproductions of the real thing.

The idea did encourage a charming bunch of miniatures, however, including Elizabeth Karaler's tiny color etchings of an orange sunflower, green hills and black rocks by the sea. They are some of the genuinely interesting things to see in a show which sets a frustrating set of standards by which you are supposed to see them.

Gallery hours are between 1 and 4 p.m. daily.

Film Deadline Set Aug. 31

Entry forms detailing requirements are available at the fair office at the Marin Civic Center.

Cash prizes will be awarded, winning films will be shown during the fair Aug. 31 through Sept. 4, and one of the winning entries will be selected for public showing at a San Francisco theater.

Play Groups Are Scheduled

Registrations for summer preschool play groups for children between 2 years nine months and kindergarten age are being taken at Corte Madera Town Hall.

The play groups, run by the Corte Madera Recreation Department, are from July 24 through Aug. 10 at the Twin Cities Nursery School and All Faiths Nursery School.

Children may attend on a two or four day per week basis. Instructors are Peggy Halloran and Nancy Faw.

Chinese Exhibit

Chinese brush paintings by Pas Tupas will be on exhibit through July 30 at Rubini's, 10 Olema Road, Fairfax. Rubini's is open Wednesday through Sunday starting at 5 p.m.

School, Jobs Gains For Blacks: Census

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Black Americans made solid gains in education, income and job opportunities between 1960 and 1970, a Census Bureau report said today.

In northern and western states, young black families reached an income comparable with that of their white counterparts.

In a study based on statistics from the 1970 census, the bureau cited gains in home ownership and voting strength for the nation's 23 million black citizens. More black youths are attending college and fewer are dropping out of high school, the report said.

"Overall, however, in 1972, blacks still lag behind whites in most social and economic areas, although the differentials have narrowed over the years," the report said.

The most impressive gain, according to the study, was among families under 35 years of age in the North and West where both husband and wife worked. In that category, the median income for black families in 1970 was $11,045 in 1970 compared to $10,578 for a comparable white family.

For the nation as a whole, the young family income figures were $9,267 for blacks and $10,396 for white.

The report also noted that young black working wives earned about 30 per cent more than their white counterparts.

In education, the study showed that the high school dropout rate for blacks had dropped sharply to 11.1 per cent in 1971 but was still higher than the 7.4 per cent rate for white students.

On the college level, the number of black students enrolled increased from 10 to 18 per cent between 1965 and 1971 while the proportion of white college students remained stable at about 22 per cent.

In the 1960-1970 decade, black home ownership increased from 38 to 42 per cent. And although there was more overcrowding in black than white homes, most of the crowded homes were in rural areas rather than in city slums.

On employment, the report said "blacks still are overrepresented in most lower-paying, less skilled jobs and underrepresented in the better-paying, high-skilled jobs." Moreover, the unemployment rate for blacks and other non-white minorities was 9.9 per cent last year compared to 5.4 per cent for white workers.

But blacks have made inroads in white collar and better paying skilled labor jobs, the report said, from 3 million in 1960 to 5 million last year.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

First Action Against The Winner-Take-All

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation aimed at abolishing California's winner-take-all Democratic presidential primary, which was hotly debated at the Democratic national convention, has cleared its first state Senate committee hurdle.

Sen. Alfred Alquist, D-San Jose, author of the bill, said it would give each Democratic presidential primary contender proportional representation on the California delegation which goes to the 1976 convention.

The number of delegates each candidate would receive would reflect the percentage of the vote he received in the primary election.

The bill would bring California into conformity with new rules adopted by this year's convention requiring that delegates be selected "in a manner which fairly reflects the division of preferences" of Democratic voters in each state.

Opponents of Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota had unsuccessfully challenged the legitimacy of the California primary in which he won all of the state's 271 convention seats although receiving only 43.5 per cent of the vote.

The anti-McGovern coalition contended that the seats should be alloted proportionately. That would have left McGovern with 120 seats instead of the 271.

The only opposition to the bill in the Senate Elections Committee came from Republican Sen. William E. Coombs, R-Rialto. On the initial vote in the committee, he voted against the proposal because it would have also required abolition of the GOP winner-take-all primary.

Alquist amended the bill so that it would apply only to the Democratic election, and the committee sent the bill to the Finance Committee on a 5-0 vote.

Alquist told newsmen he planned to also remove features in the bill which would be in violation of the new convention rules.

One of those would give all of California's convention seats to a presidential candidate who wins a majority in the primary. If no candidate had a majority, as occurred this year, the seats would then be alloted proportionately.

The other provision which he plans to change would give delegates only to candidates who receive 15 per cent or more of the primary vote.

Alquist said he would lower that figure to five or 10 per cent.

The bill also implements a constitutional amendment approved by voters last month giving the state an "open" presidential primary.

The amendment requires the secretary ok state to list on the primary ballot all generally recognized presidential contenders unless they file a statement of noncandidacy.

SPEED TRAPS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Senate has passed a bill aimed at curbing "speed traps" despite objections that the measure would not achieve its goal.

The proposal by Sen. Lawrence Walsh, D-Huntington Park, was sent to the Assembly Wednesday on a 26-5 vote.

Walsh has complained that some cities, particularlySacramento, have established radar speed traps and lower than necessary speed limits in an effort to "fill their coffers."

RETIREMENT

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A so-called "sweetheart" bill designed to increase benefits paid to the survivors of 73 legislators or former legislators after their deaths has been narrowly passed by the Senate.

Under the measure by Sen. Ralph C. Dills, D-Gardena, 70 lawmakers currently in office and who are not covered by Social Security could increase their survivors benefits by a minimum of $180 monthly.

If there were two survivors, the amount would be $360 and $430 if there were three or more. The only requirement for increased benefits would be that the legislators contribute $2 each month to the retirement system.

The bill was sent to the Assembly Wednesday on a 21-7 vote, the bare minimum necessary.

GUARD PAY

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill designed to provide prison guards with a 14 to 17 per cent pay raise at an increased cost of $5.5 million annually was sent to the Assembly Wednesday on a 30-0 vote by the Senate.

In its present form, the measure by Sen. H.L. Richardson, R-Arcadia, would make correctional officers' salaries equivalent to those received by highway patrolmen —about a 20 per cent increase.

But Richardson said he planned to reduce the pay hike as the result of an agreement reached with representatives of Gov. Ronald Reagan.

A TAX BREAK

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill giving an income tax break to taxpayers if they send their children to private schools has cleared one Senate committee hurdle.

Over the opposition of the California Teachers Association and the California Federation of Teachers, the measure by Assemblyman Leo T. McCarthy, D-San Francisco was approved Wednesday on a 6-3 vote by the Revenue and Taxation Committee. It now goes to the Finance Committee.

The proposal would provide a tax credit of $125 to persons earning $12,000 annually with the credit declining to $75 when the income level reaches $20,000.

Phone Rate Case Before U.S. Court

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Pacific Telephone Co. said today it has asked the U.S. Supreme Court to halt a rollback of his rates and a scheduled refund to customers.

The action followed by one day the refusal of California's Supreme Court to review its order which rescinded a rate boosted granted by the State Public Utilities Commission.

In 1971 the commission awarded the company a $143 million yearly increase in rates; but the state's highest court ordered a refund because of conflicting accounting methods in computing the company's federal incometax.

In its suit before the federal court, Pacific Telephone asserted a rollback and a refund would "result in a deprivation of Pacific's property without even the fundamentals of due process."

It also contended the state court's order was a "grave miscarriage of justice." The company, which has been ordered by the state high court to pay more than $100 million in refunds immediately, asked the U.S. Supreme Court for a "few days" delay in carrying out the order. It said time should be given for "a hearing, with reasonable notice to all parties."

Pacific Telephone said a delay would "harm no one" but that if it pays the refunds now they "can never be recovered."

The firm promised it would have the money to pay the refunds if they are ultimately ordered by the U.S. high court and offered to put up a $175 million bond.

"Substantial and important" questions of federal law are involved in the matter, the phone company said.

Pair Reappointed

The San Anselmo City Council reappointed John H. Colteaux and John Levo to four-year terms on the planning commission Tuesday night. The terms of the pair had expired.

Nicklaus Trails Jacklin By 1 In British Open Golf Meet

MUIRFIELD,Scotland (UPI) —Jack Nicklaus,rallying from a disappointing front nine which came near to finishing his hopes for a grand slam, clipped one shot off the par 35 inward half today to card a 72 for an even par 142 after two rounds of British Open golf competition.

That put the 32-year-old golfing millionaire one shot behind British idol Tony Jacklin who also had to struggle to stay in contention for the $13,750 first prize and prestige title.

Jacklin, who started the day one shot behind overnight leader Peter Tupling of England after an opening 69, also shot 72 today for a 141 total which put him top of the leader board with almost half the field in.

Tupling recorded a three-over 74 to go with his first round 68 and join the growing log jam on 142.

The 22-year-old former Walker cup amateur from Yorkshire, England, was in trouble when he bogied the second and registered a double-bogey five at the fourth hole.

But he regained control and played strict regulation golf for the remainder of the round.

Nicklaus, who shot a 70 Wednesday, had two straight bogies on the sixth and seventh holes to turn in 38 and when he also bogied the 10th, he was in bad trouble.

But the blond American from Columbus, Ohio, needing this title to keep alive the "impossible dream" of the grand slam of all four major championships in a single year, birdied the 11th, 13th and 17th holes to hit right back. A bogey on the 18th, where he was short of the green and then missed an eight-footer, made it a disappointing finish for Nicklaus.

Also at 142 after two rounds was fair-haired Johnny Miller, a 25-year-old Morman from San Francisco, who revelled in today's hot, sunny conditions to shoot a crackling five-under par 66. The score was accepted as a record for the course which has been altered since Briton Peter Butler shot his 65 in the 1966 championship.

Miller had halves of 32-34, a remarkable recovery from Wednesday when he managed only a 76. The highlight was a double-eagle two at the 558 yards par five 5th. He also birdied the sixth, to reach the turn in a four under 32, and a birdie three at the 12th along with eight pars got him home in 34.

"Some guy is going to go out there and shoot 65 today," Nicklaus predicted. "The course is just waiting to be eaten up."

Nicklaus said he did not play well "and in particular, my iron play was pathetic. All I did was make mistakes."

"Because of the good conditions I took it for granted I would shoot in the mid-60s," Nicklaus said. "Maybe I took too much for granted and the course was tougher than I thought."

Nicklaus said the pin positions were difficult, but "not too severe," as had been suggested by other early finishers. "They hide the pins in Scotland now, which is to the good. But it allows you to play a few more golf shots."

Nicklaus was happy to still be in contention. "I can't explain the high scores of the other fellow, and I hope they continue to play as they have done. I must have some good golf in me."

He missed from 5 feet at the sixth and three-putted the seventh to register his bogies on the front nine and after being short at the 10th missed a 10-footer. But Nicklaus then hit good eight irons to line up 4-foot birdie putts at the 11th and 13th holes.

At the 17th he came out of a sand trap to 7 feet and holed the putt for his other birdie.

The bogey at 18 was the second in succession. After taking three to reach the green he was still 22 feet short and had to be satisfied with a five.

Miller was elated with his slick performance.

Colorful Problems In A's Locker Room

By RALPH CHATOIAN

A funny thing happened to me the other night on the way to the A's dressing room. I was cut off at the pass by Frank Ciensczyk. Didn't even get as far as Reggie Jackson or Joe Rudi. I barely made it to Tim Cullen's stall before being intercepted by Ciensczyk, the team's equipment manager.

It seemed my press card was the wrong color so I couldn't stay. I received a green card from the A's front office and needed either a gold card or a white one to gain admittance to the A's dressing room.

As I left the room I heard a player mumbling about not knowing what color jersey he was supposed to wear for that game — green or gold. I guess we've all got our colorful problems.

I was able to sneak into the Boston Red Sox' visitors clubhouse long enough to have a few words with near-no-hit pitcher Marty Pattin and reliever Bill Lee of Terra Linda. It was Tuesday night and Pattin had just beaten the A's 4-0, losing a no-hitter in the ninth inning on a Reggie Jackson single.

I guess I had better stick to the familiar grounds of Candlestick Park. At least I can get into the Giants' dressing room to chase down a story or two.

WILLIAM L. STEWART III of San Rafael, a man who commutes to his San Francisco office (Stewart Enterprises investment firm) by speedboat, took a somewhat longer trip the other day in a somewhat larger boat.

Stewart, skippering his 65-foot aluminum ketch, "Siete," was fourth (corrected time) and sixth overall in the Los Angeles to Tahiti yacht race. His time for the 3,571-mile journey was 21 days, 23 hours and 35 minutes. That's one heck of a commute.

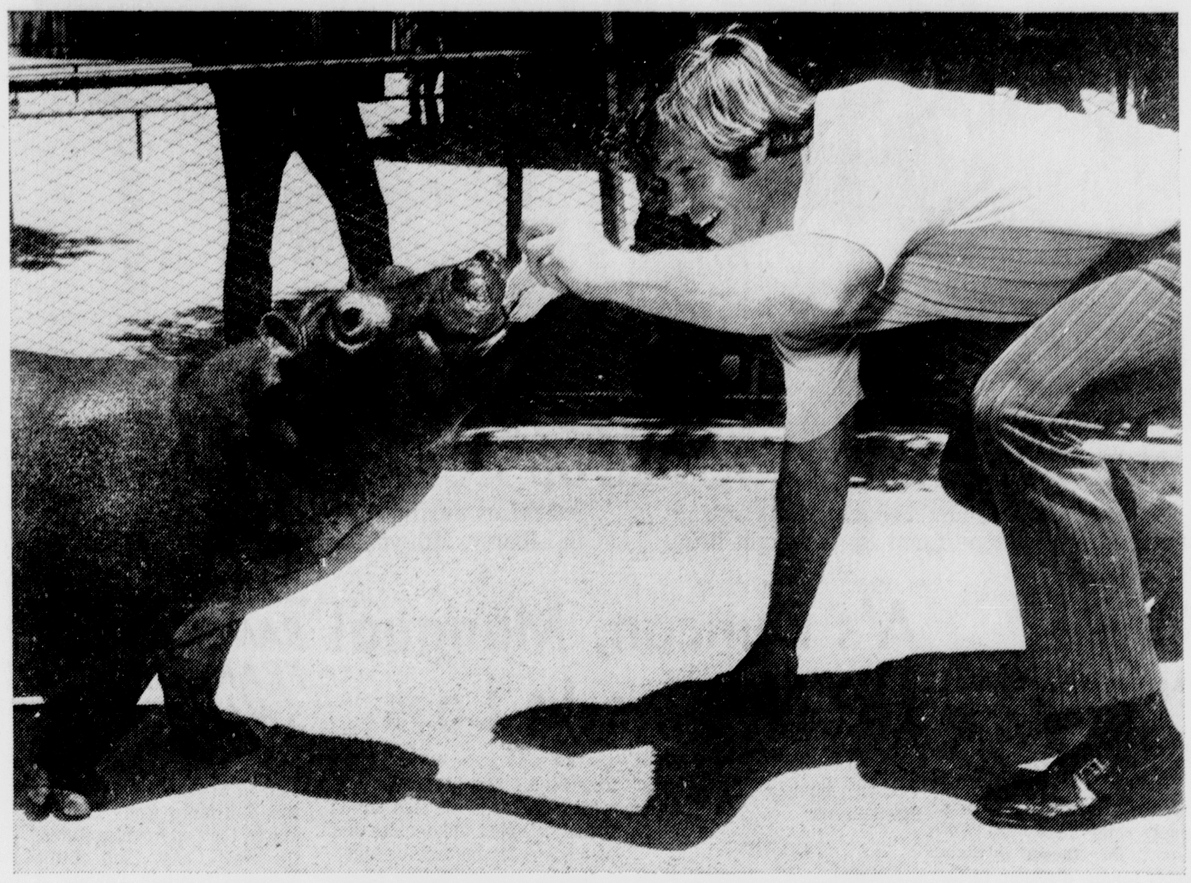

TWO OF MARIN COUNTY'S fine crop of young tennis players are in Oregon for the start of the Pacific Northwest tour being sponsored by the Northern California Tennis Association. Henry Jacobson of Belvedere and Sue Beattyof Tiburon.

THREE YOUNG NOVATO golfers are in the state finals of the fourth annual Insurance Youth Classic at Stanford Golf Club today and tomorrow. Rick Anderson, Pat Grogan and Mike Leach are among the field of 150 junior golfers trying for eight berths in the national phase of the tourney which is put on by the National Association of Insurance Agents.

GLAD TO SEE that bowlers Marilyn Epidendio and Bea Hoffmann of San Rafael made the first cut in the 1972 Ladies West Coast Match Game Eliminations going on at L and L Castle Lanes in San Francisco. Marilyn is in 11th place (178 tourney average) and Bea is 18th (173) after the first cut to 21 bowlers. In another week the field will be cut to 16.

A TYPOGRAPHICAL ERROR caused some confusion for Mrs. William E. Brennan of 21 Idalia Court, San Anselmo, who is trying to start a soccer program for boys 8 through 14 in the San Anselmo area. In an earlier column, thewoman's name came out Brannan instead of Brennan. Interested kids can also get in touch with Ray Jacques of 224 Oakcrest Road, San Anselmo. And for the misspelling of Mrs. Brennan's name, all I can say is: "Soccer to me."

ONE MORE SOCCER KICK: Mike Seerey, a member of the St. Louis University team that will be playing against USF in San Rafael Sept. 28, was voted the best college soccer player in North America in a poll of nearly 500 college coaches recently conducted by The Sporting News.

MR. ROHDE MEETS MISS ROSIE

San Francisco 49er offensive tackle Len Rohde fed lettuce to Miss Rosie, a 400-pound hippopotamus, during his recent visit to the Oakland Baby Zoo in Knowland Park. The burly 49er lineman said "Rosie is built as sturdily as opposing NFL (National Football League) linemen. Thus, Rohde found it better to feed her, not fight her.

McDowell Rotation Spot Loss

NEW YORK (UPI)—Suddenly, Sam McDowell may find himself in the bullpen and a Novatan may be taking his place in the starting rotation.

The lefthander of the San Francisco Giants couldn't find the plate Wednesday in walking seven batters while the Giants lost 4-0 on a four-hitter to rookie Jon Matlack of the New York Mets.

McDowell, once 5-0, is now 87. Before the game, Giants manager Charlie Fox said he would give McDowell some bullpen time unless he was especially sharp against the Mets. It now appears that Frank Reberger of Novato will replace McDowell in the regular rotation.

The loss to the Mets snapped San Francisco's four-game winning streak, but the Giants finished the road trip at 6-3.

The Giants have the day off today before opening an eight-game homestand Friday night against the Philadelphia Phillies. Montreal and the Mets follow the Phils into town before the All-Star break. The Mets had taken a 1-0 lead in the first inning as McDowell walked the first three batters he faced. Jim Fregosi scored on a run-scoring double play grounder.

Bud Harrelson tagged a two-run triple off McDowell in the second inning. Reberger and Randy Moffitt mopped up after McDowell, limiting the Mets to

Palacio, Leach Win In State Golf Meet

Mat Palacio Jr. of San Rafael, 56-year-old veteran of the fairways, was the only former champ left in the California State Amateur Golf Tournament as it moved into the second round today.

Ray Leach of Novato, a star the past four years at Brigham Young University who has announced he will turn professional after this tourney, defeated 15-year-old Mark Tinder of Pebble Beach with a par on the 19th hole. The field has been pared to 32.

Three former champions are on the sidelines after opening round losses. Last year's winner, Doug Nelson of San Francisco, fell 2-1 to Conrad Nilmeier of Fresno; two-time winner Bruce McCormick of Temple City fell to 16-year-old Mac Hunter of Pacific Palisades on the 19th hole; and 1960 king John Richardson of Long Beach lost to Dave Olsen of Glendale, 3 and 2.

Reliever Lee Throttles A's

OAKLAND (UPI) — There are many reasons why the Oakland A's are mired in a slump today: lack of hitting, poor pitching, and the Boston Red Sox.

The East Coast nine, buoyed by three innings of stout relief pitching by Terra Linda's Bill Lee in the sixth through eighth innings, defeated Oakland, 7-6. Lee, a left-hander, blanked the A's from the sixth through eighth before running out of gas in the ninth. Lee, 6-3, replaced a struggling Lew Krausse, and got credit for the victory, hurling three and two-thirds innings.

Playing perhaps their worst game of the year Wednesday night, the A's pounded out 16 hits, including a perfect 5-for-5 by Dave Duncan, and still lost to the streaking Red Sox, who are in Minnesota today only two games behind the Orioles and four in back of the Tigers in the American League East.

THIRD IN ROW

The A's, meanwhile, dropped their third in a row, sixth in the last nine and 10th in the last 16, and it cost them a game in the A.L. West, where they now are only 3 1-2 games ahead of the Chicago White Sox.

Timely hitting by Carlton Fisk, a red-hot candidate for A.L. rookie of the year honors, Rico Petrocelli, Juan Beniquez and Rick Miller proved too much of a handicap for the A's to overcome in Wednesday's game, although Duncan gave it one heck of a try with his 14th homer, four singles and three RBIs.

NEW YORK

It won't be a complete day of doing nothing today for the A's, unless you count riding an airplane coast to coast as resting time. Oakland opens a four-game weekend stand in New York Friday night with a twi-night doubleheader against the Yankees, who also seem to have righted themselves of late.

Jim Hunter and John Odom pitch Friday night against Steve Kline and Mike Kekich. On Saturday it will be Ken Holtzman against Fritz Peterson and on Sunday Vida Blue, coming back from a slight knee

Wood In 13th Win; Orioles Walloped

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Wilbur Wood, thriving on his "dead ball era" pitching schedule of two days of rest between starts, is well on his way toward becoming the Chicago White Sox' biggest winner in a half-century.

It was about this time last season that the one-time relief specialist began to start with two days of rest. He won 13 games during the second half of the season to finish with 22 victories and eagerly accepted the challenge of working with short rest from the start of the current campaign.

WOOD

Wood, working with two days of rest for the 4th time this year, scored his 13th victory Wednesday night when the White Sox defeated the Cleveland Indians, 5-4, on Carlos May's ninth-inning single. If Wood matches his second-half performance of 1971 this season he will finish with 26 victories—the most by a White Sox pitcher since Urban (Red) Faber won 25 games in 1921.

The Boston Red Sox defeated the Oakland Athletics, 7-6, the Kansas City Royals beat the Baltimore Orioles, 11-4, with a seven-run 10th-inning rally, the New York Yankees blanked the California Angels, 5-0, the Detroit Tigers edged out the Texas Rangers, 3-1, and the Minnesota Twins downed the Milwaukee Brewers, 7-1, in other American League games.

WATT

Reliever Eddie Watt forced in the tie-breaking run by hitting Lou Piniella with a pitch with the bases loaded in the 10th inning and Cookie Rojas followed with a grand slam homer off Mickey Scott as the Royals turned their game with the Orioles into a romp. Boog Powell's two-run homer for the Orioles had tied the score at 4-4 in the seventh. Richie Scheinblum had three hits and Amos Otis two for the Royals.

Mel Stottlemyre hit a two-run single in a four-run second-inning outburst and pitched a seven-hitter for his fourth shutout of the season for the Yankees. Stottlemyre's single and a double by Thurman Munson were the big blows as the Yankees sent 10 men to the plate in the big inning. Stottlemyre has a 17-2 lifetime record against the Angels and hasn't lost to them since June 30, 1967.

TIGERS

Bill Slayback pitched an eight-hitter for the Tigers, who scored the tying and tiebreaking runs in the third inning on an error by Lenny Randle. Slayback won his second game with a nine-strikeout performance while Casey Cox lost his first game for the Rangers against two wins.

Homers by Rick Renick, Bobby Darwin and Eric Soderholm powered a six-run fifth-inning outburst which carried the Twins to their victory over the Brewers. Renick's leadoff homer in the fifth was the first hit off Ken Brett, who suffered his ninth loss. Bert Blyleven scattered nine hits for the Twins to raise his record to 910.

Little League Play Set With Tourneys

The Days of reckoning in Little League baseball will soon be upon us.

Players in Marin County's 16 major leagues will be involved in two post-season tournaments in the near future. The county team championship will be held Tuesday through Saturday and the all-star tournament will run July 25-29.

The major league involves boys aged 11-12. Minor leaguers (8-10) have no post-season tournament, while seniors (13-15) have a separate tournament.

Some star players in the major league will do double duty, playing first for the league champions in the county tournament, then for the all-stars later on.

Both tournaments are single-elimination affairs, with games scheduled at several sites throughout the county. The championship game in the team tournament will be held next Saturday at 1 p.m. at the Mill Valley American League's field near Boyle Park.

The county championship team will participate in no further post-season tournaments, but the winning all-star team will have a long path ahead which could eventually lead to the Little League World Series in Williamsport, Pa., late in the summer.

All games in either tournament will be held at 6 p.m. except for the championship games.

Tuesday's first-round schedule for the team championship follows, giving the name of each league with its champion in parentheses:

Sausalito Rotary Club (Oaks) vs. Marinwood-Lucas Valley (Caps) at Mary Silveira Field, Marinwood; Novato National (Cubs) vs Tiburon Peninsula (Octopi) at Hamann Field, Olive School, Novato; Hamilton-Loma Verde (Giants) vs. Kentfield-Greenbrae (Edward Burgar) at Hamilton Air Force Base; Fairfax-Sleepy Hollow (Fairfax Shell) vs. Twin Cities (Larkspur Lions) at Joe Wagner Field, Larkspur.

Laura Baugh In Golf Action At Pebble Beach

The pert blonde Miss Baugh ousted Carolyn Hill 4-2 Wednesday, while slim Miss Martyniak was especially impressive in disposing of Loraine Alderete of Buena Park.

Alice Miller of Marysville, considered the main threat to Laura's second consecutive state title, had little trouble with Sue Nelson of Anaheim 76.

Marin Seniors Baseball

With bats resting on their shoulders and maps of Williamsport, Pa., tucked in their pockets, senior division Little League players in Marin County, boys 13-15, are getting ready for next week's tournament.

The double-elimination tourney will involve an all-star team from each of Marin's four leagues. It will begin Monday and run through Saturday, with the championship games scheduled for noon and (if necessary) 3 p.m.

The winning team will advance to the Section 2 tournament in Santa Rosa July 27-29. The winner of that affair will go on to Division 2 at Oroville Aug. 3-5, and the winner of that will play in the Regional in San Bernardino Aug. 7-12. Eventually, the arduous route leads to the Little League World Series in Williamsport, Pa., toward the end of summer.

All games in the local tournament will be played at Hamilton Air Force Base, and all except the title contest will start at 6 p.m., Monday, the Marinwood all-stars will play Hamilton-Loma Verde. Tuesday, Fairfax will meet San Rafael. The two winners will meet on Wednesday and the two losers on Thursday.

Carrie Zarraonandia In Net Tourney Win

Carrie Zarraonandia of San Rafael yesterday defeated third-seeded Amy Morris of San Francisco, 6-0, 6-2, to advance to the semi-finals in Girls 14 singles at the 12th annual Captain Weber Days junior tennis tournament in Stockton.

Carrie and her sister, Anne, lost to Joy Hahn and Joan Pennello of Carmichael, 6-1, 6-3, in girls 16 doubles finals.

A's Duncan, Mangual Hit Homers In Loss wrench, pitches against Mel Stottlemyre.

UPSET

Naturally, A's skipper Dick Williams is a bit upset with his club and suggested some changes could be made.

"We're not playing well and some of our players seem to be down a little," he said. "If it continues, we'll make some changes."

The A's took a 3-1 lead over the Red Sox by the third inning but Boston caught up with rookie lefthander Dave Hamilton in the fifth and chased him with a three-run outburst.

MANGUAL

Angel Mangual hit his second homer leading off the fifth to tie it but Rollie Fingers wasn't up to the task after replacing Hamilton. Boston touched the A's reliever for five hits and three runs in the next 2 1-3 innings and that proved too much of a lead for A's batters to make up.

A two-out walk to Mangual and Duncan's homer got the A's to within a run but they couldn't get another for a tie, although Tim Cullen followed Duncan's homer with a single and pinch-hitter Sal Bando walked.

That finished Lee and rookie Don Newhauser came on to retire Bert Campaneris on a fly to center for the final out. Lee gained credit for the victory, his sixth in nine decisions, while Fingers suffered his third loss in eight decisions.

The victory gave the Red Sox a sweep of the Oakland series and it also was their 10th triumph in the last 12 games.

FISK

Fisk was the biggest thorn in the A's side as he collected two singles, his 12th homerand two walks. He leads the Red Sox in homers, triples and doubles and also has a .312 batting average.

Boston skipper Eddie Kasko left town with a big grin on his face.

"It's great to win when you play so lousy," he said.

Bus Trip Scheduled For Giants' Game

The Rohnert Park Recreation Department will sponsor a bus trip July 19 to the San Francisco Giants-Montreal Expos baseball game.

The trip is open to youngsters between the ages of nine and 14 from Rohnert Park, Cotati or Penngrove. Registration will be limited to 40 youngsters and can be arranged at the department's playground headquarters at Waldo Rohnert School.

RAMS SOLD: FRANCHISE SWAP LOOMS

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Carroll Rosenbloom, owner of the Baltimore Colts has acquired the Los Angeles Rams, the West Coast Club of the National Football League, it was announced today.

It had been reported recently that Rosenbloom would swap his club for the Rams. At that time Rosenbloom said an inyestigation of the transfer by the league was the only thing holding up the swap which also must be approved by 20 of the 26 NFL clubs.

Gibson Shuts Out Atlanta; Cubs Bow

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

At his age, it's no wonder Bob Gibson likes to get the job done as quick as he can so he can rest his weary bones.

In fact, just a few weeks ago it appeared the St. Louis ace was too old at 36 to pitch with the same effectiveness as he did over the last decade. He dropped his first five decisions and still was without a win to his name entering the final week of May.

VENGEANCE

But Gibson has bounced back with vengeance, winning each of his last nine starts, including a 7-0 shutout of the Atlanta Braves Wednesday night. In eight of those nine games, Gibson went the distance, and he has a total of 11 complete games this season, with none of those games exceeding two hours and five minutes in time.

THIRD PLACE

The victory moved St. Louis into third place in the National League East, seven games behind the front-running Pittsburgh Pirates, who dropped a 6-3 decision to Cincinnati. The Reds maintained their one and one-half game West margin over the Houston Astros, who beat the Chicago Cubs, 10-6. Elsewhere, the New York Mets beat the San Francisco Giants, 4-0, the Los Angeles Dodgers beat the Philadelphia Phillies 95, and the San Diego Padres edged the Montreal Expos, 6-5.

Gibson allowed Atlanta only six hits and struck out six while helping his own cause with a pair of hits, including his third homer. The game required only 1:57 to be completed.

BENCH

Johnny Bench hit two homers to increase his league-leading total to 24 and Tony Perez had one homer as Cincinnati beat Pittsburgh in the battle of division leaders.

Jim Wynn hit two homers and Lee May and Norm Miller had one each as the Astros overcame a 5-2 deficit to whip the Cubs.

Three hits each by Manny Mota, Bill Buckner and Wes Parker paced the Dodgers' 18-hit attack against Philadelphia and Clarence Gaston drove in two runs with a homer and a single to lift San Diego over Montreal.

'Mini-Olympics' Set Saturday At Candlestick

As part of an effort to raise funds for the U.S. Olympic team, a "mini-Olympics" featuring Northern California athletes will be held Saturday at 12:30 p.m. at Candlestick Park in San Francisco, preceding the baseball game between the Giants and Philadelphia Phillies.

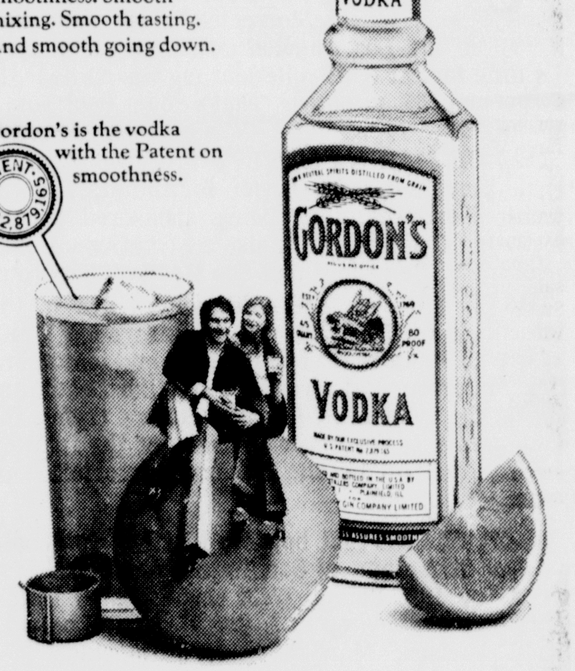

The field will include female Olympic hopefuls, boy and girl runners and middle-age sprinters. Big names include Payton Jordan, Stanford and former U.S. Olympic track coach, who is entered in the 70-yard dash; and Larry Lewis, 105-year-old waiter who holds every world running record for centenarians.

Following the baseball game, contributions for the Olympic team will be solicited outside the Candlestick exits.

JACK HANLEY

I'm Still Helping Team, Says Mays

New York — "He's not Willie Mays every day."

That was the headline on a New York sports page when the Giants visited the big city for the last time this season.

Just before their first visit to the big apple two months ago, they had traded Mays to the Mets for a minor league pitcher (Charlie Williams) and $150,000 cash.

In his debut for the Mets, May 14, Mays hit a home run that broke a 4-4 tie with the Giants and made the Mets 5-4 winners.

"THAT HOME RUN," said the story beneath the sports headline, "was the last one Willie hit here and the run he scored on it was the last one he batted in at Shea Stadium. He's played in a dozen games at home since, but, alas, no home runs or RBIs."

The story, which began in a critical vein, softened.

"Mays has helped the Mets, to be sure, in so many ways. He contributes, whether he walks, which he does so often, or talks, which he does with all the young men of the Mets. Shea Stadium still stands on its edge every time he comes to bat, or dances off a base."

AT 41 MAYS can't be expected to be the miracle worker he once was during the two decades he played for the Giants whose president, Horace Stoneham, dealt him to the Mets to insure Mays' future security. The Mets, with a zillionaire owner in Joan Whitney Payson, have promised to take care of Mays in a coaching or promotion job after his current $165,000 contract expires.

In fact, the Mets even have given Mays the option of deciding next spring whether he wants to try one more year on the playing field or retire to the less exciting side of the chalk lines.

THE FACT THAT Hank Aaron now has passed him in career home runs enroute to a strong challenge of Babe Ruth's all-time mark of 714 no longer concerns Mays.

"I don't worry about that," he said, "as long as I'm able to go out and perform a little bit. I don't want to go out there for something I did in the past.

"It's been much better here than I expected. I would have liked to perform better with my bat. Even though I can't bat right sometimes, I know they're pulling for me. But my defense won't be weaker.

"ALTHOUGH I'M not doing the things I did three or four years ago, I'm still helping the club. It's the guy who doesn't realize he's getting old who's a fool. I'm 41 and I can't do certain things anymore. That's life. Everything's that way.

"People ask me why I play when I'm hurting. I play because they need me. And I play because baseball still is a pleasure to me. I've had to change my whole game because I'm in the leadoff role now. As leadoff man I can't get runs batted in like I did when I hit No. 3.

"They wanted me for certain things and I've adjusted."

San Rafael Miss Seeks Race Honor

Miss Sherrill Robinson of San Rafael is among three finalists for the Miss Permatex of Petaluma Speedway title, the winner of which will be announced tomorrow night in conjunction with the Permatex 100-lap modified sportsman automobile race.

She stands to win $25, a trophy and a shot at the national Miss Permatex title if she is selected over Edie Thomas of Santa Rosa and Dottie King of Stockton.

Qualifying for the race will begin at 7 p.m. and the program of sportsman and stock car racing will start at 8.

Sportsman scrambles motorcycle racing will be held Saturday at Petaluma Speedway, with expert, junior and novice amateur racers vying for trophies in several classes of cycles ranging from 100cc to "open."

Practice will start at 5 p.m. and the first race at 7 on the quarter-mile dirt oval.

TREVINO TALKS GOLF

The Meanest Shot

By LEE TREVINO

To me, the hardest shot in the world is the three-quarter shot. The pros work on it and most of them can handle it. But some cats make their first mistake thinking about it, then compound the error by trying to hit it against the wind.

Too many things can go wrong, and usually do, when a handicapper tries to feather one of those babies into a breeze. He may have to duck when it flies back in his face.

A three-quarter shot is solid finesse and demands perfect timing and execution. It's sort of a punch shot and mighty delicate for the average guy to pull off.

If a man asks me about the three-quarter shot, I advise him to forget the fancy stuff. Make sure you got enough club, then bust it.

Say you're shooting into a green 120 yards away. The wind's blowing down your pipe at 20 miles an hour. Add 15 yards for the wind. If the green is uphill, that's another five.

Don't even think about no three-quarter stuff! Instead of an 8-iron, grab a 6-iron and just swing normal as you would on a 140-yard shot on a calm day.

2 Raiders Fail To Report

SANTA ROSA (UPI)—Two guys who the Oakland Raiders wanted in training camp weren't there Wednesday when rookies and a few veterans opened summer workouts.

Warren Wells, the star wide receiver who sat out 1971 because of troubles with the law, was detained in Oakland for further administrative details on his residence requirement.

Dan Conners, the starting middle linebacker since 1966, also was among the missing.

Conners has been a free agent since May 1 after playing out his option, but the Raiders and Conners are reported close on terms for a new pact.

New Raider faces who did work out included Dave Kopay, who played with the San Francisco 49ers in the late 1960s and said "it feels great to be back in the Bay Area." He was obtained last week from New Orleans.

Dale Graham, ex-Jets offensive lineman, also was among the 45 or so who worked out after being signed as a free agent.

Ottawa Edges Saskatchewan In Football

OTTAWA (UPI) — Rick Cassata force-fed Saskatchewan Roughriders some humble pie Wednesday as the Ottawa Rough Riders snatched a 19-16 victory in a Canadian football league exhibition game at Lansdowne Park.

The former Syracuse University quarterback gained sweet revenge over the team which once cut him as he led the Ottawa club to a triumph in the closing minutes.

Cassata replaced ex-Washington Redskin Harry Theofiledes late in the third quarter and pulled Ottawa into a 16-16 tie when he rolled out and nailed halfback Terry Wellesley on a 45-yard pass and run play. With three minutes remaining, he moved the Rough Riders to the Saskatchewan 17-yard line from where Gerry Organ booted the game-winning field goal.

Milwaukee Golf Meet To Begin

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI)—For a while Bruce Crampton must have felt like he was shooting for the "runner-up grand slam of golf."

He was finished second to Jack Nicklaus in the U.S. Open and the Masters this year, the first two legs of the elusive "grand slam of golf" Nicklaus is seeking.

But this week while Nicklaus is working on the British Open, the third part of the slam, Crampton is battling it out with other golfers here for the first prize in the $125,000 Greater Milwaukee Open, which opened today.

Dave Eichelberger is the defending champion in the meet at Tripoli Country Club on the City's Northwest side. Eichelberger broke from a tightly-bunched field on the final holes to win the 1971 meet.

Gudrun Wegner Tops Women's Swim Mark

BERLIN (UPI) — Gudrun Wegner clocked 9 minutes 10.5 seconds for the 800 meters freestyle Wednesday to break the European women's record during the closing day of the East German swimming championships in Leipzig.

Thomas Walks Out Of Cowboys' Camp

Combined AP & UPI

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. — Controversial Dallas Cowboys running back Duane Thomas, fined Wednesday for reporting several hours late to the team's training site, early today walked out of camp without any explanation.

A Dallas Cowboys spokesman said the team presumed the Super Bowl star was somewhere in Los Angeles.

"Thomas and a friend were last seen headed south in a rented car," The spokesman said. "Nobody — not even (cowboys coach) Tom Landry — knows where they are right now."

More Football

CINCINNATI — Coach Paul Brown of the Cincinnati Bengals says the National Football League should consider cutting ties with the annual College All-Star Game.

Hockey

TORONTO — The most awesome hockey squad ever assembled — at least on paper — was unveiled Wednesday. It is to carry the colors of team Canada, which will meet the Soviet Union in an eight-game hockey series in September, but no California Seals made it.

Thirty-five players, most of them the cream of National Hockey League talent, will go into training here Aug. 13 and will meet the Russians first in Montreal on Sept. 2.

Team Canada coach Harry Sinden, a former mentor of the Boston Bruins, chose the game's biggest stars — Bobby Hull, Bobby Orr, Phil Esposito — but added a few lesser known-but-steady checking players like Toronto's Ron Ellis and Boston's Wayne Cashman to give his squad a winning balance.

BOSTON — The World Hockey Association, which pilfered winger Johnny McKenzie from the Stanley Cup champion Boston Bruins, apparently has decided record-setting goalie Gerry Cheevers is its next target.

The Cleveland Crusaders reportedly have offered Cheevers a multi-year contract valued at close to $500,000, the Boston Globe said today.

Cheevers was not available for comment but it was understood Cheevers has been in "serious negotiations with the Crusaders over the past 10 days and will probably sign a contract to defect to the WHA by the end of the week."

Hockey Flames Sign 2 Goalies: Myre, Bouchard

ATLANTA (UPI)—Two young goalies, Phil Myre and Dan Bouchard, who the Atlanta Flames say will be the foundation of the team for years to come, have been signed to multi-year contracts by the National Hockey League club.

The 23-year-old Myre, the Flames' first-round draft choice, had backed up Ken Dryden of the Montreal Canadiens last year, but played in only nine games.

Bouchard, 21, the 1972-all-star goaltender for the American Hockey League in 1972 for the Boston Braves, had been the third goalie on the Boston Bruins roster, but was left unprotected by the draft.

Let us put steel-belted radials on your car for 14 days.

If you don't like them, it won't cost you a cent.

We could do a lot of talking about these tires. But you're the only one who can actually feel the difference in the way your car handles and rides with steel-belted radials.

In addition to the superior performance characteristics of a radial tire, they also offer substantially greater protection against disabling cuts and punctures than fabric-belted tires.

We believe Uniroyal steel-belted radials are the most extraordinary tires that you can drive on. And the only way you'll ever believe it is to actually drive around on them yourself.

How the fourteen-day trial works.
Come on in. We'll take your old tires off and mount 4 Uniroyal steel-belted radials on your car. Pay for them in the usual way. We'll put your name on your old tires and keep them in storage for you.

If you can't feel an enormous difference in over-all performance after driving around on them for 14 days, bring them back and we will remount and balance your old tires at no charge and give you your money back.

Guaranteed to go 40000 MILES

ZETA TIRES UNIROYAL

ZETA MILEAGE GUARANTEE UNIROYAL ZETA STEEL BELTED TIRES

If you don't get the mileage slated on the sidewall (M=thousand) or tire fails for any reason other than willful abuse or collision, your chartered Zeta dealer will give you a credit against the purchase of a new Zeta tire of the same type or repair punctures at no charge. Credit will equal price you paid multiplied by percentage of stated mileage you did not obtain. Credit will be applied against the Zeta Guarantee Base Price (national adjustment base approximating actual prices). Dealer may add small charge for services he performs in replacing tire. Tires and related vehicle conditions must be properly maintained and tires brought in for free 5,000 miles rotations and check-ups for mileage portion of guarantee to apply. Guarantee Booklet required for Mileage and Road Hazard adjustment.

Hong Kong Custom Tailors To Open Shop In Albert Building

Hong Kong Custom Tailors, featuring custom apparel for both men and women, will open tomorrow in the Albert Building at 1016 B Street, San Rafael.

The store is next to the newly opened John Woodson Real Estate and Mortgage Co.

Principals in Hong Kong Custom Tailors are Andy Kumar and Les Chand of San Francisco, who opened a similar shop in San Mateo a month and a half ago.

Chand said he has been tailoring in San Francisco for five years and was in Hong Kong before that. "We specialize in exact fitting of suits and dresses to the satisfaction of the customer," said Chand. "And our prices are competitive. You can get the same clothes you get in Hong Kong at Hong Kong prices."

The customer can select any material and any design he wants. Chand said the customer may even bring in a picture from a magazine or a newspaper and Hong Kong Custom Tailors will make the clothes with any material that the customer wants.

ALBA'S FASHIONS, a new women's dress shop featuring half sizes and larger sizes in addition to regular, will open Saturday morning in Novato at 1125 Grant Avenue, between the Chamber of Commerce office and Grant Avenue Florist.

The shop is owned by Russell and Alba Silva of Petaluma and will be managed by Mrs. Silva, who was a nurse for 26 years until she retired in 1970. During her nursing career, she was coordinator and commentator for many fashion shows. The past two years, she worked for Clean's Closet Fashion Shop in Petaluma and Santa Rosa.

Mrs. Silva is active in the Catholic diocese in Santa Rosa and in the American Business Women's Association. Her husband works for Phillip's 66 in Petaluma.

Alba's Fashions will carry sizes 12½ to 24½ and larger, as well as regular sizes 10 through 20. The store will be open six days a week from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

TWO MARIN life insurance agents have been installed as officers of San Francisco chapter of the American Society of Chartered Life Underwriters.

Dougherty Kanter

Dan P. Dougherty of Greenbrae is president for 1972-73. He is an agent for the Grayson Agency of Home Life Insurance Company of New York and has his office at 1330 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael.

Fred Kanter of San Rafael is chapter treasurer. He is an agent for the Joseph P. Burke Agency of Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Co. with offices in San Francisco.

EDA GEREGHTY, who operates the only secretarial service in Novato, has moved to the San Marin Building at 97 San Marin Drive, across the street from the Novato firehouse.

Until last week, her office was at 1510 Grant Avenue. Mrs. Gereghty said her new office is larger and has more facilities. She provides all types of secretarial services including legal transcribing.

LEONARD J. RUSSELL of San Rafael has been appointed assistant controller at headquarters of Fireman's Fund American Insurance Companies in San Francisco. He will serve as manager of budget and investment accounting activities.

Russell joined Fireman's Fund in 1964. During the past two years, he has been controller for American Express Investment Management Co., the mutual fund affiliate of Fireman's Fund.

BEVERLY KELMAN of San Rafael has joined Say & Company, Realtors, at 151 San Anselmo Avenue in San Anselmo. Mrs. Kelman has been in the real estate business for six years, four as broker. She is a member of the League of Women Voters.

LOUISE RITCHIE and Phil Hyatt have joined the sales staff of Fox & Carskadon's Tiburon and San Rafael offices, respectively.

Mrs. Ritchie has been in real estate for a year and a half. Prior to that, she was flight purser for Pan American Airlines for 10 years. She lives in Tiburon with her husband.

Hyatt has experience in both real estate and in life insurance. He lives in Loma Verde with his wife and family.

A FREE one-day workshop for prospective business owners and managers will be held in San Francisco on Monday, July 17, by the U.S. Small Business Administration.

The workshop will be held from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. in room 15018 of the Federal Building, 450 Golden Gate Avenue. Those interested should register in advance with the U.S. Small Business Administration.

BROCKMANN REAL ESTATE Inc. of Mill Valley announced the addition to its staff of Jerry Ard, a Marin resident for 13 years. Ard spent two years as a professional baseball player with the Houston Astros, two years with the Shell Oil Co. and the past two years with Ardco Realty in San Francisco.

LON GALLAGHER of San Anselmo has joined the offices of Gallagher Sturiale Realtors in San Anselmo. Gallagher graduated from Drake High School in 1964, got his degree from Arizona State University and did post graduate work at California State in Hayward. He is best remembered as all-county outfielder at Drake High where he won the "most valuable player award" in 1963.

Merger Movement Heading To Access

By S.M. MARSHALL
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

The merger movement is accelerating in Wall Street and it seems to be moving in the direction of institutional access to the New York Stock Exchange.

While the Big Board still bars the outright purchase of memberships by insurance companies, mutual funds and other big insitutional investors, some brokerage members of the exchange have been dealing with the institutions themselves.

Several have worked out intricate deals that, in effect, give access to insurance companies. The latest is the proposed consolidation of Eastman Dillon, Union Securities & Co. with Blyth & Co.

The surprise announcement said the merger would create a new firm to be called Blyth, Eastman Dillon & Co. and that the INA Corp., an insurance holding company would receive a direct interest in the merged house.

INA, the parent of the Insurance Company of North America, acquired Blyth several years ago, forcing Blyth to abandon its Big Board membership under the exchange rules. Under the new deal with Eastman Dillon, membership will be retained.

Initially INA will obtain only a 25 percent equity interest in the merged house. Current exchange rules permit outside ownership up to this percentage. But INA also will receive an option to acquire 100 percent of the new firm by 1976.

The insurance organization obviousy is betting that the Big Board will go ahead with its proposed rules change that would permit insitutional membership under certain conditions. The four-year option for the full take-over is the key.

Wall Street insiders are betting that the INA deal will be only the first of many involving major financial institutions.

The recently announced sale of a 25 percent equity interest in Donaldson, Lufkin & Jenrette (DLJ), the institutional brokerage firm, to American Express Company also is part of the trend, even though both sides said a 100 percent take-over is not planned.

The first breach in the membership line occurred two years ago when a very small Big Board member, Percy Friedlander & Co., merged with Westamerica Trading Company, which is indirectly owned by the City Investing Company, a big conglomerate.

Among the holdings of City Investing are Home Insurance Company, a major insurance concern. The deal gave Home Insurance a remote type of access to the previously sacrosanct exchange.

As it stands now, a member firm can sell 25 percent of itself to an institutional investor — but no more. This theoretically restricts institutional membership to a minority interest in member firms.

Market Is Lower In Early Trade

Declines outdistanced advances, 844 to 297, among the 1,505 issues crossing the tape. The two-hour turnover amounted to more than 5,700,000 shares.

With a lack of buying interest apparent, some analysts said the DJIA may be severely tested for the next several days.

Investors have indicated they do not like the economic policies of Democratic presidential candidate Sen. George S. McGovern, but they admit his selection has put sharp focus on tax reform which they expect to take the form of law sometime next year.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Greyhound Stock Merits Retention

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Kindly give me your opinion on Greyhound Corp. I own a sizable amount, the price of which continua!ly falls. They claim to be the seventeenth in size among all large industrials and yet the stock is at a very low price.—N.F.

A. This NYSE-listed corporation ranked 33rd (in sales) in 1971 among the Fortune 500 and 275th (in assets) in 1971 among Forbes 500.

Recent weakness in Greyhound shares may be largely attributed to poor first quarter (ended March) comparisons. On a 7.4 per cent drop in total revenues, Greyhound recorded a 16 per cent earnings decline to 21 cents a share from the previous year's 25 cents.

Primarily responsible for this performance are problems at the firm's Armour Foods and Armour-Dial divisions. At the former division, a supply shortage of cattle and hogs made normal profitability impossible, while the Armour-Dial subsidiary has been afflicted with problems in dealing with the Price Commission.

This division, however, is being merged into the parent company which should aid in resolving pricing problems. As to Armour Foods, it is expected that the cattle supply will soon be increased; and by 1973, pork operations, Armour's mainstay, should markedly improve.

With this in mind and in view of the stock's generous return, around 5.6 per cent, shares merit retention.

Q. We have $10,000 to invest toward our retirement in two years. We are interested in good sound stocks with generous yields and the possibility of growth. Any advice would be appreciated.—P.M.

A. Equal dollar amounts in each of three high-grade issues would yield an average of 5.8 per cent plus the potential for growth. The three suggested stocks are: Boston Edison, CPC International and Standard Oil of New Jersey, a selection which also provides broad industry diversification. All are NYSE listed.

SUMMONS
(UNLAWFUL DETAINER)
Case No. 37667

Municipal Court of California, County of Marin
Central Judicial District
Defendant: R. DANIEL PFENNIG.

To the Defendant:

A civil complaint has been filed by the plaintiffs against you. If you wish to defend this lawsuit, you must file in this court a written pleading in response to the complaint (or a written or oral pleading, if a Justice Court) within FIVE days after this summons is served on you. Otherwise, your default will be entered on application by the plaintiffs and the court may enter a judgment against you for the money or other relief requested in the complaint.

If you wish to seek the advice of an attorney in this matter, you should do so promptly so that your pleading, if any, may be filed on time.

Ocean Spray, Sand Almost Impossible

By FLORENCE MOUCKLEY
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

BOSTON — "Let's go to the beach!" To most Americans this means the nearest public beach. Fancy, private beach fronts are not for them.

But only about 30 per cent of the continental United States' shoreline is publicly owned. Only a fraction of it is developed for beach use. More and more people battle for the same amount of space each year.

In some places the answer is yes, a Monitor News Service survey finds. In others the picture is not as clear, and in others there's little chance. In all places the issue is complex. The demand for beach front is intensifying on all sides. More and more people can afford homes and vacation cottages on the water. Many commerical and industrial interests want waterfront land. Ecological and wildlife preserves are needed.

Acquiring land for public use involves a wide range of methods from simple purchase to compulsory take-over — some of which involve legal battles.

The courts already have been involved in the battles between beach front homeowners and the general public. The arguments:

The owner: "I bought this property to get away from it all. I want privacy. I don't want a lot of strangers tramping around on my beach."

The general public: "No one owns the beaches. They're a natural resource. I have as much right to enjoy them as anybody."

These are valid views on both sides, say many officials who are trying to respect property owners' rights and at the same time provide public-recreation needs.

The Monitor survey finds that officials — federal, state, city, and county — are trying a number of approaches.

The federal government is involved in the proposed Gateway National Recreation Area near the entrance to New York harbor. If approved it would be the first time a national park will have been established in a highly congested urban area.

The state and City of New York would be contributing land, but the federal government would pick up the bill of about $100 million for land acquisition and development.

A similar project in San Francisco's Bay Area — Golden Gate National Recreation Area — has been proposed, and legislation has been introduced in Congress.

In Georgia a national seashore is under consideration in the Cumberland Island region on the southeast Georgia coast. This consists of some 18 miles of public seashore. If established, it would add to the 15 national seashores and seashore parks around the country.

According to a spokesman for the Senate Interior and Insular Affairs Committee, all of these projects are in the last stages of being approved by Congress.

Both Texas and Oregon have open-beach laws. Generally the rulings state that even though the backshore may be privately owned it is still open to public use.

Main opposition to Oregon's open-beach law has come from hotel and motel owners. However, the United States Supreme Court recently upheld Oregon's precedent-setting law.

In Miami Beach there are plans to restore this prime resort area's badly eroded beaches.

A plan recently was proposed that would have the federal government pay for 70 per cent of the construction costs, estimated at $30 million, with the state, county, and city equally splitting the remaining 30 per cent. Federal funds would assure there would be public access to the whole stretch of beach.

In Massachusetts, a $7 million bond isuue to depollute Boston's Charles River Basin has just been passed, almost unanimously, by both branches of the Massachusetts Legislature. The basin is the only major area that can be expanded for water recreation in the Boston Harbor area, says Thomas Lynch, deputy director of the Parks and Recreation Division of the Massachusetts Metropolitan District Commission.

Cleaning up the Charles River will mean that eventually — estimates range from 1976 to 1992 — some 800,000 people may be able to swim in it.

According to William V. McGuinness of the Center for the Environment and Man, Inc., who prepared a report called "Shore Management Guidelines" for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, 90 per cent of the beaches in the Northeast are privately owned.

When asked if he thought it would be possible for Massachusetts to adopt a law similar to Oregon's open-beaches ruling, Gilbert Bliss, Massachusetts director of recreation, put it bluntly: "I think it would be possible, but of course we would have an awful time with private owners."

Michigan's 3,200 miles of shoreline — 2,200 miles of mainland beach, and 1,000 miles of island rim — the longest in the continental U.S., is under scrutiny. Under that state's Shorelands Protection and Management Act of 1970, state authorities are required to draw up plans to promote the best use of its Great Lakes shoreland. With 958 miles of pubicly owned shoreline, there are preparations to acquire new land suitable for development and to extend existing beaches.

"Who owns what" is another ticklish problem.

According to McGuiness, the dividing line between public and private beach front ownership in most states in the country is the mean high-tide mark. The backshore side of the line can be privately owned, but the foreshore is held in trust by the state for the public welfare.

Another factor in determining ownership, he said, is that the boundary is migratory since the coastline keeps moving in and out.

The whole question, said McGuinness, 'is the subject of a tremendous number of arguments, and it varies from state to state. There are no simple answers — no good guys and bad guys." And in his opinion legislating open beaches is 'no sweeping panacea."

"All this," he added, 'sounds great and noble, but there are really big problems involved."

Cars can be driven directly onto some Texas Gulf beaches, and "in some cases if you were the local sheriff or magistrate of some other local authority, there might be some question whether you could set traffic regulations on the beach."

In Oregon the open-beach policy appears to be working well. Nealry 400 miles of coastline is available to the public. Traffic control is maintained by the State Highway Commission. The state park system provides amenities approximately every four miles on the more heavily peopled beaches.

Perhaps New York City has the most staggering problem. More than 70 million people a year go to Long Island beaches.

On hot summer weekends, those beaches accessible by subway and bus are inundated by the mass of humanity. There are literally only inches between people.

And even Jones' Beach, a huge state park on Long Island, must close down at 10 or 11 a.m. on some busy days. In this case it is a lack of parking spaces rather than an overcrowded beach that is the problem.

"Go to the beach? It's just not worth it," many people say.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Good Health Can Contribute To An Enjoyable Retirement

Good health contributes to an enjoyable retirement. A well-adjusted, happy, and confident oldster is more likely to sleep well, enjoy his meals, and take care of himself. His mental attitude creates a favorable setting for the organs to function in true harmony. But it also helps if the retired man or woman is not financially strapped.

Favorably conditions do not exist wholly by chance. Certain character traits enable some individuals to prepare for the golden years. It helps if the retiree is stable, responsible, and gregarious. This is just another way of saying that a person who is a success in his productive years tends to be a success in retirement, if he is able to make the proper adjustments.

STUDIES ON retirees also show that those better educated have more interests and are more content. Planning ahead also has a definite bearing on what to do. But fate also plays a role in that those who live with a spouse do better than the widowed or people who live alone. It also helps to maintain ties with children, friends, social clubs, and church. Above all, keep busy.

An examination to determine what physical measures are necessary for the maintenance of health is an excellent idea. Necessary treatment may prolong the period of self-sufficiency and ease behavioral stresses. Many drugs and vitamins smooth the rough edges. These include Metrazol, chloral hydrate, mild tranquilizers, antidepressants, and chemicals that dilate narrowed blood vessels.

RETIREMENT GIVES you more time to think about yourself. You are bound to find sore spots and weaknesses, but avoid becoming a hypochondriac because no one enjoys the "organ recitals" of another.

LIVER INFECTION

F.D. writes: Can a person get hepatitis more than once?

REPLY

One attack usually confers lasting immunity, although there is a possibility of recurrence with a different virus or microbe. After all, hepatitis means infection of the liver and there are many germs, parasites, and viruses capable of doing this.

LUPUS AND THE SUN

W.R. writes: My sister received a diagnosis of lupus erythematosus and was advised to stay out of the sun. What is the relationship of this disease to exposure to sunlight?

REPLY

This form of lupus is one of the few skin disorders that is aggravated by the sun. The typical rash is localized, usually over the bridge of the nose and beneath the eyes, producing a butterfly pattern. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on this condition.

EGG WHITE

REPLY

'GERMS' AND VIRUSES

P.A. writes: What is the difference between germs and viruses?

REPLY

The word "germs" is not used in a technical way, but the layman generally means bacteria. Viruses, which came upon the scene much later, are one type of germ. They are too small to be seen under the ordinary microscope.

DROPSY

J.J. writes: My elderly father writes me that he has water in the abdomen and the doctor wants to hospitalize him. Does this mean an operation?

REPLY

Not necessarily. The physician wants to find the cause of dropsy and use medication to eliminate the fluid. The abdomen may also be tapped to drain off the liquid.

ARTERIOSCLEROSIS AND FAT

R.L. writes: If a man has hardening of a leg artery, will he be helped or harmed by any special food?

REPLY

A low fat diet may be recommended, especially if the blood cholesterol is elevated. Circulation can be promoted by measures other than diet. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on poor arterial circulation.

OLD DRUGS

A.L. writes: Is it dangerous to take pills that have been stored in a bottle in the medicien cabinet for several years?

REPLY

Yes, even thought they may contain chemicals that do not deteriorate or change with age. Tablets dispensed in the original bottle often have an expiration date printed on the label.

HAIR LOSS AFTER SURGERY

REPLY

No, but there is a good chance that the hair will grow back.

BASAL METABOLISM

E.L. writes: Does a metabolism reading of minus 6 show the person is secreting enough thyroid for normal body functioning?

REPLY

Yes. The normal limits of basal metabolism range from minus 15 to plus 15.

MISBEHAVING APPENDIX

N. T. writes: Can an appendix act up periodically without rupturing?

REPLY

Yes,. but it is not likely to behave in this way.

VITAMINS AND ARTHRITIS

M. S. writes: Is an arthritic harming herself by loading up on a lot of vitamins without her physicians's knowledge?

REPLY

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidant, light air pollution.
Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.
Carbon monoxide, clean air.
Smoke particles, clean air.
Other areas:

San Francisco, light air pollution.

San Jose, significant air pollution.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches, and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources while the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

Innocent Plea In Bad Check Case

Garrett Lyn Jensen, 25, of Mill Valley, pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Superior Court to felony charges of writing a bad check for a bicycle and possessing hashish and narcotics.

Jensen was bound over to appear Tuesday in Superior Court.

He was arrested June 5 on suspicion of buying a bicycle with a $151 check that bounced at Mill Valley Cyclery.

Police arrested him riding the bicycle in downtown Mill Valley and said they found hashish when they searched him.

TOP OF THE WORLD FEELING — Hikers who used to stare wistfully at 1,407-foot-high Mount Wittenberg in Point Reyes National Seashore and dread the steep, rugged trail can now reach the summit effortlessly. A new shuttle bus service run by the Marin County Transit District picks up passengers at the Bear Valley Road entrance every half hour Saturday and Sunday and drops them off at Sky Trail, a newly accessible trailhead. In contrast to the old trail that originates at almost sea level, the new trail orginates at the top of Inverness Ridge, an elevation of about 1,000 feet. The 1.7-mile trail is a picturesque walk easily traversed by hikers of all ages and physical conditions. It passes through shaded forests, flowered meadows and lush glens and deposits hikers at the summit of the highest point in the park. From there, hikers like Peter Scholel of Berkeley (left) and Phyllis Greenwald of Maryland sit in awe of the panorama facing them — the brown foothills of Olema Valley, the white sands of Drake Beach, the turquoise waves of the ocean.

Shuttle Bus Service Opens Up New Vista

FORWARD, HIKE — Backpackers prepare to descend Mount Wittenberg after enjoying the new trail to the summit, picnicking along the way and taking in the sights of Point Reyes National Seashore from the highest vantage point in the park. Couples, singles and families are taking advantage of the new shuttle bus service that lets them leave their cars in the Bear Valley parking lot and still reach the trails easily for a day of hiking or an overnight stay.

OUTDOOR GARDEN — The path along "Sky Trail" resembles an unfenced garden. There are colorful wildflowers, berries of all kinds including thimbleberries, grasses of all textures and glens thick with ferns. Vines intertwine branches of Douglas fir and Bishop pine and dandelions and buttercups dot the meadows and fallen pine cones decorate the trail.

DIFFERENT BACKDROPS — Sky Trail transports hikers to several worlds as though scenes being changed in a play. Artistic shadows fall on the trail as it passes through shaded wooded areas. The entire 1.7-mila trail is practically level, requiring very little stamina.

ON THE TRAIL — Horseback riders enjoy the new "Sky Trail" to Mount Wittenberg as much as hikers. The trail is almost flat, the distance short and the pace as leisurely as the equestrian wishes. Hitching posts await the rider at Sky Camp on the way to the summit and the sights and sounds of horses add more splendor than ever to the beauty of Point Reyes.

1,090-Acre Annex To San Rafael Approved

East San Rafael residents said they didn't trust their own city fathers as much as they did the county's officials, but the Marin Local Agency Formation Commission last night granted San Rafael's request to annex 1,090 acres of the San Pedro Peninsula. (Another local agency formation commission story, page 1.)

The property is the so-called Chinn Ho parcel stretching from China Camp to Santa Venetia, generally north of the peninsula's ridgeline.

The owner is New York Cal-Industrial Corp. headed by Ho, a Hawaiian millionaire who also owns Peacock Gap property.

Fred Kanter of Peacock Gap charged that the city-sponsored annexation was "purely a camouflage action for development," despite city officials' denials. A Loch Lomond woman declared, "I have no faith or confidence in the city ability to control development. She cited "a long list of abortions starting with the Montecito shopping center where the yacht harbor used to be" as examples.

Other speakers opposed the annexation as "premature" until the city completes revision of its general plan. The county open space plan calls for much of the area to remain undeveloped, and annexation would boost its cost to any public agency acquiring it, others argued.

Robert Peterson, assistant executive officer for the local agency commission, also opposed the annexation. He noted that the landowners said they wanted better fire and police protection than the county could give, but questioned "the need for a full range of city services." He called for delay until a study is made on the effect of the property's potential future population on the surrounding area.

Tina Ferris of the Save San Pedro Peninsula group said Dan Coleman, Greenbrae planning consultant, had been discussing with Ho's company a proposal for "Sausalito type" development of the China Camp area. She called for hearings on tentative development plans or prezoning before allowing any annexation.

Peacock Gap Homeowners Association directors reported they unanimously voted for the annexation at a special meeting Tuesday, but numerous members of the homeowner group said they were opposed and had not been polled.

City Planning Director Herbert G. Hotchner took offense at criticism of developments in the city. "You've given Montecito and other horrible examples . . . they all happened 10 or 15 years ago . . . The council just adopted 15 pages of environmental controls. Please look at today and not the past."

William J. Bielser, assistant city manager, declared development of the property was impossible unless it also was annexed to San Rafael Sanitation District or Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District., which has not been requested. He added that San Rafael has adopted a moratorium on development and the city "finds no conflict" with county plans for open space on the peninsula. He said there had been no prezoning nor "guarantees of density to the owner."

Norris M. Rawles, administrator of the San Rafael Sanitation District, denied plans were pending for an assessment district to provide sewers in the property.

Bielser added that when the San Rafael city council held its annexation hearing on the parcel several months ago, "not one soul" protested.

Councilman John A. Miskimen assured the local agency commission that "we're very concerned with this property. We want it in the city so we can control it."

City officials and audience members also debated whether the city or county forces provide better fire and police protection.

Commission member Louis H. Baar moved approval of the annexation after noting "the people seem to feel if it stays in the county there is some panacea that nothing will happen . . . The main problem today" with the land is sewage, he said. "No sewers are available, so the fear of developing is rather remote."

Kissinger Plays Host To Russians

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, Calif. (UPI)—Dr. Henry Kissinger, President Nixon's chief foreign policy adviser, played host Wednesday night to Anatoly Dobrynin, Russian ambassador to the United States, and Mrs. Dobrynin at a Mexican restaurant called El Adobe.

Battle Over Dam Lost By MMWD

Little Nicasio Valley defeated an attempt by the relativelybig Marin Municipal Water District to take Nicasio Dam and Reservoir off the tax rolls last night.

The Marin Local Agency Formation Commission voted unanimously against allowing the water district to annex the reservoir, which is part of its water supply but far outside the rest of the district.

Harold A. Drady, Nicasio School District trustee, pointed out that the water district now pays some $11,000 a year in taxes to the county, the school district and other agencies. The reservoir land is assessed at $118,424, he said. Annexation by the district would have ended the tax payments.

The annexation originally was approved by the agency formation commission earlier this year, but officials discovered the school district had not been legally notified in time to protest.

The Local Agency Formation Commission also:

NOVATO — Postponed to Aug. 9, hearings on annexation of Olive Avenue Annexation No. 2 and Laguna Vista Drive Annexation No. 1.

PACHECO RANCH — After no speakers appeared pro or con, annexed to Novato the Pacheco Ranch property near Hamilton Air Force Base.

TENNIS — Approved the Sun Valley Tennis Club annexation to San Rafael.

BLACK CANYON — Approved annexation of the Black Canyon park and open space property to San Rafael.

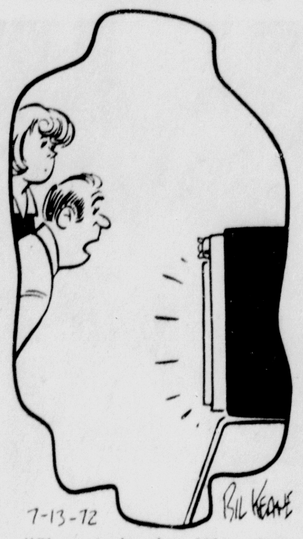

Utility Groups In Joint Talk

Officials of utility districts and private utilityfirms in Marin will discuss disaster plans at a meeting at 10:30 a.m. Monday in Marin Municipal Water District headquarters in Corte Madera.

Frank E. Kirby, county coordinator of emergency services, said plans have been completed for emergency cooperation by water, sewer and other utility districts with private firms under a central coordinating staff.

He said the need for such mobilization was shown by the February 1971 earthquake in the San Fernando Valley, where thousands of homes were left without sanitary facilities because of broken sewers or water lines.

(UPI Telephoto)

McGovern Talks To Angry Zippies

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — George McGovern took some of the zip out of the Zippies in a half-hour rap session with anti-war protesters Wednesday evening.

It was planned that way. For six hours, 10 dusty, long-hired demonstrators chanting "We Want McGovern" disrupted the functioning of the Doral Beach Hotel, one of the newest and most gilded of this resort's ocean palaces.

They blocked the elevators, sat en masse on the marble reception desk, taped a smashed McGovern button on the breast of a statue.

They gained entrance when McGovern, through an aide, requested that hastily-assembled state troopers with riot sticks and Mace canisters be withdrawn. Thereafter, no uniformed police were seen.

McGovern discussed the situation with aides in his 17th-floor penthouse. Finally, they decided McGovern could carry off a confrontation without loss of face.

But first a score of longhaired McGovern youth workers, many of whom look like clean copies of the demonstrators, were sent downstairs to mingle with the demonstrators and "cool it."

Then the South Dakotan, surrounded by Secret Service men and dressed casually in a blue, figured sports shirt and with a touch of make-up for the television cameras, descended a staircase to talk.

Standing before the jammed and sweating demonstrators, swelled by another 100 or more press people and curious, McGovern waited several minutes for a barrage of boos and epithets to subside until he could be heard.

"I make a flat pledge that if I become president of the United States, every American soldier, every American prisoner, every American man involved in the war in Southeast Asia will be removed," he declared.

He promised to ground the bombers and cut off aid to South Vietnam's President Nguyen VanThieu.

"I don't have any doubt within 90 days every American soldier will be home and that's the pledge I make to you."

Attempting to answer questions hurled at him by protest leaders with bullhorns, McGovern restated his views on the war, abortion and amnesty for draft dodgers. The demonstrators booed frequently. One of his most persistent questioners was a girl, Marty Reese, a leader of the Students for a Democratic Society (SDS).

"I am not prepared to recommend the complete legalization . . ." McGovern began but was drowned out in a roar of disapproval.

McGovern ended the rap session by pointing out that he could not agree with all the demands, nor were all the protesters able to agree among themselves.

"Let's have an understanding that while we disagree on some issues, there isn't any disagreement at all on the desperate need to improve communications in this country," he said, then turned up the stairs.

But the Zippies, some 75 strong, kept the party going. They filed into a 60-foot square room off the lobby entrance, sprawled on a plush red and gold-figured carpet, draped themselves over a decorative fountain and its surrounding balustrades.

Moving to a stage, they tore down a huge poster of McGovern's smiling face to go alongside a grim-visaged image of former President Lyndon B. Johnson stolen from Convention Hall last Sunday. Someone had painted a marijuana cigarette dangling from LBJ's lips.

The party continued calmly for another 2 1-2 hours. It ended quietly when the Zippies stole away with their posters.

Sen. Abraham Ribicoff had just finished speaking on the television set, nominating McGovern for president.

Outside Convention Hall

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (UPI)— This has been the "dress rehearsal" for the discontented, an exercise in political protest for those demanding immediate change.

Here they were, the leftist students, the dirt-poor blacks, the homosexuals, the religious cultists and the crippled veterans, sharing 33 acres of park seven blocks from a pink-and-blue convention hall where the Democratic party was selecting its next candidate for president.

"Hare Krishna. Hare Krishna. Hare Krishne. Hare, hare."

That was the beat of the drums and cymbals and chants in Flamingo Park, the encampment of the counter-culture for the duration of the Democratic National Convention this week.

Underneath a spreading banyan tree they passed the hat regularly to buy more pot.

There was "Holy Joe," a middle-age man toting shopping bags full of religious literature, who showed up daily to harangue the youths for "following the Communists on their path to hell."

There was a young Lesbian marching under the "Gay Power" banner who fell out in an epileptic fit on the pavement outside the convention hall.

There was a policemen who sprayed Mace as freely as underarm deodorant when demonstrators came too close to the hibiscus-hidden fence guarding the hall.

But no one seemed to take it all very seriossly, least of all the happy-go-lucky "Zippies," a splinter group of the Youth International Party which egged on the demonstrators in Chicago in 1968.

"This is like a dress rehearsal," said Zippie leader Pat Small, a black-bearded youth in trouble in the courts for throwing a pie at a Miami Beach councilman. "We'll have a lot more people in August when the Republicans get here."

While the biggest march on the Democratic Convention managed to muster only about 2,000 persons, several times as many protesters are expected in this sun-parched city when the GOP and President Nixon come to town.

The protesters had their fun.

Girls from the "Gay Power" movement kissed and hugged on the grass outside the hall and the males paraded in women's clothes.

The next night the same officer was seen shaking hands with each of the demonstrating veterans on their way to convention hall.

Roller Coaster Accident Fatal

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (UPI)— A teen-age boy was killed Wednesday when he fell out of a roller coaster car onto the tracks below and then was hit by the car on its return trip.

Police said a patrolman and a doctor rushed to the roller coaster's second level to try to remove the unidentified 13-year-old boy, who they said seemed to be still alive.

But the car came whizzing down the tracks, struck the teen-ager and threw him onto the roof of a lower-level building. He was dead when the policeman and doctor reached him.

4 Students Win Arts Awards

Four Marin County students have won superior awards in the 1972 Industrial Arts Exposition and Award Program of Cal Expo, the state fair to be held in Sacramento Aug. 25 to Sept. 13.

Awards went to Michael Kralka of 61 Mohawk Avenue, Corte Madera, Redwood High School; David Rossi of 18 Balboa Avenue, Tom Masterson of 242 Center Street and Louis Segale of 112 Dominican Drive, all San Rafael, and all of San Rafael High School.

The competition is co-sponsored by the state Department of Education and the State Exposition and Fair.

Social Lands See Struggle

By HARRY B. ELLIS
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

BONN — "Recently," declared Swedish Prime Minister Olof Palme, "there was a meeting of social democrats in my home outside Stockholm. Present were the Scandinavian prime minister and the chancellors of West Germany and Austria."

He paused. "The language we spoke was Swedish."

Willy Brandt of Germany and Bruno Kreisky of Austria — speaking Swedish? "That," replied Mr. Palme, "is a coincidence of history for which we can thank Adolf Hitler."

He meant that Chancellor Brandt, as a fiery young anti-Nazi socialist from northern Germany, and Chancellor Kreisky, the Jewish socialist son of a well-to-do Austrian textile manufacturer, had spent their Third Reich exile years in Scandinavia.

Now, nearly 30 years later, both men — and the Scandinavian socialists with whom they forged friendships during those tumultuous times — have reached the top of the political heap and head governments in their respective countries.

In each of their lands, the "social welfare" state — family allowances, unemployment compensation, old-age pensions, and the like — is complete, or nearly so. Where, then, does social democracy go next?

To learn the answer, I traveled to five European capitals for interviews with the government leaders responsible for charting the future of their respective political movements — Prime Ministers Palme of Sweden, Trygve Bratteli of Norway, Jens Otto Krag of Denmark and Chancellors Brandt and Kreisky.

For their socialist convictions, two of these men — Bratteli and Dr. Kreisky — were imprisoned by the Nazis, though the Austrian later found his way to Sweden. A third, Willy Brandt, fled from Nazi Germany to Norway and then to Sweden.

The toughness of these men in defense of their principles has been proved. Prime Ministers Palme and Krag also, though neither suffered jail or exile, have been committed socialists since youth.

"Political democracy," mused Bruno Kreisky, "is one thing and a good thing. But it is not enough — political democracy can create inhuman conditons for workers."

We sat in deep leather chairs in Dr. Kreisky's wood-paneled office, two rooms from the spot where an earlier Austrian chancellor, Engelbert Dollfuss, was assassinated in 1934.

"We must use the power in political democracy to make democracy more safe," Dr. Kreisky continued. "This is a permanent ongoing process, for society is always creating new conditions.

"For example, we must create more industry in Austria to pay for the social welfare state. But this industrialization is bad for the environment. So we have permanent dissatisfaction. . . . We must find answers."

He gave an instance. "For economic efficiency, we must create a giant iron and steel complex in Austria. Good! But what about self-determination for the 60,000 workers in the enterprise?

"We must," said Dr. Kreisky, "give more power to shop stewards," to regulate the conditions of work in the steel complex. He stressed the words "conditions of work."

He meant by this the extension of democracy beyond its political definition — election of a parliament and government at the polls — to new areas of social coexistence, specifically the factory floor.

"Industrial democracy" — this was the term used by Trygve Bratteli, a tall lean shoemaker's son who has governed Norway since March, 1971, speaking in his modern office, towering above the old town of Oslo.

"A law now before the Storting (Norweigian Parliament)," he explained, "would require a new body in the industrial structure — a factory council on which workers and white-collar employees would have one-third representation.

"Important questions," Bratteli emphasized, "involving the conditions of work, such as changes in production methods, should be decided by this council."

It was still undetermined, the prime minister added, whether these projected councils should elect the board of directors of each firm. "But it is clear," he said quietly, "that workers also must be represented on company boards."

Like Dr. Kreisky, Bratteli cited the need of his party to adapt to changing circumstances. "One problem is that the fundamentals of political activity are changing. Even 20 years ago the Norwegian labor force, tied to small farmers and fishermen, was growing.

"But in the last two decades," Bratteli said, "the industrial labor force has not grown at all." He leaned forward to emphasize. "Technological equipment and productivity are growing; but not the labor force.

"So," he concluded, "we must adapt the Norwegian Labor Party to the new circumstances. . . . These problems cannot be solved by one's attitude to special welfare programs."

It boiled down, the prime minister indicated, to one's concept of equality. "What is equality today?" he asked. "It must be equality of opportunity for jobs, schooling, mobility upward, housing."

He spoke feelingly about the difficulty of persuading working-class parents to send their children to universities, and of the need to get rid of the "old boy" network, "whose members tend to reserve privilege for those in the same class.

"We must," he declared, "get rid of privilege — so that the inherent advantage of the well-born is eliminated. We must give every young person an equal chance. This," said Bratteli, "does not exist in Norway today — except legally."

Jens Otto Krag, addressing himself to the same subject in his Christiansborg Palace office in Copenhagen, spoke of "economic democracy" — the need for workers to share in both plant management and ownership of enterprises, the latter perhaps through stock shares.

Apart from this, his Social Democratic government hoped to introduce a system of "real school education" for industrial apprentices, to narrow the gap between them and white-collar workers.

Olof Palme, Sweden's young socialist leader, called the process "equalizing upward." He spoke of "recurring education" for adults, to lessen their sense of isolation in a technological society, and to the right of workers to help shape their conditions of work, through voting participation on management boards.

Willy Brandt, reflecting on the future of social democracy, spoke, as had the others, of the need to "introduce new elements of democracy into spheres where it has not been practiced yet."

West Germany, he remarked, was experimenting with "Mitbestimmung" (co-determination), whereby workers' delegates in the coal and steel industry hold seats on management boards. Brandt's government wants to extend this concept in some form to other industrial branches, though, he said, "We do not have the final answer yet, as I see it."

Also important to Mr. Brandt is the accumulation of private capital by members of the working class. He described how West German workers, if they agree to save up to 642 marks (about $200) yearly of their wages, receive a government supplement and also tax advantages. Fourteen million employees so far were enrolled in the plan.

"This," said the chancellor, "will give those groups who are included, after 10 years or less, 10,000 marks (about $3,150) which is very much for those who haven't savings of their own — because it gives them a little kind of independence."

"In a country like this," he added, "where so many people live on so little soil, I think we will not be able to go on with just the same principles of untouched private ownership of land in the overcrowded cities.

"Even as far as residential land is concerned, it must become easier than it is now to (acquire) land if it really is needed for purposes of the city. Of course, then, under a fair compensation — not only as far as money is concerned, but also to give people new land where they can build their houses," outside the centers of cities.

"Since land," he continued "is a good which you cannot multiply, it is an area where the principle of private ownership — in which I believe — has to be combined, as already our Basis Law says, with a reasonable amount of social responsibility."

Clearly all five of these European leaders start from the premise that, beyond social welfare, social democracy must expand the influence of workers on the plant floor, in the board room and in the sphere of private ownership — so that working-class families will become more conscious of their own stake in the existing system.

"Social democracy," declared Bruno Kreisky, "is (to the worker) the only alternative to communism."

Willy Brandt put it another way. "I think, if we do not find answers to these two problems of a reasonable degree of co-determination and a reasonable process of promoting private capital in the hands of many, then we will get a radical answer to the exisitng system. . . and a challenge from the radical socialists or — since the Communists are often in the mood of becoming the conservatives in many areas — from groups left of the traditional Communists."

A striking feature of all five lands under consideration — Norway, Denmark, Sweden, West Germany and Austria is that they are free-enterprise lands, based on the principle of private ownership. None of their leaders would change this.

Nor do any of them plan to nationalize segments of industry for doctrinaire reasons. Each sees areas, within the economy of his own country, where the government should intervene to bolster an inefficient branch or — through the allocation of resources — to stimulate or retard production. All five men stressed that such intervention would be "pragmatic."

Did this not mean, I asked, that their governments were in fact "administering capitalism"?

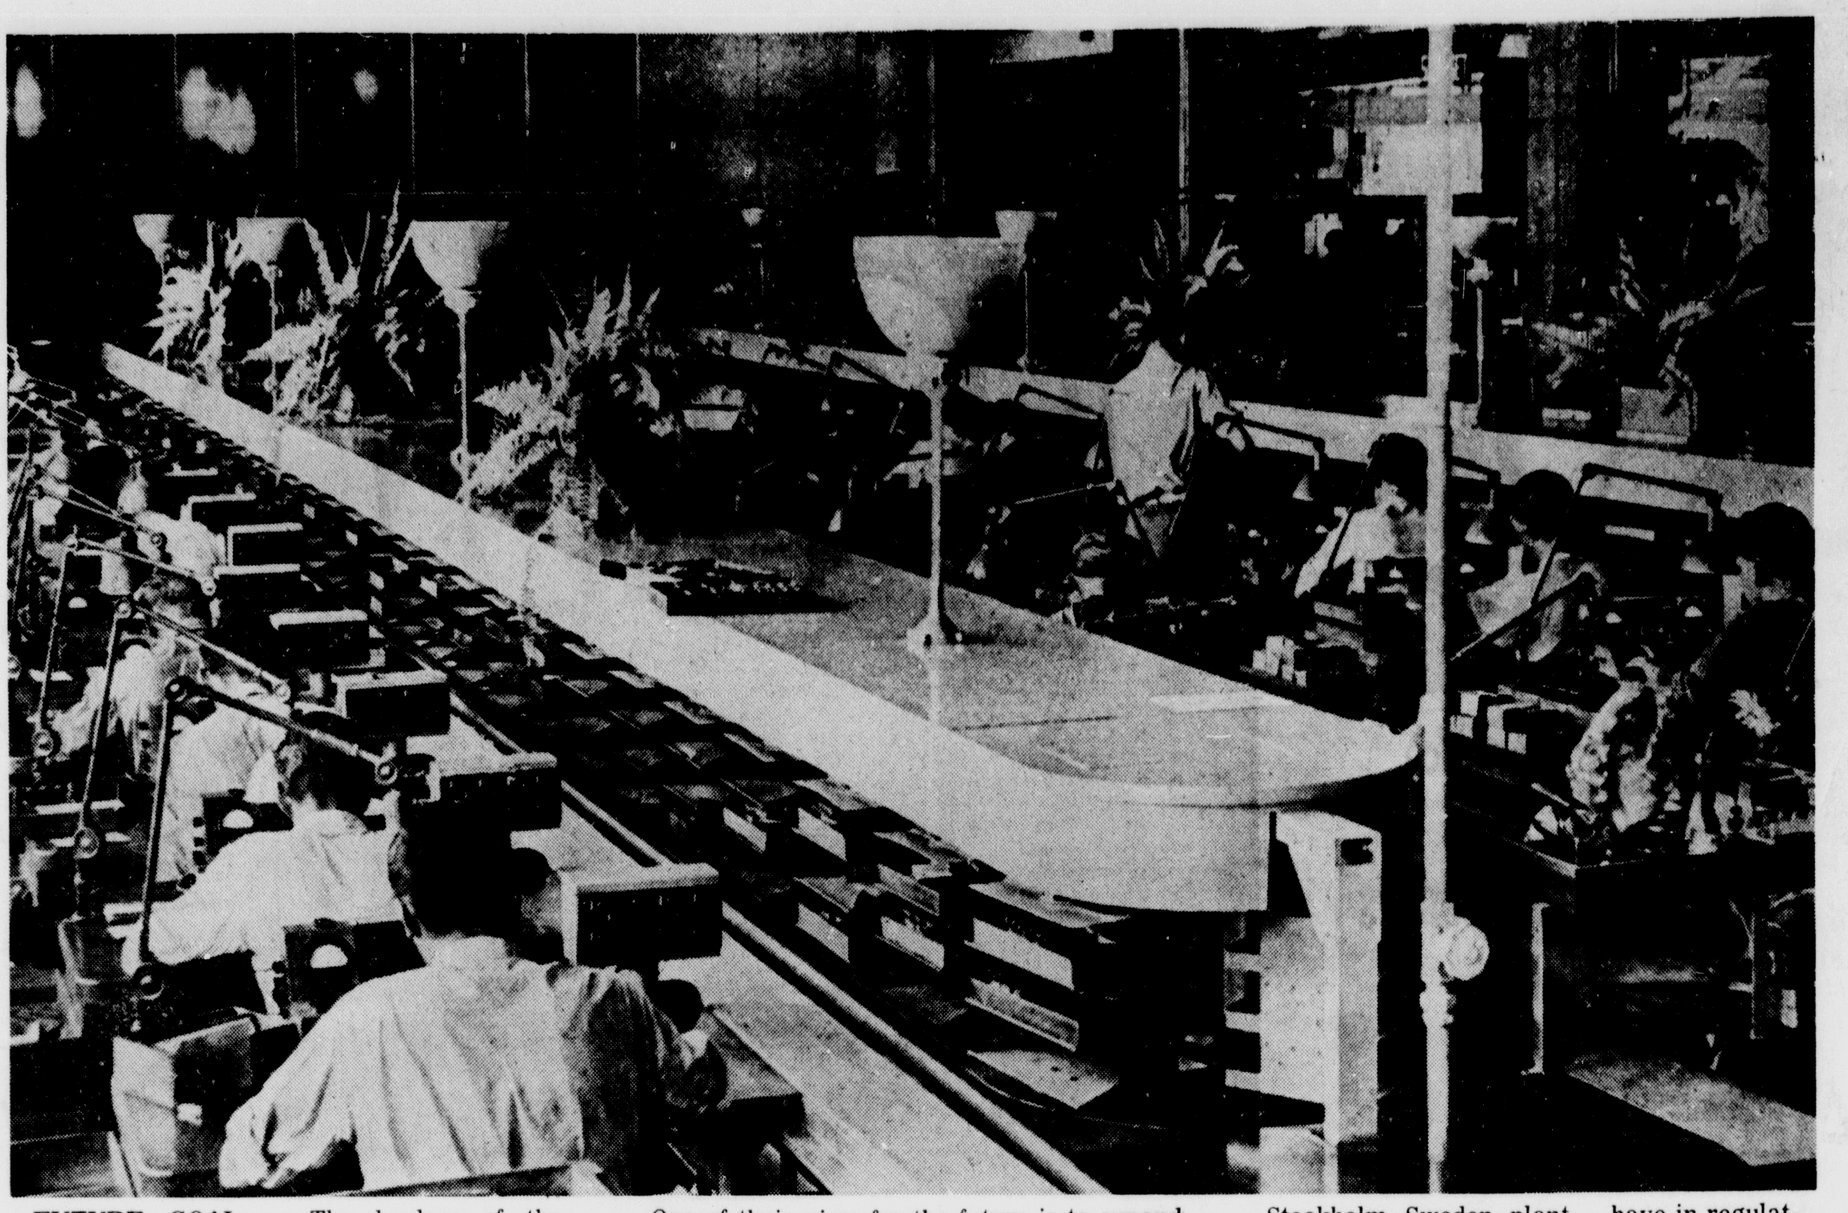

"Well," answered Brandt, "to a certain degree it does. But we then come at once to the problem of terminology. That kind of capitalism which we manage to a certain degree. . . is not the kind of capitalism vis-a-vis on which social democracy was built up last century. It already includes a number of those elements for which. . . social democrats were working.

"What one could call capitalism includes already — not enough, I think —a number of not only social correctives, but also a number of nonprofit and nonindividual influences, as far as management is concerned."

Each in his own way, these five leaders expressed quiet conviction about the rightness of social democracy, as the path his country should follow. Yet each one knows that the weight of nonsocialist opinion in his own land is strong — often outvoting the socialists, unless the latter combine with other leftist or liberal elements.

Trygve Bratteli summed it up for them all. As in the past, so in the future, "The next steps in social democracy may entail a period of confusion and struggle."

FUTURE GOAL — The leaders of the movement for social democracy in Europe have many goals, both present and future. One of their aims for the future is to expand the role which workers — such as these shown assembling telephone relays in a Stockholm, Sweden, plant — have in regulating the conditions under which they must work. FOOT TRAFFIC. . . AND DRUG TRAFFIC? — This is a street scene in Kabul, Afghanistan, where professionals reportedly are taking over the drug trade as authorities step up attempts to curb the flourishing amateur trade.

Afghanistan And The Drug Trade

By Bernd Debusmann
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

KABUL Afghanistan — Organized crime is moving into Afghanistan now that authorities here are slowly beginning to respond to Western pressure to curb the flourishing drug trade.

For the amateur hoping to finance his vacation by smuggling out small amounts of drugs or for the young traveler trying to take drugs out to finance his next trip along the hippie trail to Katmandu, Kabul airport has been effectively sealed.

And since a Dutch girl was caught at the airport with 500 morphine tablets bought over the counter in one of the capital's many drugstores, it is no longer easy to obtain hard drugs that way.

But according to well-informed Western sources, large consignments of narcotics, mainly hashish, now are airfreighted out of Kabul by professionals. Drugs are also moved by land across the eastern frontier with Pakistan and the western border with Iran.

"We know that professionals have been more and more active in the last 10 months, and we are worried," said one diplomat. "They are highly organized, have plenty of funds and excellent connections."

It is only a matter of time, Western sources believe, before international syndicates will start large-scale processing of raw opium into morphine base — much easier to conceal — in this country.

Conditions are ideal. Opium is grown in large quantities, wide areas of the country are nearly impossible for police to cover, and underpaid customs men and police are easily tempted by bribes big operators can afford to pay.

Western concern over the activity of professional criminals is reflected by the presence in Kabul of an agent of the U.S. Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs. A team of German advisers is working with the Aghan police.

But despite airport arrests, occasional big hauls such as the seizure of liquid hashish concentrate (hashish oil) worth $6 million earlier this year, and closer control of drugstores, Afghan authorities still regard drug-taking and trafficking an essentially Western problem that should be solved by the West. Few Afghans take drugs to excess.

"The Afghans are not launching any investigations on their own initiative and have an indifferent attitude," said an authoritative source.

The key word in the drug traffic complex is money.

It takes money to finance large-scale smuggling involving payoffs to customs and police and payment of syndicate supervisors and runners. The big operators have it.

It takes money to raise an efficient police force. At present, the standard of the Afghan police force is as low as the pay. A lieutenant makes less than $25 a month. Some 95 per cent of the police force — in line with the rest of the country — is illiterate.

Afghanistan, one of the world's least developed countries, lacks the cash necessary to overhaul the police and customs machinery.

It would take vastly more money to introduce control of, or a ban on, the cultivation of opium poppy and cannabis (the source of hashish). Aghan farmers making a living on the two plants would have to be compensated for switching to less lucrative crops.

To recoup his annual losses, an Afghan poppy farmer would have to harvest a non-poppy crop three times in a year — difficult in a country with long, bitingly cold winters and blistering summers.

Most of the raw opium currently exported from Afghanistan is carried across the desert into Iran by camel caravans. Although at least 130 smugglers have been executed since the Tehran government introduced extremely harsh laws in 1970, the flow continues unabated.

Most of the opium smuggled into Iran is for internal consumption, thgugh a small part is understood to be processed into heroin or morphine base in primitive laboratories. Informed sources in Kabul say there is no indication of a major flow of raw opium from Afghanistan to European processing laboratories.

Consequently, Western efforts aimed at combating the drug traffic center on the export of hashish. Some observers challenge the wisdom of this.

"The result of a crackdown on hashish," said one, "is an increase in price in Europe and the United States. Dealers respond by temporarily reducing the price of hard drugs, knowing that kids eager for kicks will switch to heroin or morphine. People hooked on hard drugs are better customers than potheads. The problem gets worse."

Many young travelers who head east each year in search of adventure, "spiritual illumination," or just what connoisseurs consider the world's most seductive hashish try hard drugs for the first time in Afghanistan.

Some pay a high price. The seedy side of the drug scene is seedy indeed, with young people starving because they no longer have the energy or money to go out to buy food; others so strung out on hard drugs that they no longer bother to take elementary care of themselves.

EXPERIMENTING CAMPUS

Hampshire: A Platonic College

By KENNETH G. GEHRET
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

AMHERST, Mass. — For eleven and one-half days the 35 students representing the campus Third World Organization occupied the science building of Hampshire College.

During this period these minority-group members — blacks, latinos, and orientals — negotiated their differences with administrators and faculty. Satisfied that their complaints were understood and that the administration would respond to them, the students filed out of the occupied building and returned to their studies.

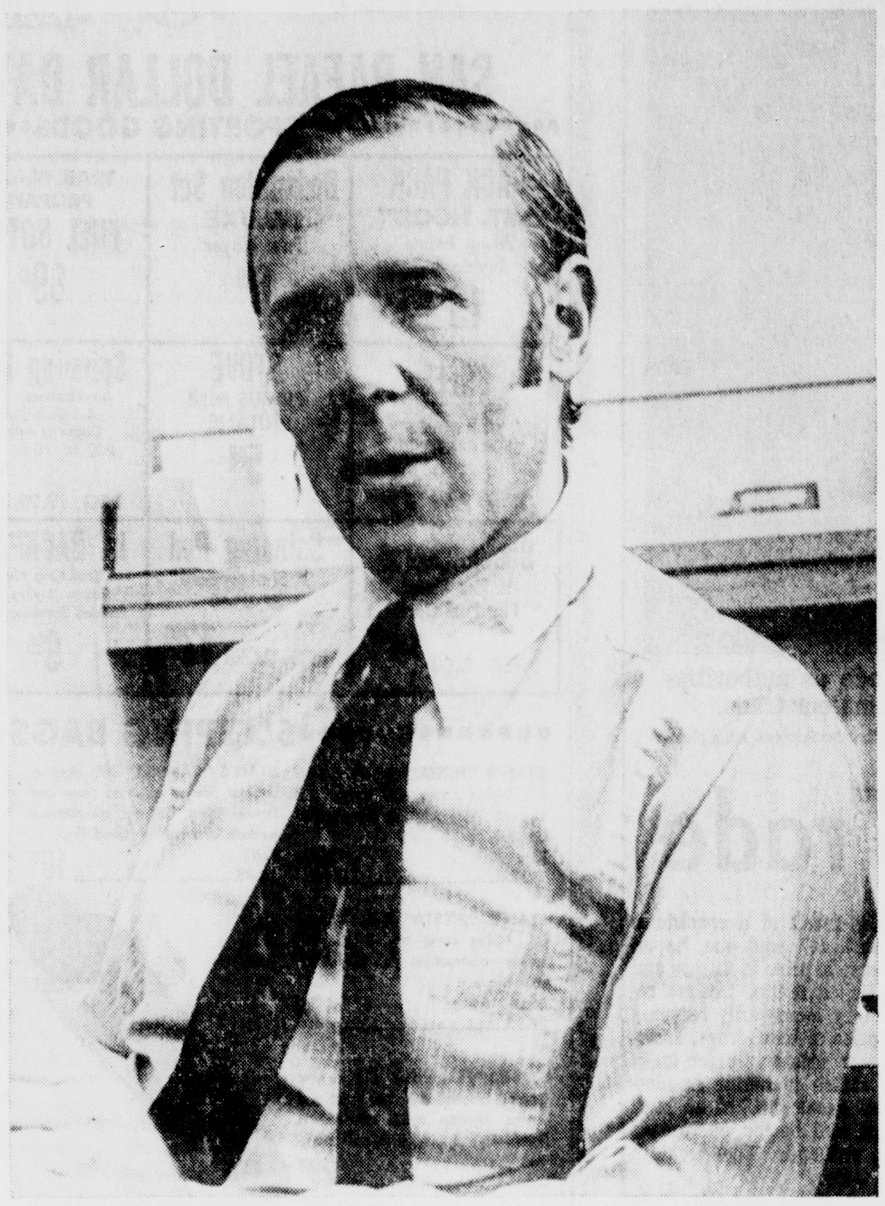

There was no physical damage, a minimum of class disruption. And no acrimony, according to Charles R. Longsworth, president of Hampshire.

When Longsowrth entered the science building after the sit-in, he found on a door a poster depicting the president's profile, with this inscription: "Welcome back, Chuck! (Guess who?) This is just the beginning of a beautiful relationship."

Longsworth pointedly referred to the incident a week later in the course of an interview, to indicate the kind of relationship that exists on the new campus.

"We are building an institution together; we all have a stake in the results," he commented. "The students know this. The members of the Third World Organization simply wanted to make a point, and they did."

An outsider might conclude that the campus administrator had capitulated to unreasonable student demands. He is quick to deny it. Greater third-world representation among faculty, students, and staff; participation by the organization in selection of these faculty and administrators; increased emphasis on third-world perspectives in the curriculum; expanded financial aid to all needy students — these are goals to which Longsworth says he subscribed before the sit-in.

DIFFERING VIEWS — President Charles Longsworth of Hampshire College in Amherst, Mass., feels that "honest disagreements" need not hamper relations between concerned students and school administrators.

The trim, straight-talking executive doesn't look for conformity. He expects differences and considers them healthy.

He said in a state-ot-the-college address two days before the third-world incident:

"No single set of assumptions is adequate to comprehend Hampshire College. Neither my view nor yours is, can or should be universally shared . . . Thus the fact that we sometimes, perhaps often, disagree doesn't necessarily mean that I am stupid or that you are, that either of us is malevolent, stubborn, or vindictive. As long as we behave according to what we believe . . . we can and will have honest disagreements.

"We do differ and we do agree, and we are working together."

There is indeed diversity on the Hampshire campus, but also a unity and a pulling together to achieve a common objective — the success of a new approach to higher education.

Hampshire is an "experimenting" college; it is not in itself an experiment, its president maintains, but its methods are.

Flexibility is a key to its organization. Students are not designated as freshmen, sophomores, etc. They move to different "divisons" when ready. There's nothing magic about a four-year span for a degree at Hampshire; a student may spend more or less time in its pursuit, and he may take a leave from his studies along the way. Programs are highly individualized.

Small colleges tend to be informal. People get together easily; sharing and participating come naturally. But at Hampshire it's more than happenstance. Here bringing people together and getting them involved is official policy, a part of educational planning.

This is evident in channels set up for student input. "Students sit on the board," Longsworth points out. "They are involved in course evaluation and in the evaluation of professors. Of the seven members on the reappointment (of faculty) committee, two are students."

Togetherness and responsibility are even more apparent in living arrangements. Co-ed dormitories are standard at Hampshire, though provision is made for students who prefer unisex accommodations. In Merrill House, for example, 220 students are living in mixed suites and 30 in single-sex suites. Each suite consists of 20 single rooms with a kitchenette, living room, and two baths.

Longsworth stresses "the validity of residential colleges." He is convinced that a sense of community is lost when students commute. So he is trying to hold students on campus, against something of a national trend toward in-town apartment living, by building apartments on the grounds.

Two such "modules" are in use and three more will be ready by fall. Each houses 44 students, with about five to an apartment. Men and women share these apartments.

How does the arrangement work out?

"It's a valuable educational experience," Longsworth replies. "People assume roles; it's a synthetic family. There's usually one member who insists on keeping things cleaned up, and that may turn out to be a male rather than a female. It's another way of learning responsibility.

"Our students agree that this is the most platonic college in the country. There's a strong emergence of the incest taboo. It's something I wouldn't have believed two years ago. They treat each other as people, not objects."

This focus on helping young people to mature is basic to Longsworth's concept of Hampshire. He remarks.

"This is not a radical institution where every student and faculty member is encouraged or expected to give free rein to his own expression, his own interests, and his own standards of performance, behavior, and attitude without regard for others.

"Hampshire's greatest concern is for the individual human being and his development. This concern is most evident in the strong emphasis on helping the student become aware of his responsibilities as a human, encouraging him to make choices and to have the discipline and courage to live with the consequences of his decisions."

The purposes, structure, and programs of Hampshire are close to Longsworth's heart. He helped formulate them.

The innovating educator joined the Hampshire venture in 1965, when he served as chairman of the Hampshire College Educational Trust, which had responsibility for forming the college. He then served as vice-president of the college for five years, until his election as president last June.

With Dr. Franklin Patterson, the institution's first president, Longsworth wrote "The Making of a College" (MIT Press, 1966), the blueprint for Hampshire.

The college was founded as a cooperative venture by Amherst, Mount Holyoke, and Smith Colleges and the University of Massachusetts, with substantial funding by the Ford Foundation and other supporters.

Home Brew Up In Australia

SYDNEY (UPI) —Statistics show that the beer swallowed each year by Aussies averages out to 27.1 gallons (Imperial) per head of population.

But pub owners and brewers say that doesn't tell the whole story because of the increasing numbers of Australians who are brewing their own.

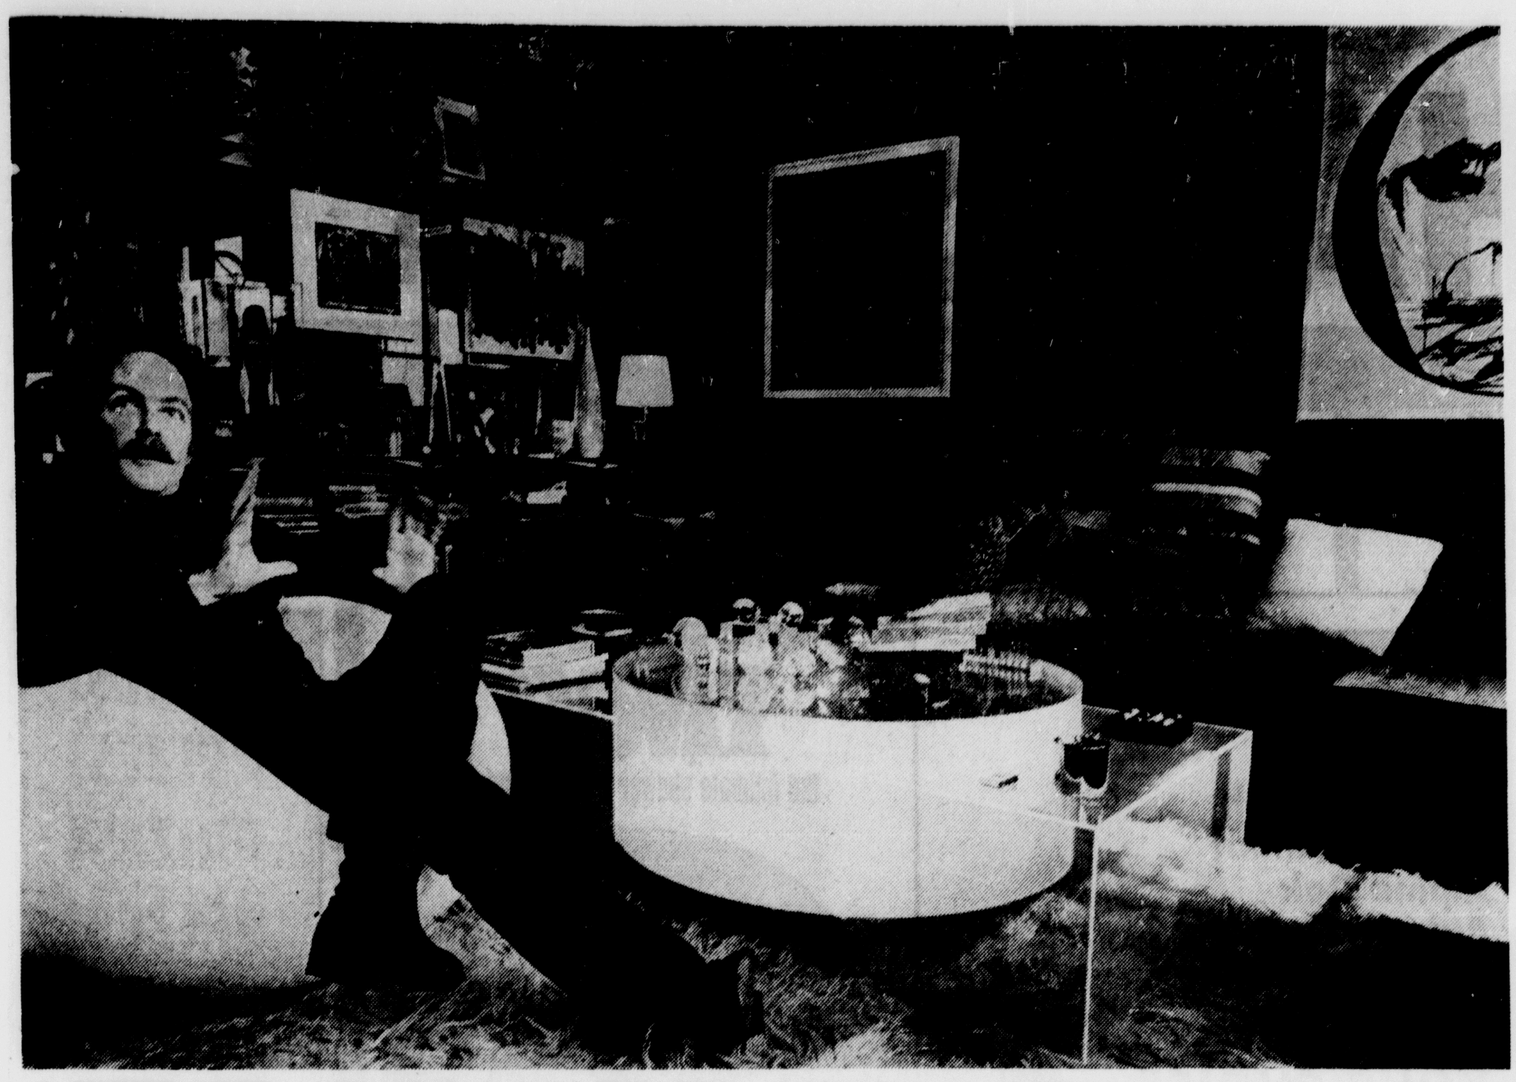

"If they include the home brew now being bottled throughout the country, they'd find the average well over 30 gallons per man," one brewery spokesman said.

A 'BRIGHT' FUTURE

Two Designers Touting Neon

By MARILYN HOFFMAN
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

NEW YORK — "Neon looks like 'zap' with its high-energy output and touch imagery," says designer John Harris, who lives and works in a studio near Greenwich Village. He and another New York designer, Clyde Rich, tout its virtues.

"A lot of people are trying it," says Harris. "You can cover a whole wall if you want to. In an all-white room you can introduce with it any color — or colors. I think of it as a way to draw in space."

"Neon is beautiful," he continues, "but actually it is very difficult for craftsmen to bend glass like that." At that moment he was standing beneath "Glowing Gas in Glass" scribbled in neon. The words looked as if they had been smoothly squeezed from a toothpaste tube.

Novelty? Perhaps. But those designers who are innovative enough to experiment with neon think its future is as bright as the gaseous light itself.

"We have only just started to explore neon," declares Rich. "We are using it now to give dramatic emphasis, but in the future it will be applied, as well, in places where we won't even see it."

It was a neon-accented interior of a Manhattan pied-a-terre apartment that won Rich a recent honorable mention in S. M. Hexter's Best Interior of the Year competition. Here, he arched a doorway in white neon tubing, and gave it a rheostat control so it could be dimmed to preference.

The arch effectively frames a revolving neon circle of marigold color that turns round and round over the dining table and bathes all guests in soft apricot light. Dining-room walls are covered with dark brown velvet, and the carpet is marigold orange.

And he likes the look of illuminated furniture, too. A table he designed and had made for himself involves Plexiglas, motors, gears, and neon lights. Custom-made, it cost $2,000. It has an interior turntable with propellers that project six colors of neon light against glistening Plexiglas. "It creates a beautiful mood and one that my guests always enjoy" says the designer. He has been using lighted plastic cubes for at least 15 years, and he likes the look of a round plastic table top over an illuminated Plexiglas drum.

"Most New York apartments," Rich says, "are unbearably dull and lacking in any real spatial interest." He therefore employs every trick he knows to develop new dimensions in them. Wall and ceiling mirror, though expensive, is worth, he contends, all that it costs. He spent $900 to mirror part of his ceiling, and certain wall areas, but he exclaims, "how they extend and explode the space and fill the eye!"

He reckons that he has at least 50 sources of light in his one-room apartment. He individually lights plants, pictures, sculpture, and draperies, and thinks that any home can look more interesting at night than during the day.

He combines a Regency bamboo chest and a British sea captain's chest of camphor wood and teak with modern Italian stacking chairs, and illuminated Plexiglas pieces of his own design. Low Finnish tub chairs, molded of polyester fiber-glass, and designed by Aero Aarnio, are Rich's idea of a "lot of good-looking comfort for a mere $144."

When he moved into his small apartment, his 16-foot span of window let in a panoramic skyscrape that he enjoyed. Last year a huge new building loomed up to cut off his view. He quickly reoriented his room, from outward look, to inward coziness. "I compensated for lack of view by drawing the eye inward," Rich explains.

"I've filled my window with plants, hung a colorful Miro painting against one pane and silhouetted many beautiful objects against the glass. This is a trick, but now I don't miss my distant vista. I distract the eye with something else of interest."

Harris is an inventive young man who majored in architectural design at the University of Oregon and in design at Cranbrook Academy of Art. He decided six years ago when he came to New York that, in his hands, furniture could be a real art form. He also utilized the skills of five old-time craftsmen that he found in his neighborhood. Together, they have been a productive studio.

"Since artists in every age seek to work in new materials, I decided then to work in Plexiglas," the young designer explained. "I liked the idea of transparency and the effect of light and shadow."

"Two years ago I first saw his Plexiglas pieces at Luten-Clarey-Stern showrooms here. They had the quality of furniture truly of its time — pristine and pure. Suddenly Bergdorf Goodman had to have one of his $600 Plexiglas entageres to complement its antique-accessories department. The Simmons Company last year engaged him to design a Plexiglas bed with illuminated base, which can be custom ordered through stores for $1,000.

"Plexiglas is the most elegant of materials, and it has done all that I wanted," he says now. "But it is very expensive and it scratches too easily." He uses his own handsome $180 Plexiglas chairs at his round dining table — the top is butcher block. But now he is turning to the other "new" materials, as he looks into the future. He is playing with the idea of tables made of the tinted glass used in car windshields. And his newest "chemical-furniture" idea is coated styrene plastic, by which tables can be made to sell for $10.

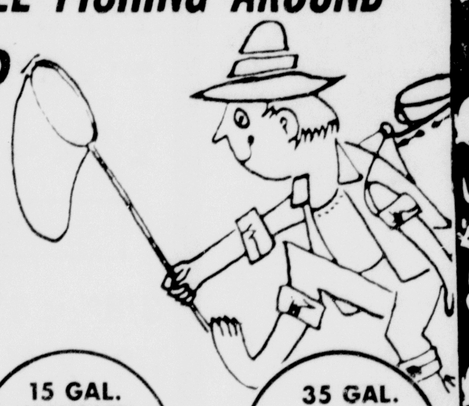

And throw-away furniture will be just around the corner. Cubes and geometric shapes, sprayed with a durable protective coating, will produce put-together chairs, sofas, and ottomans. He terms his technique of inexpensive production a breakthrough and already is working on prototype designs of furniture and children's playthings in styrene plastic. Surfers in California have for some time, he says, been riding surfboards of similarly coated styrene plastic.
